Don Poncho's Philosophy He Regrets the Days of Old His Father's Indians Died No Money, Unlimited Wealth

—By Arthur Brisbane—

HEARST RANCH, San Simeon, Cal., Dec. 8—Don Poncho, Good American of Spanish descent, born on the edge of the Pacific, just below here, near Cambria, says:

"I'll take you over to the hill above Marmolejo you can see very far from there. How far? To New York, nearly."

The earth's rotundity, and many modern contraptions do not limit Don Poncho. He takes you long miles, on horseback, of course, early in the morning, to the hill above Marmolejo, shows you a stately group of mountains, including Lucia, far to the north, all the while explaining that the world is changing, for the worse.

"I'll tell you what's the matter with this country. You know it yourself. It's the automobile. That costs money, makes people lazy. People in San Simeon get in the automobile to go down to the store. Automobiles and trucks always running from this ranch to San Luis Obispo and back, bringing people, taking them away.

"We used to hitch six horses to a wagon, once a month, drive to San Luis one day, drive back the next, spend four bits. That was living."

When Don Poncho, years ago, went to Sacramento to bring back a bunch of horses, including "one wild horse, a brown stud," it was his first and only trip to such a distance. Persuaded to enter an automobile, after a few moments he seized the driver by the neck and ordered him to stop. He went after the brown wild horse on foot, roped him in the corral, "and you never saw such a good horse. We worked and rode him 20 years."

Once, in early automobile days, when a motorist drove too fast through a herd of steers that Don Poncho was driving, the latter first protested courteously, then dropped his rope around the motorist's shoulders, dragged him out of his car and to the police station.

Blood will tell. Don Poncho could give lessons in manners to anyone lacking his Spanish ancestral line. You could send the average second generation of American go-getters to "prep" school, New England college, and over to Oxford, to be ironed out by experts, and that American, compared to Don Poncho, would be like Sancho Panza compared to his master, Don Quixote.

He tells you with a smile that h was "born on a horse," and now, with his 80th year behind him, rides his 30 or 40 miles, straight as an arrow, amazed if asked "are you tired," throws his leg over a 16-hand horse as gracefully and lightly as he did 50 years ago, and says "I take you a better ride tomorrow, only longer."

Those that gather and preserve fragments of early American history should talk with Don Poncho. He can tell of life on his father's ranch, at the edge of this ocean, when queer speakers of English, out here, thinking of nothing but gold, were curiosities.

"My father had a hundred Indians working on his ranch, good vaqueros too, could rope cattle and break a horse as well as anybody. Every week we'd kill a beef or two for the Indains.

"How much my father paid them? Two or three dollars a month. We gave them food and clothes, like the missions did. When they got the two or three dollars they went and got drunk; no use giving them more. Then smallpox came and they all died, and all the other Indians died in all directions. We had only two or three left out of 100 Indians."

Certain gentlemen who declare that vaccination is not necessary should remember that those dead Indians had never been vaccinated. Nobody of Don Pancho's family died of smallpox.

What a pleasure to meet a man who lives close to the earth, and appreciates it, knows every trail over mountains and through valleys from here to San Francisco, and loves them all.

To Don Poncho the comparative value of various grasses for cattle, the length and depth of their roots, enabling them to fight through drought, their quick response to rainfall, are as important as Aluminum Company of America, "Big Steel," with its gyrations, or the changing value of gold to the hurried money mob that

LINDBERGHS SUMMONED HOME; ARRIVE IN PARA

Rio De Janeiro, Dec. 8 (AP)—The Maritime police said today its radio station had picked up a wireless message addressed to Col. Charles A. Lindbergh from the United States saying he and his wife must return home immediately because of family interests. The couple arrived in Para, Brazil, at 1:30 p. m. this afternoon, making the 1094 miles from Natal at a speed of approximately 150 miles an hour. It had been reported Col. Lindbergh was planning a trip up the Amazon to hunt white pygmies.

LAYDEN TO REPLACE ANDERSON AT NOTRE DAME

McELROY KIDNAPING AIDE GETS 8 YEARS

Kansas City, Dec. 8 (AP)—Clarence Click was convicted by a jury today of participation in the kidnaping of Miss Mary McElroy, daughter of City Manager Henry F. McElroy, and was sentenced to eight years in the penitentiary.

REVERE MAN HIT BY STREET CAR

Antonio Lonzo, 56, of 41 George st., Revere, was seriously injured today when he was struck by an Eastern Mass. street car on Revere st., near St. Anthony's church, Revere. He was removed to the Winthrop Community hospital with possible fracture of the skull and internal injuries.

U. S. AWAITS BOSTON POLICE RADIO ACTION

Washington, Dec. 8 (INS)—With technical conferences completed, the Federal Radio Commission today anticipated the filing of an application by the Boston police department to use a two-way radio communication system. Police Commr. Hultman and radio engineers discussed the project yesterday with commission technicians.

GOVERNOR'S 2 AIDS ABSENT IN CROWD

De Wolf and Ray Obey Order for Example; Police Ousted

Gov. Ely denounced political interference with Boston liquor licenses today, but in defiance of his wishes, politicians again were in abundance at the offices of the Boston Licensing Board.

The flurry which occurred late yesterday afternoon when the governor's private secretary crashed past the long line of applicants and the governor's personal messenger tried to do likewise only to be barred by a policeman, brought Gov. Ely's statement.

"I am anxious to keep the question of politics out of politics," he said, gravely, speaking by telephone from his home at Westfield.

WANTS EXAMPLE SET

"My own office should set the example.

"I see no more harm in those fellows going down there than anyone else active in politics, but I think they should set the right example."

By "those fellows," the Governor meant his secretary, Dewitt C. DeWolf and his messenger, Thomas M. Ray.

Ray, who last night denied having gone to the License Board offices, although even DeWolf admitted Ray was there, changed today and said he was "pushed in."

"I was down there to straighten out the matter of rent of a building where a fellow wanted to get a liquor license," said Ray.

"I was talking to Rep. John Mahoney of Boston, and standing near the doorway of the Licensing Board. The crowd started pushing and pushed me right into the office."

The policeman who pushed him out was not there today, having been mysteriously removed shortly

PRISONER IN PITTSFIELD FEARS MOB

Take Negro in Chains to Face Trial for Attack on Girl

By ARTHUR J. QUINN

Pittsfield, Dec. 8—Fear of mob violence caused a temporary postponement today of the arraignment here of James Coles, 22-year-old Negro charged with criminally assaulting Miss Harriet Richards, local beautician.

Handcuffed to a state trooper and pleading for protection, Coles was taken from Springfield jail to the state police barracks. It is expected he will be brought here later today.

"Look out for me," he whispered to State Detective Richard N. Cotter, who drove him from Springfield. He was shackled to Sergt. James R. Horgan of the Northampton barracks.

POLICE CHANGE PLANS

It was originally intended to bring Coles here first for arraignment on the attack charge and then to take him to Lee to plead to the robbery warrant but the gathering of a small crowd at the local courthouse caused police to switch their plans.

The 60 seats in the courtroom were early filled and a few minutes after court was scheduled to open a crowd of about 60 men had assembled outside. Six state troopers will be assigned here when the arraignment takes place.

Coles and Nicholas Waycovich, a white man, are alleged to have seized a bus at gunpoint Wednesday night. Coles alone is charged with the attack on Miss Richards, a passenger in the bus. Waycovich held the bus driver, Clarence Burnett, at gunpoint during a wild ride which ended when troopers overhauled the bus in New York State.

GIRL UNDER TREATMENT

Miss Richards, an attractive blonde of 25, will not face Coles in lower court. She is still under a doctor's care in a condition bordering on hysteria.

Although yesterday she retracted the story she had been attacked, her attorney, John Cummings, announced today that when the case goes to trial she will testify Coles assaulted her.

Waycovich, who is in jail at Troy, N. Y., will probably be brought here tomorrow for arraignment. He will waive extradition. Authorities are convinced he was concerned only in the robbery and that he may have been unaware of Coles' activities in the back of the bus which, for many miles he drove himself one-handed, threatening Burnett with a gun held in the other.

LAW PLANS SPEED

Quick grand jury action and trial as early as Jan. 15 with a demand for a life sentence for Coles if he is convicted of the attack, were promised by Asst. Dist. Atty. Harold Goewey.

What Fire Truck Did to Auto

This is the sedan of Prof. John O. Wellman of Medbury rd., Durham, N. H. Before a fire truck hit it, damaging the truck as much, it did not look like this. The accident happened at Central and Highland aves., Somerville, today. Two women and three men are in hospitals. (Boston American photo.)

FIVE INJURED SERIOUSLY IN FIRE TRUCK COLLISION

N. H. Professor, Girl, Mother, 2 Somerville Firemen Are Hurt

Prof. Justin O. Wellman of the University of New Hampshire, his daughter, Mrs. Eleanor Lord, and his granddaughter, Virginia Lord, 6, are dying in Somerville hospitals today from injuries received when their sedan was completely wrecked by Engine 1 of the Somerville fire department at Central and Highland aves., Somerville.

Firemen Jeremiah Sullivan and John Connolly are at the Somerville hospital with injuries to their backs. They were thrown from the apparatus.

Prof. Wellman and his daughter are unconscious at the Somerville hospital. The granddaughter has a fractured skull, fractured jaw and a fratured right lef at the Central hospital.

The fire apparatus was responding to an alarm for a fire in an automobile truck at Wyatt and Beacon sts. Prof. Wellman's sedan was crossing Highland ave., when it was struck by the fire engine.

The crash hurled the automobile against a tree with such force that the car was cut in two.

Prof. Wellman had been visiting friends at Harvard University and was returning to his home in Durham when the crash occurred.

JUDGE 'FIRES' 12 JURORS

Judge Joseph Walsh, in Superior Court today, dismissed from further service 12 jurors who brought in not guilty verdicts in a breaking and entering and larceny case against John Woods and John Flynn, both of South Boston. The judge failed to give any reason for his dismissal of the jurors. According to one of the 12, the judge refused their request that he xplain the dismissal of them.

FORD TO WAR ON 'SPEAKIES'

The full force of his authority as Federal prosecutor in this district was promised today by U. S. Atty. Francis J. W. Ford, classmate of President Roosevelt at Harvard, in a national campaign to wipe out the speakeasy, the bootlegger and the gangster.

Public officials, college students and others are enthusiastically joining in the movement to end the sway of the bootlegger and make it possible for legal distributors, purveying good liquor and reasonable prices, to exist.

Relentless warfare is promised the illicit liquor crowd by Foord. He intends to ask jail for all offenders in this line.

3 BOATS CRASH IN CAPE CANAL

Two Boston freight liners, Sandwich and Sagamore, sister ships of the Eastern Steamship Lines, collided in the Cape Cod canal this afternoon and the Sandwich, steering off after the blow, rammed and sank a barge.

Two men aboard the barge, "L. and W. B. C. No. 1." owned by the Cullen Transportation Co., New York, were rescued by the crew of a tugboat.

Neither the Sandwich nor Sagamore was seriously damaged and each proceeded after the crash, the Sandwich for Boston, the Sagamore for New York. As far as could be learned, no one was injured.

'Mercy Killing Just Plain Savagery'

Mercy? Murder? Natural death?

James Stephens said it was mercy to kill his aunt to relieve her of her sufferings from an incurable disease.

Atlanta, Ga. police said it was murder.

But a coroner's jury has set young Stephens free, justifying his deed.

Fannie Hurst and other noted writers discuss this strange new "mercy slaying" in the following article:

New York, Dec. 8 (INS)—"Mercy killings" were put in a category with lynchings today by Fannie Hurst, the writer, commenting on the slaying of Miss Allie Stephens, who could not bear her suffering.

Stephens, 32-year-old church worker, was freed by a coroner's jury after he confessed he struck his aunt over the head with a flower pot. The jury said it could not be ascertained if the blow or the progress of the disease caused her death.

Regardless of sympathy for the man, said Miss Hurst, an attempt to kill cannot be condoned.

"There is too much savagery just beneath the human cuticle," she explained. "Let it out, and it spreads like a forest fire. There is no borderline, only a hairline, between justification and madness. One cannot break the laws of life and justice, no matter what the circumstance."

A protest against allowing the 52-year-old woman to suffer was voiced by Miss Jane Hoey of the Welfare Council of New York. If she were in the last stages of cancer, she should have been in a hospital, said the welfare worker, where narcotics could have been administered constantly.

"How could anyone have known surely that she wanted

LIQUOR TRADE RUSHES CAFES

Boston's restaurants continued to do a tremendous liquor business today.

In many of the popular spots, seats at tables were at a premium, and long lines were waiting for the diners and drinkers to give up their places.

Eating places which heretofore have catered almost exclusively to sedate family trade have found themselves actually battling mixed crowds trying to get drinks, and some food.

In some cases, a police officer has been needed to keep the waiting lines in order.

Business has been so brisk, in fact, that some of the restaurant proprietors have suddenly begun to worry as to whether their liquor is not endangering their regular dining-room trade.

FORCED TO STAY OPEN

Some restaurants which ordinarily close at 8 or 9 o'clock in the evening have been forced to stay open until after 11, the crowds storming the places and refusing to leave.

While whiskey and gin continue to be the favorites among the hard stuffs offered, beer has its following, in the hopes that the new and more powerful beer and ale to what the customers are getting.

COAST GRID GO FOR EVERETT

By BILL CONNELL

Everett high school's powerful football team, defeated only once this season, has received an invitation to play McDonnell Urban high of Los Angeles at the Coast city on Christmas, Coach Dennis Ildes of Everett announced today.

Only the matter of the guarantee settlement stands between the Everett boys and the transcontinental trip. Details are under discussion now, via telegraph, and a definite announcement will be made soon.

Everett authorities are very anxious to have their boys make the trip if at all possible. The trip would be in the nature of a reward for Ildes and his charges, who produced one of Everett's greatest elevens this fall. The team swept through all opposition, trailing Malden only by a one-point margin,

THOUSANDS OF GERMAN TROOPS AWAIT WAR SPARK

AUSTRIA FACES FIRST NAZI ATTACK, HILLMAN FEARS

Hitler's Napoleonic Ambition May Start New European Conflict Any Time, Diplomats Learn

William Hillman, chief of the London bureau of Universal Service and the Boston Evening American, continues his revelations of the feverish preparations of European powers for a war which may be a matter of months in a series based on a survey he is making in co-operation with Universal Service correspondents in other European capitals.

By WILLIAM HILLMAN
(Copyright, 1933, by Universal Service, Inc.)

London, Dec. 8—In the narrow passes and romantic villages along the German-Austrian border, thousands of troops are being held in readiness.

Fifty miles to the south, on the other side of the Tyrol and Carinthia, the well-equipped soldiers of New Italy are marking time.

And to the east and north, the defenders of the young Republic of Czechoslovakia, and to the southeast the cocky minions of the Dictator-King Alexander grimly watch the shadows of intrigue and maneuver as they dance about the powder kegs of Austria.

Germany has already declared "war" on Austria.

AUSTRIA OBJECTIVE

Austria is Hitler's first objective in his crusade to rebuild and make powerful the third Reich. It is over Austria that the first real test will come in his battle against the Europe of Versailles and the first real test of the possibility of maintaining peace in Europe during the next ten years.

It needs only a spark to set into action the thousands of troops massed along the frontier.

Hitler's dream of a German-Austrian union is one which neither pleas nor threats nor dangers will cause him to abandon. A German-Austrian anschluss, whether judicial or de facto, has been this native Austrian's life's ambition. Not until Braunau, his birthplace, is within the third Reich will Hitler be content.

PLANS GREAT NATION

A noted statesman describes Hitler's attitude toward Austria as the "psychological obsession of a renegade." It is more than that. In his conception of the new Germany, Hitler envisages a nation greater than that planned by Bismarck, a nation reuniting all the Germanic peoples from the Baltic to the Danube, from the Ukraine to the Brenner. And allied statesmen, who watched with apprehension the spread of pan-Germanism before 1914, are even more alarmed today.

Pan-Germanism was hindered by rival ambitions within the orbit of Germanism itself. But these are no more. The non-Germanic elements are gone from the former Austrian-Hungarian empire. Rival states within the confines of Germany itself—Bavaria, Saxony and others formerly ruled by jealous kings or princes under the empire—have been conquered, unified and centralized by the will and might of Hitler.

WANTS OPPORTUNITY

German communities snatched from Germany or Austria and confined within other nationalistic borders such as Poland, Czechoslovakia and Denmark, have been made more conscious of their Germanism than ever before in history. Reuniting these scattered German peoples is Hitler's Napoleonic ambition.

Hitler will bide his time before fighting Poland to reconquer former German lands and peoples. He will not rush in to tackle Poland until he can fight an isolated Poland or is of such strength as to be able to finish Poland before France or the little entents can do anything about it.

This is not my opinion but the

She, Who Got Slapped

The golden voice of Mary McCormic, opera star, will be raised in a Los Angeles criminal court, of all places, when she appears to resist a battery charge brought by Grace Williams. Miss Williams, above, a writer, contends that the former Princess Serge Mdivani slapped her face during an argument concerning the publication of details of a property settlement between Miss McCormic and the Georgian prince.

JOHNSON CALLS ON INDUSTRY TO BAN EVILS

Best Way to Aid NRA Is to Prevent All Brick-Throwing

New York, Dec. 8 (INS)—A plea to American industry to support NRA as a means of ending the depression and eliminating business evils he charged had existed for 50 years was made last night by Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, recovery administrator.

Johnson spoke before the National Manufacturers' Association which only Wednesday received a report from its industrial board attacking NRA collective bargaining provisions. He made the most comprehensive defense and plea for NRA he has yet uttered and at the same time the most dispassionate one.

SUPPORTS ROOSEVELT

Combined with discussion of NRA was a strong defense of President Roosevelt's monetary program and a ripping attack on its opponents.

Turning to recent demands for congressional investigation or revision of NRA, Johnson warned that appeal to Congress might bring an unreasonable mandate from that body. He said:

"In the present temper of Congress and this country, I believe that any unreasoning attack on the codes process will get you an unreasoning congressional mandate, just as, if there is any unreasoning attack or the President's cautions, safe, credit-maintaining monetary policy, you will get an unreasoning congressional mandate.

Declaring no one is too big or too smart to help the government in the present crisis, Johnson added:

"For you, the question is whether you shall stand outside and throw bricks at the house that was built for you, or get inside and enjoy its protection."

WHAT NRA HAS DONE

Johnson declared all NRA codes adopted came by agreement and that criticism of the NRA was best answered by a list of its achievements. He submitted this list:

American Federation figures that 4,000,000 men have been put back on payrolls.

Double payrolls in the cotton industry with benefits extending into nearby towns from the mills.

New York department stores increasing payrolls by six to seven thousand workers and $7,000,000 yearly.

Two mail order firms report sales $8,500,000 greater this October than in same month last year.

Coal code successful.

COUNTESS GETS DIVORCE HERE

For over 11 years she has been Countess Carrie Belle Brooks Pelletier, but today she shed both the count and her title and became simply Carrie Belle Brooks once more.

In Suffolk divorces court, the countess was granted a divorce from Count Rene Pelletier, whom she met shortly after the war in France, when she was teaching school in Paris and he was a wounded French veteran.

They were married at Bangor, Me., August 28, 1922, and afterward lived in Commonwealth ave., Allston, according to her testimony today. On June 20, 1929, however, the count lighted out with the information that he was "going south with another woman."

That was the last the countess ever heard of her soldier husband, she said.

LENIENCY ASKED IN MINOR AUTO VIOLATIONS

Crime Board Calls for the Abolishment of Criminal Prosecution

Abandonment of criminal prosecution for minor auto offenses is advocated by the special crime commission in another section of its report filed at the State House today.

Offenses which do not involve criminal intent and which are not directly related to the question of public safety would be handled in a purely administrative way by the clerk of the district court in which the violation occurred.

CLEARS DOCKETS

The commission declares that such administrative procedure would curtail formality, expense, loss of time and present court congestion. Amendment of the general laws to accomplish this end is suggested.

In explaining their stand, Prof. Frank L. Simpson, Daniel J. Lyne and Gen. Charles H. Cole, members of the commission, declare:

"The underlying thought of this proposed legislation is that we should eliminate from classification as crimes those motor vehicle offenses which do not of themselves involve the idea of criminal intent and which have not been found to be directly related to the question of public safety.

HOW PLAN WORKS

"Under the legislation suggested, an offender against a minor motor vehicle regulation would receive a notice requiring him to appear before the clerk of a district court at any time during office hours not later than five days after his offense. Such an offender, or his representative, could then go to the clerk's office and pay the amount prescribed by his violation. The amount to be paid for various offenses would be established by the chief justice of the Boston Municipal Court and by an administrative committee of the district courts."

RACE BETTING PROPOSED IN MAINE BILL

Measure Is Introduced by Robie, Who Urges a State Lottery

Augusta, Me., Dec. 8 (AP) — Horse racing with pari mutuel betting would be legalized in Maine under a bill introduced today by Senator Robie of Cumberland.

It is the second liberal measure he has placed before the special session of the legislature as a means of getting some revenue to relieve the state's serious financial situation.

Robie put in a bill for a state lottery the first day of the session and estimated it would bring in $500,000 each month to the State treasury.

The horse racing bill provides for a tax on admissions and on the contributions to the pari mutuel pools and creates a three-man regulatory commission. Salaries of the commissioners would be $1200 each, annually.

The tax on the pari mutuel wagering would be 3½ per cent and provision is made for local option as to the operation of the meets.

It carries an emergency clause to make it effective when enacted and signed by the Governor.

Since the establishment of the running meet at Salem, N. H., this summer there has been much talk among the sporting element in this state as to the feasibility of using the one-time famous track at Old Orchard Beach.

scriptions, are lunch-time favorites for the first time in years, many women joining the men in a mid-day appetizer.

Bartenders, rusty from lack of practice, or new at the trade, are having a difficult time filling the orders of some of their patrons. Old-time trick drinks, dead these long years, have come to life. Pausee cafes, the barbarpolle drink, topped off with a dash of cream, are being seen again, whenever a bartender has time to look in the book to see how they are made. Brandy, at 35 cents for a large drink, is sending many home in a daze.

OLD RYE SCARCE

Uncut rye is scarce and 50 cents a drink. New stuff is $5. New gin is cheap and plentiful. Champagne is around $7, and plenty of it is being dispensed. One family cafe was startled last night to run out of the blubbly water.

Wines of all sorts are getting a heavy play from those who like them with their meals and from others who want to see what it is all about.

Hotels are doing a big business, though lacking the all-day rush that is taxing the restaurants.

The speakeasies apparently are "closed for repairs," with a policeman in front to supervise the repairing. One or two of the downtown hot spots are running, after a fashion, but high prices and police watchers are ruining their trade.

DEFY ELY IN LICENSE ROW

afterward, but there was a squad of police on hand, keeping another impatient crowd of several hundred in line.

De Wolf had made a statement last night, expressing amazement at the stir he caused and explaining he was trying to help a friend as he had done thousands of times.

It developed that there are innumerable cases where more than one person "rented" choice liquor sites, and a rush is on to see who can get the license first.

"Since the issuing of licenses began," said DeWolf, "this office has been flooded with requests for help in obtaining them.

ALL "DOING FAVORS"

"I have often taken my personal card and written across it, 'Please take care of this man,' or something like that, just as a favor, to help some one out."

When he went in person late yesterday he found there Ray. John Murphy, assistant messenger to the Governor, and J. Paul Keefe, formerly Gov. Ely's campaign manager.

"I learned," said DeWolf, "that they all happened to be there individually for the same purpose I was there, merely to do a favor to someone who asked for help."

Today's swarm of political figures at the license offices was no smaller than that of yesterday although there was nobody from the executive branch. Several explained they were there only as lawyers, yet their special position was clear to the crowd, in which the remark was heard:

"Well, there goes So-and-So. Wonder who he's up here for."

POLITICIANS THERE

Among those at the offices today were former Rep. Felix Marcella of the Metropolitan District Commission; Rep. Thomas Dorgan, who filed a legislative bill yesterday for raising the salaries of the Boston Licensing Board; Rep. Louis Sobel, City Councillor John I. Fitzgerald and City Councillor Israel Ruby. There were many others.

Considerable speculation was voiced as to the fate of such places as the Club Mayfair and Club Madrid and other night spots. Neither of these has received a license yet.

Questions fired at Police Superintendent Martin H. King and other police officials disclosed that the police prefer to keep such matters secret.

Supt. King said he could not recall whether, in the course of rubber-stamping innumerable reports by his captains on the "reputation" of the license applicants, he had rubberstamped the applications of the Mayfair, Theatrical Club, Cosmo Club, Iron Gate or Club Madrid.

ARREST RECORDS "LOST"

It was learned at Station 4, South End, that the application of the Cosmos Club at least has gone back to the licensing board after the usual police investigation. The Madrid's "reputation" is still in the process of investigation.

Nobody would state what the report was on the Cosmos Club.

Supt. King said the police had no objection if the licensing board gave out the information.

There has been considerable delay in reporting on certain clubs because the police wished to give the record of liquor convictions connected with these places, and in some cases the court records have not been readily found. Whether these have been lost or are unraceable because those fined were merely employes, anyway, remains undetermined.

'GOOD' RECORD WON'T DO

It is rumored that some complaints have been made that persons with criminal records have been getting liquor licenses, but nobody has come out in the open and said so, giving names and other data.

It was learned that some of the reports by the police captains on the reputations of certain applicants were turned back at headquarters, some of these several times.

One captain, for instance, reported an applicant's reputation as "good" and was asked to explain what he meant. He sent back the notation, "good, as far as I know during my service here." It was sent back to him again with orders to get the applicant's full record.

Applicants meanwhile are growing impatient, as evidenced by their attitude at the Licensing Board offices, and some are complaining because they thought they had rented places for which other persons obtained liquor permits.

ONE-SLAP MARY CRIES 'PIFFLE'

Philadelphia, Dec. 8 (AP)—Informed that Los Angeles authorities had decided to prefer charges of assault and battery against her as a sequel to the Grace Williams slapping incident, Mary McCormic of operatic fame, says "It's ridiculous and idiotic."

Miss McCormic motored here last night from Detroit, accompanied by Harry Gerguson, known to Broadway—and immigration officials—as Prince Michael Romanoff. He left a short time later for New York.

"It's all piffle, nonsense and rubbish," said Miss McCormic on learning that Deputy City Atty. Higgins of Los Angeles had decided to issue the complaint against her. "If the taxpayers of California want to pay for Miss Williams' publicity stunt, I'm perfectly willing."

The opera star was reported to have slapped Miss Williams, a writer, during an argument in a Los Angeles newspaper office after the writer offered to divulge the details of a property settlement between Miss McCormic and her former husband, Serge Mdivani, Georgian prince. Miss Williams since has brought suit for $1,000,000 damages.

Here to fill a theatrical engagement, Miss McCormic said she expects to marry Harry Bannister, former husband of Ann Harding, film star, Jan. 29.

ELY ORDERS SWEEPING PRISON AUDIT AS SHAKEUP LOOMS

HURLEY GIVEN POWER TO DIG UP ANY SHORTAGE IN BOOKS

Other Resignations Near; No Charges Made Regarding Money at Concord; Majority of Inmates Short Termers

Prisons in Massachusetts will be put on a sound business basis like other public institutions, it was promised today by Gov. Ely from his home in Westfield, as reports persisted of further pending resignations of state officials.

The Governor's statement was made after he had ordered State Auditor Hurley to audit the books and accounts of every penal institution under state control and to begin work immediately.

"Like all other public institutions," said the Governor, "there is a tendency for the prisons to become careless in some instances. They must be brought up sharply. Complaints which have reached my office are general, but fewer of these concern Concord than the other institutions. There have been no allegations concerning money at Concord.

"The investigation the state auditor is making will be directed against all state penal institutions—that is, he will not concern himself with county jails. It will be broader than is usual in the audits.

"Under the law the auditor has authority only to check the balancing of accounts. He cannot go behind those accounts. For example, if there are allegations of padded payrolls where alleged fictitious names are put on the rolls he cannot check back of them.

"However, I have given him

Quincy' Wet' In Spite of City Deal

Quincy, home of the scofflaw—that is, of the word—was legally wet today for the first time in 50 years and will be legally wetter before nightfall despite a mechanical tragedy of repeal.

The city seal, with which licenses are stamped, collapsed this morning after 16 more licenses, making a total of 22, had been stamped. For a time this threatened a mournful delay but city officials stepped into the breach with a brand new stamp.

Places getting permits were not overwhelmed with business and not an arrest for intoxication was made. Three drunken gentlemen in court had been arrested in dry communities, to-wit, Weymouth, Randolph and Cohasset.

Delevcare King, vice president of Quincy's Granite Trust Co. and the man who offered the prize for a name for illegal drinkers—the prize that was awarded for "scofflaw"—seemed unperturbed by the new order.

"It's been pretty hard to get a drink here since 1881," he said, "so, I guess, people don't know just how to act."

Police Chief Ernest H. Bishop, however, was confident that his town would continue to be a temperate one.

Admiral Yamamoto, Japanese Hero, Dead

Tokio, Dec. 8 (AP)—Count Gombei Yamamoto, 81, twice premier of Japan and a naval hero of the Russo-Japanese war in which he served as admiral, died today.

COMEDIAN HITS PRODUCER FOR 'KIDDING'

'Bunny' Weldon Plans Action Against His Assailant

Hollywood, Dec. 8 (US)—News of Hollywood's latest and most mysterious fight, with Francis "Bunny" Weldon, well-known dance director and theatrical producer, on the receiving end, and a noted comedian assertedly on the giving end, came to light today, amid a maze of threats and denials.

Weldon, for years associated with the late Texas Guinan in her theatrical ventures, declared he had engaged an attorney, Leslie Hubbard, and was "going to see to it that justice is done."

ATTACK DENIED

The comedian, famous on both stage and screen, denied he had lured Weldon to his home, as the former claimed, and there had beaten him so severely that it was necessary to take him to a nearby hospital for treatment.

Weldon, from his bed at home and flanked by his wife, Blanche, named the comedian as his assailant and told his version of the events that precipitated filmland's latest fight.

APOLOGY REVEALED

"On the night of Nov. 23 I was in the Cotton Club where I was staging the show," Weldon said. "I made a kidding remark to this comedian. He, and those with him laughed at the time, but later he sent for me and said his wife had taken offense at what I had said. I told him I meant no harm and was sorry. The comedian asked me if I would come out to his house and apologize to his wife. I said I would be only too glad to. So, with Mrs. Weldon, I went to his home.

"There I was knocked down, and my lip cut. I wasn't given an opportunity to apologize. I was then driven to the University Hospital by the man who attacked me and given treatment."

BROKER HANGS SELF IN CLOSET

New York, Dec. 8 (AP)—Charles F. T. Williams, 60, an insurance broker, hanged himself today in the clothes closet of his room in a W. 72nd st. hotel, where he resided.

The body was found by a bellboy after Parson's secretary had called the room and received no answer.

A note left in the hotel asked that his nephews, William Mills, a broker with E. W. Clark in Philadelphia, and Dr. Langdon Parsons, 284 Beacon st., Boston, be notified.

STOLEN CAR IN CITY CHASE

Pedestrians fled for cover and startled motorists pulled their cars to the curbs in a half dozen crowded Back Bay and South End streets today when police chased a stolen car for two miles, firing two shots.

The car was overhauled at Broadway and Stuart st., where one alleged auto thief escaped and a second, identifying himself as Raymond V. Lightfoot of Broadway, Cambridge, was arrested.

Lightfoot is said to be on parole from Concor Reformatory.

Sluggers Hunted in E. Boston Attack

Search was being made today for two men who attacked Orestes C. Berra, insurance agent, in a dimly-lighted hallway in Cottage st., East Boston, slugged him with a lead pipe and robbed him of $30 in collections he had made.

Berra was recovering at his home from a deep scalp laceration today after being treated at East Boston relief station.

Crowds of Cured See Pope Pius Canonize Saint of Lourdes

By GUGLIELMO EMANUEL, International News Service Staff Correspondent

Vatican City, Dec. (INS)—In a ceremony rare but traditionally one of the most elaborate in christendom, Pope Pius XI today canonized Bernadette Soubirous, of Lourdes, whose vision in the little French town made it a shrine of world renown.

More than 15,000 pilgrims, many of whom claimed to have been cured at Lourdes, journeyed to Rome for the ceremony, held in St. Peter's cathedral with a procession of the highest dignitaries in the Catholic church.

All of the religious orders of the Vatican were represented in the procession, which filed into the portico, then into the cathedral proper and up to the high altar.

RITES LAST HOUR

The rites proclaiming Bernadette a saint lasted for more than an hour. The Pope, seated on his throne before the altar, listened to three separate pleas for the French woman's canonization, delivered by consistory attorneys, before he formally pronounced the words which gave her sainthood.

MAGNIFICENT CEREMONY

Into St. Peter's, hung with red and gold draperies and flaming with myriad chandeliers, Roman and foreign notables, thousands of plain folk and pilgrims from all lands crowded. On its lofty walls they beheld enormous oil paintings of Bernadette Soubirous and her good works in life. Pope Pius XI entered, in triple crown and embroidered white cope, borne aloft on his sedia gestatoria. He proceeded to the altar, followed by cardinals, archbishops, patriarchs, bishops, monsignori and priests, who kissed his ring and the cross on his slipper. The air was heavy with incense.

CHANT IS GIVEN

A cardinal-advocate approached, petitioned the Pope that Bernadette be added to the calendar of saints "instanter." The Pope replied that God's guidance had to be asked. The congregation chanted the Litany of Saints. The advocate repeated his petition—"instanter, instantius." The Pope repeated his reply. The choir sang "Veni Creator." Once more the advocate pleaded—"instanter, instantius, instantisime." Thereupon the Pope pronounced:

"To the honor of the holy and undivided Trinity, for the exaltation of the Catholic faith and the increase of the Christian religion, by the authority of Our Lord Jesus Christ, of the Holy Apostles Peter and Paul, and of Ourselves . . . We decree and define that Bernadette is a saint, and we insert her name in the catalog of saints, commanding that her memory be annually venerated by the Universal Church. . . ."

The advocate retired giving thanks. The choir burst into a mighty Te Deum. All the churches of Rome sent up a joyful peal.

The College of Cardinals, in brilliant robes, lent much color to the occasion. The presence of 21 French bishops, led by Monsignor La Maitre, who was miraculously healed by Bernadette, added character to this particular service.

Following the actual organization, the Pontiff celebrated the first mass in honor of the new saint.

After this the procession filed out again, the Pope borne high on the gestatorial chair, attended by the prelates of his court and the brilliantly uniformed Swiss guards.

Tonight St. Peter's dome was to

Pope Pius today, in historic St. Peter's in Rome, canonized Bernadette Soubirous of Lourdes, to whom thousands of miraculous cures of the afflicted have been accredited. Kidnap Mother Fights for Child in Supreme Court

The legal battle of Mrs. Eunice Patrone to regain her own child, awarded to another woman for adoption by the probate court, was carried today to the Supreme court where Judge Wait heard arguments and took the matter under consideration.

Mrs. Patrone last month served 12 days in jail for refusing to surrender the child which she had "stolen" from the courtroom when the adoption decision was made.

She finally surrendered the child, Mary, 4, who is now with Mrs. Thomas Nickerson of East Boston. Mrs. Nickerson had been granted the little girl by adoption and has renamed her Jean Marie.

"Children cannot be handed around among strangers because of non-payment of board bills," said Atty. Paul X. Lewis, arguing for Mrs. Patrone before Judge Wait.

Lewis charged that Mrs. Nickerson had threatened she would adopt the child if its board bill was not paid.

When the baby was three weeks old, Mrs. Patrone had left her to board with the Nickersons, and had left her there until she was more than three years old.

Atty. Samuel Segal, representing Mrs. Nickerson, countered with the statement that Mrs. Patrone had securities, a lodging house and a farm, but had balked at selling anything to get funds to support the child.

Judge Wait interrupted to remark:

"I might take a child to board and become so attached to the child that I might say that if the board bill was not paid I might adopt the child. As far as that goes, what offense is it?"

M'MILLAN SUIT MASTER NAMED

John V. Spalding, former Asst. U. S. Atty., was today appointed by Judge Hugh D. McLellan to sit as master to conduct hearings, beginning about Dec. 13, in the suit brought by Lady Lucie McMillan, widow of Sir William Northrup McMillan of Narrabi, East Africa, to have her brother-in-law, Atty. Clinton E. Bell of Springfield, removed as agent of her estate. The hearings likely will be held in the Federal building.

Mrs. McMillan, staying temporarily with friends in the western part of the state, is anxious to return to South Africa. She alleges Bell took charge of her estate, valued at $1,383,400, in 1927, and that through his mismanagement it has dwindled almost to a half million dollars.

AL CELEBRATES ON ONE BEER

New York, Dec. 8 (INS)—Al Smith came out of hiding last night and showed up, with Mrs. Smith, at the town's smartest bar in the lobby of a Park ave. hotel.

The crowd greeted him with the usual applause, then leaned forward—to a man—as he seated himself to order his first public drink. What would he have?

"Bring me a big glass of beer."

COMMITTEE HAS HIGH TAX RATE FOR LIQUOR

Congressmen Urge a Lower Tax to Provide 15-Ct. Drink

Washington, Dec. 8 (INS)—A federal tax of $2.60 a gallon on whiskey instead of the prevailing $1.10, was recommended today by the inter-departmental committee appointed by President Roosevelt to study the liquor situation.

This tax, together with wines and federal license taxes, is estimated to yield $380,000,000 in a year of brisk business activity.

With the beer tax estimated to yield $156,000,000 annually, total federal revenue on whiskey, wine and beer would exceed $500,000,000 a year under the inter-department committee recommendations.

Other recommendations include:

Beer, $5.00 a barrel, same as the present tax on 3.2 per cent beer. The tax of $6 a barrel now on the statute books for beer of higher alcoholic content would be repealed.

Still wine, less than 14 per cent alcohol, 18 cents per gallon compared with present four per cent tax; fourteen to 24 per cent alcoholic content, 40 cents per gallon; above 24 per cent $2.60 a gallon.

A sparkling wine, natural, containing not over 24 per cent alcohol, 80 cents a gallon; artificial sparkling wine, 40 cents a gallon; sparkling wine containing over 24 per cent alcohol, $2.60 a gallon.

The committee's proposals are expected to be laid before the joint session of the Senate Finance and House Ways and Means Committee Monday, when consideration of liquor taxes will be started.

Meanwhile many Congressmen are insisting that such a levy is too high.

"Let's have a federal liquor tax and law, right now, that will drive the bootlegger out of business."

With this suggestion, Rep. McCormack, Dem. (Mass.), today with several members of the House ways and means committee is urging a tax of from $1.10 to $1.50 per gallon, which he contends would enable the public to buy good quality whiskey at $1.50 per quart or at 15 cents a "shot" over the bars—or what they will have in place of bars.

Some Congressmen are pressing for a high tax, variously from $2 to $3 per gallon, but this, it is maintained, would only encourage the bootlegger, keep him in business and make it difficult for the public to obtain a liquor of real quality.

MRS. ROGERS OF MELROSE, 100

Mrs. Rosetta Mason Rogers observed her 100th birthday anniversary today at the home of her daughter and son-in-law Mr. and Mrs. William Frost, 34 Orient ave., Melrose. An informal celebration was held.

Mrs. Rogers is remarkably spry and mentally alert. As a school teacher in Haverhill she saw many of her pupils leave to fight in the Civil War. Her husband, Robert Rogers, died in 1868. She has one other daughter, Miss Fannie I. Rogers, of Derry, N. H.

Orphan Gets Bulk of $125,000 Estate

New York, Dec. 8—Charles Morgan Aldrich of Hartford, Conn., adopted son of Mrs. Florence Morgan Nobile Gianuzzi-Savelli, who died last February 12 in Florence, Italy, receives personal effects and $25,000 in her American will filed in Surrogates court.

The testatrix, former wife of the late Sherwood Aldrich, left an estate of about $125,000 in this city and the adopted son also gets the life income from the residue.

Connery to Press Demands for Labor

Congressman William P. Connery, of Lynn, will confer with President Roosevelt in a short time regarding Connery's protest against the alleged unfair deal being given labor under the NRA. Connery revealed he had received a personally written letter from the President suggesting a conference on the matter at the earliest possible date.

LYNN BOY NEAR DEATH IN DIVE

After a week of working up sufficient courage to end his life, James P. McGovern, 22, leaped from the window of his sixth floor apartment in Newhall st., Lynn, early today, suffering a spinal fracture and internal injuries.

While police were taking him to Lynn Hospital in an ambulance he told them he wanted to die and had been trying to summon courage for the attempt for the past week. His name was placed on the danger list and his condition is reported as critical.

U. S. Anthem Script to Be Auctioned

Baltimore, Dec. 8 (AP)—Francis Scott Key's manuscript of "The Star Spangled Banner" will be sold at public auction at the American Art Association-Anderson galleries in New York on Jan. 5.

The original manuscript was valued recently by the executor of the estate of Henry Walters, by whom it was owned, at $500, but was not included in the collection left to the city of Baltimore by the financier's will.

The manuscript is described as being the first complete draft of the American national anthem, transcribed from the notes written by Key aboard a British vessel on which he was detained throughout the night of Sept. 13, 1814, during the bombardment of Fort McHenry.

The manuscript is accompanied by the earliest printed form in which the song appeared. It is written on a sheet of ordinary notepaper, and with the handbill it is mounted on a wooden frame.

Heir to $30,000,000 Theirs

Mr. and Mrs. Richard J. Reynolds, Jr., are rejoicing today in the birth of a son at the Reynolds mansion in Winston-Salem, N. C. Reynolds is heir to $30,000,000, and it is expected the baby will be christened R. J. Reynolds, 3rd. (Int. News Photos.)

R. J. REYNOLDS NOW FATHER

Winston-Salem, N. C.—A male heir was born last night to Richard J. Reynolds, brother of the late Smith Reynolds, and heir to the $30,000,000 trust fund established by his father, the founder of the R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Co. The baby was born at Reynolda, the secluded mansion which came to world attention with the mysterious death last year of Smith Reynolds.

The marriage of Richard J. Reynolds, who is president of Reynolds Airways, Inc., and Miss Dilliard, a local society girl, early this year, culminated a childhood romance, resumed when he returned to Winston Salem after an absence of five years to investigate the death of his younger brother, husband of Libby Holman, following the fatal shooting, July 6.

Like his unhappy brother Smith, young Reynolds, who will come into his vast inheritance next April at the age of 28, has had a very adventurous career. With his brother he is active in aviation and in control of Curtiss Field, for which he paid $1,000,000 in 1927.

In 1927 he was mysteriously missing for 11 days and detectives were engaged in a nation-wide search for him. He was found with a beautiful blonde dancer in St. Louis and announced he had "just decided to mind my own affairs undisturbed for a while." He took a world tour immediately after this episode.

In July, 1929, he was found guilty of manslaughter in London in connection with a fatal motor accident in which it was alleged Reynolds was driving while intoxicated. He was given five months in prison.

Last October Reynolds was sued for $123,850 by Johanna Rischko, a vaudeville dancer, who charged that she had been induced to come to the United States on promises of various theatrical contracts which never developed. The case was settled out of court.

HULTMAN RADIO PLAN O.K.

Reports from Washington today indicated that officials of the Federal Radio Commission would approve the application of Police Commr. Eugene C. Hultman for authority to establish a two-way radio system for the Boston police department.

Under Hultman's plan, a broadcasting station at headquarters will send messages to cruising cars, equipped not only with receiving sets but with broadcasting apparatus, which will be on a different wave length from the headquarters station.

The system will be so designed that any superior officer will be able to talk directly with officers in cruising cars by using the regular telephone switchboard of the department. Officers in the cars will be able to acknowledge receipt of messages and report progress in response to alarms.

PERJURY COUNT FACES GAULEY IN NEW TRIAL

A new trial for John S. Gauley, 24, of Douglas st., Cambridge, now serving three years in the House of Correction, will mean his prosecution for perjury also, Asst. Dist Atty. Frank G. Volpe of Middlesex County reiterated today.

Claiming that "justice went out the window" when Gauley was convicted, Atty. John F. Daly appeared in Middlesex superior court on a motion for a new trial. Gauley has served nine months of his sentence, which resulted from the so-called "liquor chiselers" shooting last January.

Daly charged that "those in charge of the conduct of the trial knew that false testimony was introduced. It was revealed the Middlesex grand jury recently investigated the case, and on Wednesday reported to Judge Walter L. Collins their belief Gauley had been unjustly convicted and sentenced.

The charges of Atty. Daly met with an indignant denial by Asst Dist.-Atty. Volpe, who was in court. He declared Gauley testified at his trial that he used the auto from which gunmen fired on a group of young men on a street corner, and now claims he lied to shield another defendant.

Volpe said he would not oppose a new trial, but declared he would seek an indictment for perjury against him.

36,000 MORE CWA JOBS

Two perplexing problems confronting the State Civil Works board neared solution today at the same time announcement was made that some 85,000 jobs have thus far been authorized for Massachusetts' unemployed.

The problems were the question of jobs for unemployed women under the civil works program and the teacher situation. The former is expected to be solved by its inclusion as a civil works service program with the money for the women being paid out of federal relief funds.

The teacher situation is still unclarified but is being studied by civil works officials at Washington. Chairman Joseph W. Bartlett pointed out that teachers do not come under the classification of civil works service because definite allocation of funds was made to each state to take care of jobless teachers.

Meanwhile, checkup of the work of the board reveals that 85,000 jobs on civil works projects had been approved already, at a cost of $15,000,000 in payrolls to be paid by the federal government.

Waltham Expects Rum Permits Today

Waltham's newly appointed liquor commission will start issuing licenses today, it is believed. Joseph H. O'Neill was appointed chairman of the board by Mayor Dunne, for a six-year term. William J. Donlan and Clarence Pratt will serve for four and two years respectively.

$100,000 Bond Filed by Lynch Trustees

A bond of $100,000 has been filed in Dedham Probate Court by the Boston Safe Deposit and Trust Company, trustee of a trust fund under the will of the late John E. Lynch, of Brookline. The fund is in the sums of $105,000 in real estate and $500,000 in personal property.

Livestock Award Goes to N. Hampshire

Chicago, Dec. 8—The Hob and Nob farm, Francestown, N. H., carried off awards at the National Livestock Exposition in the champion Suffolk ram and champion Suffolk ewe classes.

TODAY

thinks itself important, is rich today, "broke," and jumping out of a hotel window, tomorrow.

Don Poncho has never been rich, and he will never be poor, for his wealth is not in money, or half empty hotels and apartment houses, or office buildings erected too rapidly, or surplus factories.

You start out with him as the sun comes up over the mountain ranges to the East, ride back with the sun going before you, sinking into the Pacific. Sunshine, air from the mountains and the ocean preserving health into old age, planting groves of dark green live oak trees, straight pines, growing on the higher hills, the horse and the saddle beneath him, are Don Poncho's wealth. It is wealth that means happiness and cannot be taken away. Too bad that so few know it and enjoy it.

Lowell Thomas at Jordan's Book Store

Lowell Thomas, adventurer, traveler, and author will be the guest of Jordan Marsh co. tomorrow afternoon from 2 to 4 o'clock, when he will autograph copies of "Old Gimlet Eye" in the book department, street floor, main.

Mr. Thomas will also autograph copies of his other books, "The Boy Beyond," "Beyond the Desert," "The Last of the Black Douglas" and "Old Gimlet Eye," "Boy."

YULE SHOPPERS GET BREAK

Six feet of Washington st. in the downtown business district has been granted to pedestrians during the Christmas shopping period by a vote of the Boston traffic commission.

Starting today painters will paint white lines on the street between Avery and Franklin sts., about three feet from and parallel to the curb on both sides of the street to designate the increased area for pedestrians.

Motorists will be barred from the space at certain hours, except to take on or let off passengers according to the rules of the traffic commission.

Do you need some ready cash? Surely. Everyone does. The jewelers listed daily in the miscellaneous for sale columns are ready to give you cash for your old gold, dental gold, watches or old silver.

Fall River Boosts CWA Wage Scale

Fall River, Dec. 8 — Assignment of skilled workers to jobs for the first time here today will greatly increase the number of CWA employees in this city, it was revealed. Both skilled workers and their foremen will be paid $1.20 an hour.

New projects on which work will be started include a club house on the Watuppa Reservation, [illegible] a dam on the Watuppa Reservation.

Wilcox Pleads Oil Bribe Innocence

Newport, R. I., Dec 8 (AP)—Henry C. Wilcox, president of the Town Council of Tiverton, pleaded innocence to charges of accepting a bribe and asked for a speedy trial in superior court today.

He was released in $1000 bail and given ten days in which to file a demurrer.

ACCEPTS PHOTO OF COOLIDGE

Northampton, Dec. 8—A large framed photograph of former President Calvin Coolidge, the gift of his widow, Mrs. Grace Coolidge, will be hung in the aldermanic chamber, opposite that of the late Benjamin E. Cross, Jr., first mayor of the city.

Presentation of the photograph was made by former Mayor W. Sam H. Parker on behalf of Mrs. Coolidge at a meeting of the City Council last night. Mrs. Coolidge attended the session and witnessed the presentation.

She was accompanied to the meeting by Mrs. Mary P. Bisbee of the Republican State Committee. Other guests of honor included Mayor-elect James P. Boland and Mrs. Boland.

Police Guard Bus Bandit as Mob Cries "Lynch"

one, it seemed that he had attacked Miss Bernard.

"I don't know what happened between her and Coles because I was driving the bus and covering Burnett with my gun, and I didn't get a chance to get near her. I did see Coles go down in the back seat where she was sitting," he said.

"I held up the bus and kept the gun on the driver. I made him get in and out of the driver's seat a couple of times. But I didn't bother that girl, except I might have told her to 'keep quiet,'" Waycovich added.

MORIARTY AROUSED

Commenting on the case, Dist. Atty. Thomas Moriarty said:

"This is the most atrocious crime that has occurred in Berkshire County since I took office.

"There has been an undercurrent of talk about lynching probably because a Negro is involved in the alleged attack.

"I will say to the citizens of this county, however, that justice will be served and these men, if they are guilty of the crime as charged, will spend the rest of their lives in prison."

CONFIRMS ATTACK

Informed that a crowd of excited men had chased automobiles to the police station, to await the return of Coles and Burnett, Spring field police decided to hold Coles there until morning.

This step was taken to prevent any possible move by frightened citizens with whom Miss Bernard is extremely popular.

It was nearly midnight before Asst. Dist. Atty. Downey and state Detective Sam Smith returned from Troy, N. Y., where they grilled Waycovich for more than 12 hours.

He told those officials that he met Coles in a poolroom in Springfield and asked him to ride with him in a car stolen earlier in the evening. He said that the car was wrecked later and the pair decided to hold a bus.

"When we got on the bus I said to the bus driver, 'You just keep on driving and don't stop.' I pushed the gun into his ribs and he didn't say a word.

THREATENS DRIVER

"We came to Lee and he said, 'I've got to stop here,' and I said, 'If you stop there will be a big hole in your back and you'll be the one to blame for it. If you want to live keep on driving.'

"When we went through Pittsfield and got up to Lebanon Mountain I made Burnett drive the car up there because I couldn't shift the gears but when we went down the mountain I ordered him from the seat. And I took the bus again.

"All the time I was driving I kept the gun in my hand and I knew that Coles was taking care of the passengers.

"That was his job. He was supposed to get all they had.

"I didn't touch that girl and she will tell you I didn't. I don't know what Coles did, you'll have to ask him about that."

In Springfield, Coles told the police the details of the ride and admitted with reservations that he probably did attack the girl.

He said, "If she says I did it I must have. I was drunk. I don't remember much about it. I saw Waycovich go back with her and she went out of her seat with him to go back."

Hollywood Beckons to Helene Madsen

Seattle, Dec. 8—Helene Madsen, Seattle's former Queen of the swimming world, will take another try at the movies. Returning here after appearing as a professional swimmer at the Century of Progress exposition, she planned to spend the holidays with her parents.

"Then I'm going back to Hollywood," she said. "Final plans for some picture work are well advanced."

Canton Board Plans Tavern Bill Vote

Canton, Dec. 8—The Board of Selectmen will meet tonight to decide on a date for the referendum on the tavern proposition. A petition, signed by 45 voters of the town, asking for the referendum was presented to the board last night. Several months ago the town accepted the sale of light wines and beer by a vote of 701

MERCY KILLERS WIN MOST U. S. VERDICTS

Chicago, Dec. 8.—(INS)—Has any one the right to put a sufferer of a mortal disease out of misery by inflicting death? Are mercy killings the acts of human benefactors?

These questions were debated today after an Atlanta, Ga., coroner's jury recommended that Stephens, 32, who admitted crushing her mother, not be tried. The jury decided Mrs. Stephens died of heart disease despite the blow.

Many doctors, psychiatrists and philosophers everywhere believe that a sufferer whose life is spared is entitled to death as an escape from pain. Dissenting voices come from priests, but in few cases do they favor "mercy killers" being tried for murder or even a penalty.

DOCTOR EXONERATED

In 1928 a storm of protest followed in the wake of the deaths of a dozen mercy killings, culminating in the famous case of Dr. Harold Emer Blazer, Los Angeles physician who injected a "husk girl" daughter, 18 years. GRANDMOTHER IN PLEA FOR GOODFELLOW

Aged and weary—for she had no carfare and had to walk—a South Boston grandmother came to the office of the Christmas Basket Fund editor with one of the most touching appeals for aid.

Not for herself but for her five grandchildren, she made her appeal.

APPEALS INCREASE

Investigation showed that a school teacher recently learned of the plight of the family when she went to the house and found a baby of four months was getting water instead of milk. Steps were taken to change that, but the other children are also under-nourished and poorly clothed.

Yet this case is only a sample of many that are being called to the attention of the Christmas Basket Fund editor every day.

Appeals for aid are coming in fast and contributions slowly, but some of the contributions received are of a nature to inspire faith in the goodwill of the people of Greater Boston and New England.

One notable example of this is a man who came in Tuesday with 50 cents that he said he could spare out of his earnings, which are uncertain from day to day. Yesterday he was back again with 60 cents.

ASSUMES BURDEN

A woman who said she had the means to aid and the time to help personally telephoned and asked for two special cases to assist. Twice since then she has called again, for two cases each time.

"I might as well be doing something for somebody else, instead of doing nothing," she said.

This woman is going to supply these families with Christmas baskets herself and also provide them in direct circumstances with food and money immediately.

One of the cases she is taking charge of is that of a West End mother who walked to the office in the slush the other day and whose plight was described in one of these articles.

Lucky Duck Goes to Hospital

William Wilcox, asst. veterinarian of Angell Memorial Hospital, holds the duck he has just treated for injuries suffered when it became caught in a trap in Muddy River of the Fenway. Wilcox and another man released it from the trap.

MOB CUTS OUT NEGRO'S HEART

Kountze, Tex., Dec. 8—A mob early today mutilated the body of David Gregory, Negro ex-convict shot to death by officers hunting him for attacking and slaying a white woman, Mrs. Mellie Williams Brackman.

Before cutting out the Negro's heart the mob dragged his body at the end of a chain through the Negro section for 35 minutes. The body was later thrown into a bonfire.

Police, who had been searching for the Negro since Mrs. Brockman, 30, wife of a farmer, was found dead on a highway near here last Saturday, trailed him to the belfry of a Negro church at Voth, a town near Kountze. He was shot and wounded when, officers said, he drew a pistol to resist arrest.

Unconscious, he was taken to a hospital at Beaumont, where he later died.

JAMAICA PLANS AID CONCERT

The Jamaica Plain board of trade, to assist needy citizens, will conduct a relief concert, Sunday evening, Dec. 10, at the Mary E. Curley school, Center st., Jamaica Plain.

The proceeds of this concert will be divided among churches and the Community Health Service.

Mayor James M. Curley will be the guest speaker. The entertainers will be: Carl Moore, Alice O'Leary, radio stars; Frank McAuliffe, Henry Keenan, Warren Burke, the Jamaica Plain High school orchestra annd glee club, J. Higgins, and the House of the Angel Guardian band.

Page the Game Warden; Duck Trappers in Fens

One of the luckiest ducks of the current season was today sprung from a situation which he had put his foot into and which promised for a time to add him to the vast contingent of lame ducks now quacking through the political firmament.

There is a law in Massachusetts that, although in certain seasons you can take a shot at any duck going in any direction, you may at no time whatever catch one in a trap.

Therefore, when it was reported that a duck was uttering forlorn protests over a veritable polka dot of an island in the Muddy river, Back Bay Fens, it brought all hands to the center of the stage late yesterday.

A homeward-bound hunter tried unsuccessfully to locate the feathered blues-singer and then sought the assistance of the Angell Memorial Animal Hospital on Longwood ave. The shelter's assistant veterinarian, William Wilcox, hurried to the spot designated by the hunter, but, though both made a most careful search, they were unsuccessful in locating the duck.

This morning, however, the two men in a boat, the veterinarian and the hunter, minus his gun, set out to locate their feathered friend in distress, found it and brought it and the trap to the Angell Animal Shelter. Here an operation was performed and the last word from the sick-bed was that the duck was not only feeling fine, but was actually quacking in triumph.

The duck was a black mallard. The trap had been probably set for muskrats.

Old Miner Tackles Livestock Puzzle

Denver, Dec. 8—The special session of the Colorado Legislature now meeting has a veteran hard-rock miner who never owned any livestock in his life as head of the assembly's committee which will consider all livestock legislation.

He is Dan McNaughton of Silverton. "I guess I can handle it as well as if I owned a lot of cows," he said.

SURGEON DIES IN GARAGE

Worcester, Dec. 8 (AP)—Dr. William E. Denning, senior surgeon at Worcester City Hospital until a year ago when he retired from that position at the age limit of 60, died of a heart attack while preparing to drive his car from the Bancroft garage last night.

During the world war Dr. Denning received his commission as first lieutenant in the medical corps. He served on the draft board in Worcester, and later in Utica, N. Y.; at Fort Benjamin Harrison, Indiana; Camp Taylor, Florida, and was for 11 months a surgeon at Base Hospital 113 in France.

He was a member of the Massachusetts Medical Association, the Worcester Club and the Worcester Country Club.

Dr. Denning was born in Burlington, Vt.

NURSE HELD FOR 'SURGERY'

Peabody police were engaged in an investigation into circumstances surrounding alleged illegal surgery on an unnamed 18-year-old Salem girl two months ago.

Mrs. Florence Morrissey, 33, of Glendale ave., Peabody, a nurse, and Kenneth J. Pratt, 23, of Lynn st., that city, were both at liberty in bail today after they had pleaded not guilty to charges lodged against them in connection with the case.

Mrs. Morrissey is held in $2000 bonds for performing the operation, Pratt, named as an accessory, is free in bonds of $1000.

MATES DIVORCE DESERTERS

Salem, Dec. 8—Two women and a man, all Lynn residents, were granted divorces because their spouses deserted them, according to testimony in Probate court.

Mrs. Gertrude M. Peak of Essex st., Lynn told the court her husband, Charles S. Peak of Halifax, left her in 1928 because he wanted to do as he pleased.

The statement that Ernest A. Vaillancourt had tired of her won a divorce for Mrs. Beatrice Vaillancourt of Glenwood rd., Lynn. Roland L. Boynton of Lovejoy pl., Lynn got a divorce when he said Mrs. Chantel Boynton abandoned him because he refused to live with her mother.

More Pleas for Christmas Aid

More cases are presented today for the kindly consideration of the Boston American Goodfellows. As usual they range widely, but all strike the same pathetic note

CASE NO. 6

"I am writing to you for aid through your paper. Having heard of your wonderful work done in helping folks over the rough places, and when things get so bad that one is on the verge of despair.

"I am at a stage now that I am desperate unless someone can help me.

"I am an invalid and also a 'shut-in,' the mother of five children ranging in age from 7 to 20 years. All in the need of clothing, shoes and fuel.

"My husband is a very sick man and has not been able to work for nearly five years.

"I receive a small allowance from the city, which was cut $5 four weeks ago, leaving me in a terrible position.

"Owing rent and the promise unless I pay this week I shall be evicted. No place to go, no money and unable to leave my home without someone assisting me.

"I have a daughter 18 who has been housekeeper and mother to the younger children, when I am compelled to make periodical visits to the hospital. I stay from one week to five weeks for a run-down condition, due to not enough nourishment. I also have a little fellow seven years of age who needs milk, but I cannot afford it.

"I hope that some Goodfellow will come to my assistance, and help my family to have at least a 'Cheery Christmas.'

"There surely is some big hearted person left in the world who for God and humanity sake would come to my assistance, if only for my darling children. The little ones are the suffering ones. I would gladly suffer out in silence but for the children. Pain is welcome to the agony. I am enduring under my heart."

This mother lives in Hyde Park. Anyone wishing to investigate this case may call the Christmas Basket Editor, Liberty 4000, and ask for Case No. 6.

CASE NO. 7

"I am a little girl 11 years old. My father is out of work. We have seven children in the family. We have three girls and I make a fourth. We also have three boys.

"We would not like to be forgotten, as it is getting cold, and we need warm blankets for our beds.

This little girl lives in East Cambridge. Anyone wishing to investigate this case may do so by calling the Christmas Basket Editor, Liberty 4000, and ask for Case No. 7.

CASE NO. 8

"Will you please send a basket to cheer us up for Christmas I have no money to buy a Christmas dinner.

"I am a widow with 12 children and sorrow has come to us twice this year. There is no one working and we only receive $12 a week from the welfare. We have to pay $5 a week for four rooms. I have four children school age, they are four, seven, twelve and fourteen years old, and eight others up to 24 years old.

"We are very poor, so please send us some cheer and happiness. We haven't any gas or electricity for we could not pay the bills and they were shut off.

"I lost my husband a month ago and my five-year-old boy a few months before. I have been in bed all but three weeks since last March."

This mother lives in Boston. Anyone wishing to investigate this case may call the Christmas Basket Editor, Liberty 4000, and ask for Case No. 8.

CASE NO. 9

"Would you please be so kind as to give us a Christmas Basket as we will not have a very pleasant Thanksgiving. My husband is aged and has no work, and I am unable to work because of an operation. We have nine children looking to us for bread and butter or whatever they can get to eat.

"I'm not so concerned about toys neither am I, so worried about clothing, although some are wearing sneakers yet. They are also very much in need of shoes and overshoes, but I believe I can make out for a while longer. I would like the children to have one good dinner once a year, especially on the most important day of the year. It is pretty hard to see six and seven small children go out to school on cold morning with nothing to eat but bread and tea. All nine go to school."

This mother lives in Roxbury. Anyone wishing to investigate this case may call the Christmas Basket Editor, Liberty 4000, and ask for Case No. 9

Basket Pleas Must Have Clerical Approval

In order that Christmas Baskets go only to deserving and needy families, each application must be approved by a priest, a minister, or a charitable organization. If you wish to apply for a basket, therefore, get the signature of these persons. Do not come to the Evening American office, as it is impossible to personally confer with the many applicants. Be sure to give the number of members of the family.

A special effort to reach needy families not receiving city aid is requested. Address all names and lists, as well as contributions to the Christmas Basket Fund, Boston Evening American, 294 Devonshire st.

NORWOOD GIRL'S ABSENCE LAID TO QUARREL

A family row is believed by police to be the reason why Daira Kaitauskas, 16-year-old Norwood girl, left home last Tuesday night and has not been seen since.

Norwood police today abandoned the theory that the girl had been murdered or kidnaped. Sergt. James Barrett declared today he believes the girl left home voluntarily after an argument with her father.

Daira has been the mother for her older sister, Annie, 18-year-old Norwood high school senior and her younger brother, Charles, 9, for the past year. She has kept house for the family and prepared meals in addition to working part-time at the Winslow tannery.

The missing girl was an intimate chum of Nellie Keras, for whose brutal murder last Christmas Ibas Ahmed Osman will be sentenced next Tuesday. The murdered girl was a next door neighbor.

Congress May Repeal Dry State Paper Law

Washington, Dec 8 (INS)—The so-called Reed amendment to war time prohibition law, prohibiting the circulation in dry states of news papers and magazines containing liquor advertisement, is unenforceable under present conditions Acting Postmaster General O'Mahoney declared today.

He expressed the opinoin it would be repealed within a few days after Congress convenes, January 3.

CITY TO GREET SETH PARKER

The City of Boston will give an official welcome Saturday to Capt Phillips Lord better known as Seth Parker at City Hall where Mayor James M Curley will present him with the key to the city.

Capt Lord arrived in Boston this morning aboard his four-masted world-girdling schooner, the Seth Parker, and after receiving the famous Boston water tower salute from three fireboats under the direction of Fire Commissioner Eugene M. McSweeney supervised the docking of his vessel at T wharf where she will be open to public inspection Saturday Sunday and Monday.

Following the official City Hall welcome Capt Lord will accompany Mayor Curley to the Copley Plaza Hotel for a luncheon and reception at his honor.

CWA HAS GIVEN 2,500,000 JOBS

Washington, Dec. 8 (AP)—Harry L. Hopkins estimated today that the Civil Works Administration has 2,500,000 on its payroll on the basis of a telegraph poll yesterday.

Inability to purchase shovels, picks and other tools, and the fact that some of the "work relief" projects which had been in operation in various States failed to meet Civil Works requirements were held responsible by Hopkins for the fact the program is apparently behind schedule.

Hopkins said he expects the entire 4,000,000 men it is planned to employ will be on the job by next Saturday. If they are not, he said, States which have not filled their quota will have the jobs made available to them transferred to other States.

The work of putting men on CWA jobs appears to Hopkins to be slow in Pennsylvania, New York, New Jersey Michigan, Massachusetts and Illinois.

'TIPSY' DRIVING FACES POLICE CHIEFS' WAR

State Ass'n Adopts a Resolution on Strict Law Enforcement

One more agency of la · enforcement today served public notice of the strictest possible official attitude toward drunken driving under repeal, when the Massachusetts Chiefs of Police Association transmitted to the Governor's Committee on Street and Highway Safety a resolution setting forth its policy.

The police throughout the state, the communication asserted, will not tolerate automobile driving by any operator under the influence of liquor regardless of the legalization of the sale and use of intoxicants.

The chiefs, through their president, Chief Ernest H. Bishop of Quincy, expressed a feeling of encouragement at results thus far since repeal. A continuance of temperance on the part of the public, his organization's statement said, will make drastic action unnecessary. The resolution follows

"The Massachusetts Chiefs of Police Association shares with His Excellency, the Governor, the hope that the public will use discretion and restraint when indulging in intoxicating liquor, particularly as applied to the operation of motor vehicles.

"The brief period that has elapsed since repeal has been most encouraging and a continuance of temperance will make unnecessary any drastic action by police. It must be emphatically understood, however, that the police will not tolerate at any time the operation of motor vehicles by any operator under the influence of liquor regardless of the legalization of intoxicating liquor."

EVERETT READY FOR TEST VOTE

Taking advantage of a provision in the Everett city charter, citizens of that city are circulating a petition to force Mayor Michael C. O'Neill to call a special election to pass upon the question of cancelling liquor licenses for the sale of alcoholic liquors, 15 of which licenses were granted by the license commission the night repeal went into effect.

While bottled liquors were sold in Everet for one year, 1872, no liquor on draught has ever before been sold in that city. The city's last vote on the question of license was in 1919 when Lic. revival was Yes 2946, No 2382. It is on this vote that the city bases its granting of licenses.

On the question of sale of malt liquors and light wines the city voted: Yes 4533, No 2502.

Of the 15 licenses granted this year, all are temporary, running to Dec. 31, when they are to be revised in and new licenses good for 1934 are to be issued, under the license commission plan. Of the 15 licenses granted, one went to a member of the Everett Common Council, and one to a member of the Everett Board of Aldermen.

Nurse in Thanks to Boston American

A letter of appreciation from Supt. Sarah A. Egan, of The Boston Floating Hospital, was received today by the Boston Evening American.

"Though my gratitude is tardy in reaching you, I am very appreciative of what you did in arranging for Chief Eagle Claw's visit to The Boston Floating Hospital.

"The children were delighted with him and his costume and with the gingerbread men which his friend brought. Thank you for your interest in Timmy and the hospital."

Liquor Dealers Get Rare Whiskey Cargo

Three hundred cases of choice Scotch and Irish whiskey will be distributed to local dealers today. The consignment, which was included in the cargo of the steamer Evangeline, was the first legal hard liquor to arrive here from Canada by water.

The shipment is the first of a large quantity of liquor purchased in Canada by Boston firms in anticipation of repeal.

Cardinal Celebrates High Mass -:- In Cathedral at 74 Years

Cardinal O'Connell, whose 74th birthday fell today, also on the Immaculate Conception Feast day, celebrated mass at the Cathedral of the Holy Cross at 9 a. m. He was assisted by half a dozen priests and a great crowd attended the impressive services. The Cardinal is shown here before the altar.

Cardinal, at 74, Invokes Blessing on Boston

Cardinal O'Connell, 74 years old today and in excellent health, invoked a blessing on the people of Boston of all creeds in a brief interview after holy day services at the cathedral, where he celebrated mass.

"I thank God for my health and strength," he said, "and I wish every blessing to the people of Boston—my neighbors—whether Catholics or not.

"I have no special plans for today but I have my daily work to do. Work is a great thing and I am grateful to God that I am able to do it. Mine begins at 5 o'clock each morning."

Several hundred persons, including relatives of the cardinal and intimate friends, filed into the sacristy after the mass to greet him and kiss his episcopal ring Among them were Mayor Curley and Miss Mary Curley, and Mrs Curtis Guild, widow of the former governor.

The cardinal's birthday falls on the Feast of the Immaculate Conception, and the cathedral was filled, approximately 3500 being present.

He was assisted in the solemn pontifical mass by Rev. William A. Dacey as deacon and Rev. Richard J. Quinlan, S. T. L., diocesan supervisor of schools, as sub-deacon.

Deacons of honor were Rev. Richard J. Cushing and Rev. Robert P. Barry. Rev. Neil A. Cronin, Ph.D., administrator of the Cathedral parish, and Rev. Henry M. O'Connor assisted the Cardinal at the altar. Rev. William B. Foley led the choir. Communion was administered by Rev. James G Hennessey, D. D., and Rev. Edward Sullivan.

HERO OFFICERS WIN VACATION

Heroism of two Brighton policemen in rescuing three children from drowning, drew them a week's vacation with pay, in general orders of Police Commissioner Hultman in which eight officers were commended.

The Brighton patrolmen are Henry A. Weiss and Henry F. Brogan who jumped into the Charles River and rescued two boys and a girl.

Patrolman Martin J. Kelley and Joseph F. Donahue of the North st., station and Detective Wilder L. Dillion of Headquarters were commended for convicting three pickpockets. Patrolman Chester C. Lucas of Milk st. station received a commendation for capture of two auto thieves, and Sergt. Patrick J. Flannery and Patrolman Thomas J. Kearns of Milk st., station were commended for capture of a robber wanted in Woburn.

$9186 SPENT BY O'CONNELL

Total campaign expenses of $9186.55 in his battle to succeed Mayor Curley are contained in the report of former Congressman Joseph E. O'Connell, of Brighton, filed at the office of the city clerk.

The report reveals he paid all outstanding bills and had a surplus of $353.45. He raised a campaign fund of $9540, most of which was donated by members of his family, according to the sworn returns.

His largest item of expense in the campaign was the sum of $2000 for postage stamps. Other large items included $1884 for rental of headquarters and halls and $1492 for radio time.

Golf Course Planned Under Melrose CWA

If funds are approved by the civil works administration, Melrose will build a public golf course at the city-owned parklands at Mount Hood, not far from the Melrose-Saugus line. And if the golf course project is successful, Melrose plans to co-operate with the Middlesex County officials in building a new highway through the southeast section of Melrose between Upham st. and the Newburyport turnpike which would skirt the edge of the proposed golf course.

315 PAY RUM LICENSE FEE

Although a larger number of places have been approved by the Boston Licensing Board, only 315 applicants have thus far paid for their licenses to dispense liquor at hotels, restaurants, clubs or stores, it was revealed today.

The other applicants have not yet appeared with the cash for the license fees, which range from $300 to $2000. Naturally they cannot receive the license, which allows them to open for business, until the fee is paid.

City Collector William McMorrow announced today that the 315 licenses of all kinds which have been issued in the past few days have brought a total of $351,670 into the city treasury.

Ward Kin to Share Brookline Estate

The will of the late Charles W. Ward, of Brookline, which was allowed in Dedham Probate Court, bequeathed his widow, Mrs. Mabel G. Ward, $50,000 outright, and $10,000 each to two children, Charles L. Ward, of Brockton, and Mrs. Elizabeth W. Kimball, of Andover. The estate amounts to $145,000 in personal property and $10,000 in real estate.

Curley Criticizes Works Limit Plea

An appeal made by the municipal research bureau to the state emergency finance board to limit Boston's public works program under the NRA to $10,000,000 at the most, was called stupid by Mayor Curley. He said the bureau far overshot he truth in saying uncollected 1933 taxes would be from $25,000,000 to $30,000,000 Jan. 1.

WORLD ODDITIES OF RIPLEY ON DISPLAY

The first revolver owned by Jesse James, a violin made from 10,000 matches, and a grain of rice upon which have been written 2871 letters, are just a few of the hundreds of curiosities to be seen at the Ripley "Believe It or Not" exhibition which opens Tuesday at Horticultural Hall.

Supplementing the 25 living, human wonders on the way here from the World's Fair in Chicago, will be more than 300 objects which Cartoonist Ripley considers among the best of his worldwide discoveries. They will be arranged in glass cases, convenient for patrons who have come primarily to see the Georgia girl with four legs and three arms, the Pennsylvania girl with neither legs nor arms and the many other oddities.

REVOLVER CURIO

Heavy insurance is carried by Ripley, covering his curiosities. The display cases are protected by secret locks, and an attendant is constantly in charge.

An intriguing relic to be seen at the exhibition is a revolver owned by City Marshal W. W. Fitzman of Wharton, Texas. Imbedded in its mechanism is a battered bullet fired at the marshal by a desperado with whom he engaged in a gun fight.

Other curiosities that attracted unusual attention when shown at the World's Fair include a bow tie made from a postage stamp, an original bill of the first currency issued in the United States, the smallest steam engine in America, a radio in a nut shell, a three-barreled pistol with a knife on the side, an endless chain 16 feet long and carved from one piece of wood, a ship carving in a bottle, a two-headed turtle preserved in alcohol.

PROCEEDS AID FUND

"Bride and groom" spoons, used at wedding feasts, are to be seen at the Ripley show. A cannibal fork from the Fiji Islands will be displayed. A red cross, formed on a corncob, is another interesting specimen.

With net proceeds accruing to the Boston Evening American's Christmas basket fund, the "Believe It or Not" exhibition will open at Horticultural Hall, Tuesday afternoon, and continue daily from 1 to 11 p. m.

Adult admission will be 40 cents. Children, aged 12 years and under, will be admitted for 15 cents.

'Popeye' Paul in Person

"Darn that darned darning needle," says Paul Whitaker, "the eye isn't half big enough." Paul's reference is to the eye of the needle—not his own. Discovered by Cartonist "Bob" Ripley in Atlanta, Paul's specialty is popping his right eye out of its socket. "Popeye Paul" is part of the Ripley "odditorium" at Horticultural Hall, starting Tuesday afternoon.

Women Ban War Toys as Peace Foes

Toronto, Dec. 8—The Ontario council of women has decided that wooden soldiers and tin guns are harmful and dangerous to the peace of the world, and have passed a resolution undertaking to militate against war toys and games.

"This is one of the ridiculous resolutions which make us women a laughing stock among men," one delegate objected.

"We needn't be afraid of that," was the reply, "men are already a laughing stock among us for many of the things they do."

SHIP JOBS SENT PORTSMOUTH

Washington, Dec. 8—Construction of four harbor patrol boats for the coast guard has been formally authorized by the Treasury, but instead of allotting the work to the Charleston, S. C., navy yard, as had been originally planned, the Navy Department took under consideration a proposal that two of the boats be built at the Portsmouth, N. H., yard.

Rep. McMillan (D., S. C.), who secured an additional $48,000 from the public works administration to cover the cost of construction of all four boats at Charleston, voiced strong opposition to the proposal to divide the work.

The Treasury authorized construction of the boats on the basis of estimates submitted by the Charleston yard which totaled approximately $948,000. Originally only $900,000 was allotted for this work, but McMillan later secured an additional allotment.

Heroes Surrender Medals as New War Protest

Stratford, Ont., Dec. 8 Twenty one members of the Stratford branch of the Canadian Legion have surrendered their victory medals with a request that they be sent to the finance ministers of 21 nations to be melted into metal and swallowed with all other rewards of armed conflict in payment of the war costs of the world."

They said the gesture was taken in protest against the reappearance of forces against which they had fought from 1914 to 1918. Allied and enemy nations alike were included in the 21. A message in English, French and German will accompany each medal.

"Fifteen years we laid down our arms, victorious over the forces of greed, nationalism, armament and war. Our victory was rewarded with these medals. Today nationalism flourishes, greed is rampant, armaments menace our homes and war impends. The fruits of our victory have vanished.

The medals are to be sent to Canada, Great Britain, Australia, New Zealand, South Africa, France, Russia, Italy, Germany, Turkey, Austria, Bulgaria, Roumania, United States of America, Japan, Portugal, Spain, Belgium, Greece, Serbia and India.

DEFENSE HALTS MURDER TRIAL

Northampton Dec. 8—In a surprise move counsel for Edmund T Staniszewski, 20, on trial for the slaying of Timothy L. Digins, rested his case without offering any evidence. Counsel had previously indicated the accused youth would take the witness stand in his own behalf.

Daniel D. O'Brien, the defendant's attorney, closed the case after a conference in the judge's chambers with Judge John J. Burns and Dist Atty. Joseph T. Bartlett, which lasted an hour and a half.

Judge Burns warned the jury to form no opinion until closing arguments and the court's charge had been heard.

Suicide Plot Denied by Wounded Woman

Los Angeles, Dec. 8—Mrs. Josephine Clancy Wice, 31, former president of the Los Angeles Advertising Association of Women, is in a serious condition in the County hospital with a bullet wound in her chest.

She told detectives that she had shot herself accidentally while cleaning an automatic pistol in her apartment. The officers reported however, they were unable to discover any cleaning materials in the place.

SENTRY HELD IN PRISON DEATH

New York, Dec. 8—Joseph Testa of Newark, N. J., has claimed the body of his son, Rocco Testa, a prisoner at the United States disciplinary barracks on Governors Island who was killed by a sentinel who charged the prisoner attacked him.

The sentinel—Pvt. Frank A. Canton of the 16th Infantry—said his rifle was discharged when Testa attacked him after the prisoner disobeyed orders. Testa was serving two years and six months with dishonorable discharge.

Canton, confined pending investigation, is a native of Indian Orchard, Mass.

Cream butter and sugar. Add eggs, one at a time, beat well then add milk. Add fruit, chopped pecans, and wine or fruit juice. Sift flour, baking powder, salt and nutmeg and add to mixture. Beat well. Bake in a moderate oven, 2 hours.

Next week is National Cheese Week. With cheese on our thoughts and on our tables we are going to ask you to send us your favorite cheese recipes for the prizes next week from Dec. 11 to the 16.

Every day the Boston Evening American awards $10 in cash for the six outstanding recipes sent to Martha Lee. If you have a favorite recipe—one that you are exceptionally fond of—send it to Martha Lee's Recipes, Boston American, P. O. Box 2097, Boston.

Each day there is a first cash prize of $5 and five other awards of $1. Prizes will be paid only on recipes that are published. You may submit one or more new recipes every day if you wish.

A special award of $25 in cash prizes is offered by Martha Lee for recipes sent to her for her page in the Boston Sunday Advertiser. Every Sunday a first prize of $10 is offered. Then there will be two $5 prizes and five $1 awards. If you wish to compete for the Sunday prizes, send your recipe to Martha Lee's Recipes, Boston Sunday Advertiser, P. O. Box 2097, Boston.

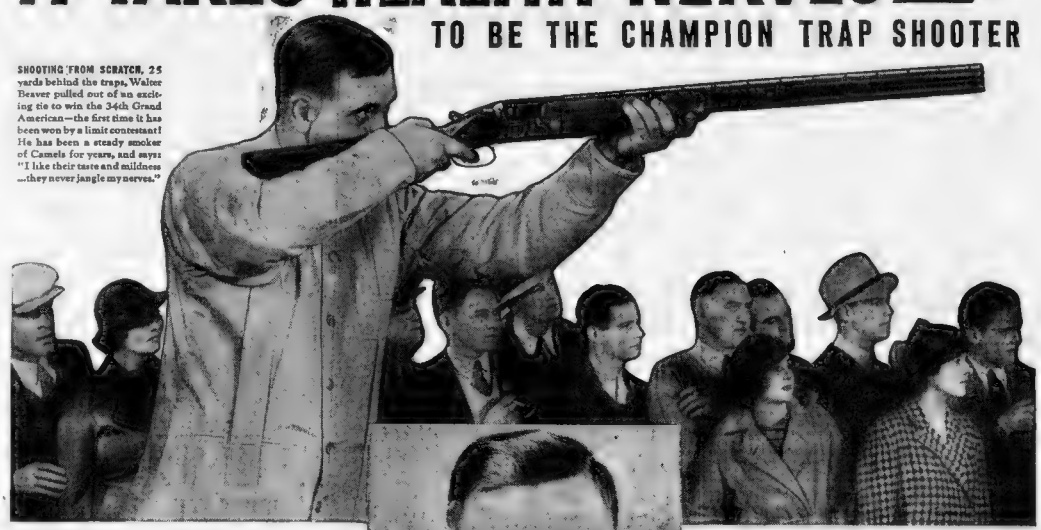
Says His Wife "Got Even" With Him by Slashing His Paintings. Troubles of an Inventor-Artist Told In The American Weekly, the Magazine Distributed With the December 10th Boston Sunday Advertiser.

IT TAKES HEALTHY NERVES... TO BE THE CHAMPION TRAP SHOOTER



SHOOTING FROM SCRATCH, 25 yards behind the traps, Walter Beaver pulled out of an exciting tie to win the 34th Grand American—the first time it has been won by a limit contestant! He has been a steady smoker of Camels for years, and says: "I like their taste and mildness ...they never jangle my nerves."

(Left) "PEOPLE SAY I never have a cigarette out of my mouth. For years I've been smoking Camels. I like their taste and mildness. They never jangle my nerves."...Walter Beaver, trap-shooting champion.

Steady Smokers turn to Camels

WALTER BEAVER of Berwyn, Pa., wouldn't be where he is today—holder of the coveted Grand American Handicap—if it weren't for his healthy nerves.

"Winning a trap-shooting championship is partly a matter of luck, partly the result of practice and partly healthy nerves," says this champion. "I'm a steady smoker and have been for many years. People kid me about it at the tournaments. They say I never have a cigarette out of my mouth. During all these years I've been smoking Camels, not only because I like their taste and their mildness, but also because they never jangle my nerves."

* * *

It's no fun to feel that your nerves are ragged—and to wonder why. Check up on your eating...your sleep ...your cigarettes. Get a fresh slant on smoking. Switch to Camels. Your nerves and your taste will tell you that Camels are a more likable cigarette—and that they don't upset your nerves.

IT IS MORE FUN TO KNOW
Camels are made from finer, MORE EXPENSIVE tobaccos than any other popular brand.

HOW ARE YOUR NERVES? If you smoke a lot...inside...outdoors...wherever you are...join the swing to Camels. You'll like those costlier tobaccos in Camels. You'll find them milder...better tasting—and they never get on your nerves.

HEARST STEERS SET RECORD AT AUCTION

Los Angeles, Dec. 8 (US)—Sleek, fat Hereford steers, bred on William Randolph Hearst's Piedmond Land & Cattle Company ranch, achieved an impressive double triumph as the auction sale of prize-winning cattle brought the Great Western livestock show to a close.

CHAIN STORE BIDS HIGH

The steers, worthy descendants of the first Hereford herd in America, brought to California from Australian by the late Sen. George Hearst 70 years ago, were sold for the highest prices paid in a major market this year.

The Safeway-Piggly Wiggly stores were successful bidders for the grand champion steer of the show, a 939-pound Hereford bought from the Piedmond breeding herd by Colyear Burres, 19, a student at California Polytechnic School, San Luis Obispo

And the stores likewise acquired the reserve grand champion carload of yearlings Hereford steers entered by the Piedmond Land & Cattle Company and raised under the supervision of Frank Will, veteran Scotch herdsman

The grand champion steer was sold for $1.31 a pound, one cent more a pound than was brought by the grand champion at the American royal stock show in Kansas City two weeks ago.

The success of the Piedmond carload was even more pronounced The yearlings went under the hammer at $13 25 a hundredweight, a $3 a hundredweight more than was paid for the grand champion carload at the Kansas City show.

TRIBUTE TO BREEDERS

Both sales were negotiated through the Sterling Meat Company. The price for the reserve grand champion carload was double the open market quotation.

High tribute was paid the breeders by Alex McDonald of the University of California Agricultural College, judge of cattle at the show, who declared young Burres' steer was one of the five best Herefords he ever had seen.

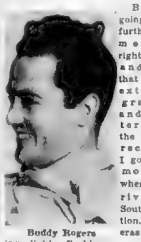
Society Beauties Welcome Buddy Rogers

Star Here for a Week; Pens His Column for Boston American

Hello folks! Here I am a full-fledged columnist for the Boston Evening American during my week's stay in your fair city for my engagement at the Keith-Boston Theater.



Buddy Rogers

Before going any further, let me say right here and now that I was extremely gratified and flattered by the swell reception I got this morning when I arrived at South Station. Cameras clicking, lights flashing, a couple of motorcycle policemen, a huge sound truck, loads of autos and a wild dash to the theater! Whew! I've received receptions before, but this one takes the cake. And, here's the grandest part of it. Five, nor one or two, but five of Boston's best-known society girls were at the station, and if that isn't enough to make any man happy I'd like to know what is.

Well, here's a big bundle of mail in front of me, and as you know, I'm to answer any questions you might have to ask about Hollywood . . . Here's a letter signed by T. J. M., of Cambridge, who wants to know if the famous restaurant patronized by most of the movie stars in Hollywood is named after Al Smith. Well, the only answer I have to that one is that the Brown Derby is not named after Al Smith as the restaurant is not Democratic enough.

HOLLYWOOD PLAYS BRIDGE

Here's a serious one: "Is it true that contract bridge has become all the rage in Hollywood?" signed by J. M., Jr., Boston. Yes, Mr. J. M., Jr., there is nothing in recent years which has so caught the fancy of movie folk as contract bridge. It seems that all Hollywood is playing it.

T. J. of Dorchester asks: "Do you believe that there is even a remote chance of the old fashioned bustles returning to favor since Mae West's sensational success?" In my mind, young lady, I firmly believe that the bustles will come back only in a modified fashion: I think that the complete bustle effect distorts the figure.

A. M. of Dorchester inquires "Do you believe in the miracle of Hollywood insofar as transforming the looks of an average looking girl so that she will be made beautiful on the screen through tricks employed by make-up and camera?" There is no question, Miss A. M., that the camera can be focused in such a manner as to bring out the "best" sides of a person's features. Also the make-up experts in Hollywood are extremely proficient in recent years.

HARD WORK WINS

P. B. O., Taunton writes "How does one get the 'breaks' in Hollywood?" Contrary to popular belief, personality, hard work and real acting ability are the real essentials. As a matter of fact it is the same as any other profession as far as "breaks" are concerned, as luck is important, also.

Well, no more room here now, but I'll be with you again tomorrow so that if there are any questions you care to ask, address me care of the Boston Evening American and in the meantime, if you have a minute come back-stage at the Keith-Boston and say "hello."

Miss PARKS BUDDY ROGERS MISS CROSBY

Included in the group were Misses Nancy M. Whitman, Mimi Parks, Charlotte Crosby and Barbara Percival. (Boston American photo.)

COLONEL HOWE RETURNS TO RADIO FOLD

By N. F. T.

Among today's informative items of interest ushered out of behind the scenes in radioland, passes an important piece about Col. Louis McHenry Howe, secretary to President Roosevelt. It seems the good Colonel takes to the tall timbers and concrete city streets again in a coast to coast microphone presentation. He will contribute his comment on current affairs. These weekly visitations start tonight (WEEI) at 8 o'clock and are being shaped on an informal basis, yet dealing directly with rapid developments within official Washington circles.

SECOND SERIES

This is the second such sponsored arrangement into which the energetic White House friend and confidant of the President has entered. Colonel Howe is officially situated close enough to governmental machinery and planning divisions to give an accurate report on how the wheels are turning. Like the fiery General Hugh Johnson, scrappy Colonel Howe invariably hits hard and fast at those who would toss monkey wrenches into the Washington works.

Stirring special interest over "National Cheese Week" is attracting unusual and wide attention. Last night found Governor Pinchot of Pennsylvania promoting the idea with Paul Whiteman and his orchestra. Tonight the inimitable Phil Baker brings Governor A. G. Schmedeman of Wisconson up to WBZ to talk cheese and its place in our industrial as well as social scheme of things. That's from 9 30 until 10 o'clock, as followers of Baker, his "Bottle" and "Beetle burlesque characters, no doubt know.

LOCAL LATHER

There may well be some interesting sidelights to report within the week in connection with an extremely keen professional rivalry existing between two talented young ladies hereabouts. One is the very vivacious Mae Questel, billed in a big way behind Metropolitan Theater footlights beginning today. They call Mae the "original Betty Boop" girl of movie cartoon comedy prominence. Next there's little and oh so lovely Marjorie Hines, now featured with Huston Ray and his snappy Club Touraine orchestra. Marjorie says it was her voice around which the first Betty flickers were built. Whether some smart radio showman will get the two gals together on a program before they leave town, is the question uppermost right here right now . . Jack Denny and his Sate Moderne music makers are featuring a beautiful new ballad on the air called "The Perfect Dream' which Denny predicts will start fan mail flowing faster than in many years—and Jack Denny should know. While on the subject of tunes, here's something. That sad news song labeled "Annie Doesn't Live Here Anymore" has been offered as a comedy bit recently by a number of leader men. Fred Waring of "Pennsylvanians" fame, for example. In reality the composition was intended by the writers as a "torch" song, meaning one to be rendered in accents disconsolate. They maintain that the next to last line stating how a "gentleman with a top hat called around the other night," was penned to denote an undertaker's visit. All of which doesn't sound too illogical, except for certain other lyric lines. Previously through the theme we are advised "it must have been your picture that she tore" and of course most any listener gathers the impression there of "Annie" being at least put out, if not exactly broken hearted. Even so, or perhaps not maybe some enterprising composer will soon construct a ditty designed to make known just who the high halted mystery caller was. Sort of a sequel seems needed as a measure of moral vindication for "Annie" the poor kid.

IRISH SUPPORT ROOSEVELT

Support of President Franklin D. Roosevelt and his policies was pledged at the meeting of the delegates to the Central Council of Irish County and affiliated organizations held in Hibernian Hall, Roxbury.

Exploitation of the American people by world financial interests, was given as the reason for an averted threatening social upheaval last spring, in a series of formal resolutions drawn up by a committee of the delegates that included Richard Dwyer, Thomas H. Murray, Daniel Doherty, Thomas J. Carroll, and John Meade

International bankers are criticized for their relations with foreign banking institutions to the detriment of American economic stability in the resolutions

Traffic Police Wear Tail-Lights

Sacramento, Calif., Dec. 8—Sacramento police officers directing traffic past congested intersections at night are to wear rear red tail lights so they won't get bumped.

This is superintendent of traffic Fritz Kaminsky's latest idea on how to reduce the mortality rate among corner traffic directors.

"Motorists complain they can't see the traffic officers from behind and we can't afford to put in overhead lights," Kaminsky said. "Therefore, we shall hang three-inch red reflectors on the back of the officers' belts."

WINTER SPORTS COSTUMES FOR NORTH -:- MANICURING MACHINE NEW BEAUTY AID

Accessories Add Bright Touches

By Victoria Gaines

SUNNY SOUTH or snowy north—which will it be this season? Winter cruises to the south have rather stolen the thunder from winter sports in the north—most people prefer sun-bathing at Bermuda to snowballing at Lake Placid or Montreal. There are still, however, a few hardy souls whose idea of a really good time is making a few splits on the ice—and for them, there are various aids and abettors in the form of winter sports costumes.

"Bellhop" Ski Suits

Ski suits like bathing suits are practically always the same style and cut, for the very good reason that they simply can't change without becoming unsuitable for their particular purpose. So that we still have the belted jacket, baggy trousers and usual accessories—sweaters, scarfs, gloves, etc.

There is, however, something slightly different in the "bellhop suit"—in which the jacket ends at the waist instead of being belted. This is worn with a dashing gypsy scarf of knitted wool, which might also serve as a muffler in a pinch.

For a real woodsman touch you can vary this outfit with a leather lumber jacket lined in wool—one particularly grand affair being a combination of nutria fur and brown leather.

In addition to the regulation woolens in ski suits there is also a new cloth called Grenfell cloth, after the famous Grenfell of Labrador. Its claims to being wind-proof, water-proof and all-weather-proof have been substantiated by being chosen for the Byrd Antarctic expedition.

Brilliant Colors Popular

When it comes to sweaters, scarfs, socks and other accessories, colors are warm enough to cause a rise of temperature even in the frozen North. Brilliant blues, reds, yellows and greens offset the somber tones of the ski suits themselves. You can create your own hot spot in the coldest climate by wearing a green scarf, orange jacket and brown trousers, for example, or a blue suit with a red sweater and scarf and white cap and gloves.

We predict that many enthusiasts who take their winter sports within metropolitan limits will fall for these colorful accessories. The knitted "crazy caps," the turtleneck sweaters, the fuzzy socks and gloves, will probably purport themselves at Central Park skating rink as soon as the red ball goes up. And another tip for future queens of the ice is the velveteen or corduroy skirt—divided for added grace and comfort. In bright red or green, with an all-white turtleback sweater, scarf, hat and gloves, we can't imagine a more charming costume for cutting a few fancy figure 8s.

Sure-Fire Gifts

Lamps are always a good gift choice—and an all-white one will fit in almost anywhere. There's one lovely lamp in neoclassic design that goes with either modern or period furnishings—a white leather shade with a gold-and-white toile base.

Every Christmas list has its quota of people who write a little more than a Christmas card, yet less than an expensive or elaborate gift. Here are a few gifts that make the generous gesture come easy without too much purse pinching.

An Italian leather book cover, with, perhaps, a favorite book slipped inside for an extra-thoughtful touch.

Mode of the Moment Shown by Well-Known Women

The sparkle of sequins finds competition in the smile of Miss Evelyn H. Weatherby, debutante daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. S. Weatherby of Brookline. Sequins as peppy-uppers for the black transparent velvet frock are just about the nicest things one could get. All their circus-y antecedents have been forgiven and forgotten this year. Earrings, capelet, ring, bracelet and bag, all match in gold sequins.

"Thank You" Letter

By MRS. BEECKMAN

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

My husband and I have just returned from a business trip. We were entertained by his employers and his employer's wife. I want to write a note to the wife thanking her for the many things she did to make our visit in her city so pleasant.

Won't you tell me how to word such a note? They are people of culture and refinement and know the correct thing to do and say at all times. So much depends on this note, and I do want them to like me!

A.

When you write this important note (and I realize how important it is to you), keep in mind that it is an excellent plan to thank first for the hospitality in general and then chat informally about certain definite things that you know your hosts planned especially for your happiness. Thing what, under similar circumstances, you would like to be thanked for.

You might in a general way, begin something like this:

Dear Mrs. Walters:

Your goodness and kindness and hospitality to Tom and me were so perfect that I wish that I could find just the perfect words to thank you for them. Tom and I had a gloriously happy time with you and Mr. Waters, a memory-making time, and ever since we came home, we have talked over together every delightful hour we had with you, in your home, with your friends, and at the charming parties that you planned for us. You and Mr. Waters are perfect hosts.

Then you would add your appreciation of the definite parties or the definite things that were planned for your entertainment. Hosts too, remember, like to know if we liked their friends, and it is pleasant to thank them for their "sharing" of their friends. But don't accent too much the "out-of-the-home" entertainment . . . thank them most of all for the enjoyable hours spent with them getting to know them in their home.

By Annice Brink

ALTHOUGH THEY are particularly lovely when their brittle glitter is combined with the soft and subtle black transparent velvet, the gold sequins in the accessories worn by Miss Evelyn H. Weatherby are used so cleverly that, sight unseen, I feel safe in guaranteeing renaissance for a last year's crepe if you'll but add such a set.

The little gold earrings have a knack of bobbing merrily—quite in the spirit of the coming holidays, when everything, including Saint Nick, the tree ornaments, and budgets all go bob-bob-bobbing along. The ring is ingenious, as is the bracelet. Sequins are affixed to them in a way that suggests fish scales. A tailored envelope shape does away with flimsiness in the evening bag, and offers plenty of corners in which lipsticks and whatnot may be tucked.

If you like a high, plainly draped neckline the sequin capelet may be turned around so that it ties in the back. Miss Weatherby likes hers with the bow under the chin.

The ensemble may be had separately, or assembled as shown. It is one of the most popular that an in-town shop has. And well it may be!

Shrink Wash Materials

Washable materials should always be shrunken before being made up, but this does not mean that they need to be washed. Simply place them in a tub of water until they are thoroughly wet. Do not wring them out, but hang on a line by the selvage and allow them to drip. A little salt in the water will set the colors. Such shades as pink, blue lavender and green should be hung in the shade when put out to dry, as the sun fades them quickly.

Wash silk hose, socks and underwear frequently and never allow them to remain dirty for any length of time, as perspiration causes a change of color and destroys the fabric.

Mend rips and tears when they first start. It saves stitches and prevents the garment from losing shape. If a run starts in a silk stocking smear the end of it with a bit of wet soap and it will stop the run until needle and thread can be obtained.

Hair Brushes Are Back Again

The hair brush is being restored to its rightful use. That article, used to spank Junior, or to drive a tack, is once more being put to its original use—to brush one's hair. Fashion's demand that hair look glossy and alive has done it—the old-fashioned custom of 50 strokes a day has been revived for winter coiffures.

Ruth Marrin, Beauty Editor of Good Housekeeping, as a recommender of the brush—for brushing says:

"Brushing stimulates circulation of blood through the scalp and so promotes the health of the hair. There is a possibility that it delays the tendency to premature grayness. At any rate it certainly keeps the hair healthier and more luxuriant than it would be without brushing.

"Women who brush their hair regularly keep it clean and shining between shampoos. Some women believe that brushing makes over-oily hair more oily than ever. I do not agree.

"Brushing does distribute oil over the entire length of the hair which, of course, makes it very valuable for harsh, dry, brittle hair. But in the case of oily hair some of the surplus oil is bound to be removed by the brush. Anyone who doubts that a brush is absolutely necessary to keep the hair clean need only brush her hair well and then wipe the brush off with a clean linen towel. Several days after the shampoo the towel shows an amount of grime.

"Daily brushing is helpful for scalps afflicted with dandruff. I also recommend a vigorous brushing just before a shampoo to loosen dandruff. For this, part the hair and brush either with a circular motion or an up and down motion in each spot—really a brushing massage. A shampoo after this treatment leaves a grand feeling!"

It Is Now Possible to Have Gleaming Nails in Only a Jiffy

By Therese Deschamps

A MANICURING MACHINE is about the last thing in the world I ever expected to see—but it's one of the latest inventions in the beauty field.

I must admit I was something like the man from Missouri when I first heard about this newfangled "contraption" . . . I had to see it before I'd believe such a thing possible. When I watched one demonstrated in Boston recently, however, I was agreeably surprised. In fact, it's a wonder some bright person didn't think of it before!

This machine really operates quite simply: After the operator files your nails into shape—whether you wear 'em pointy or oval makes no difference—your cuticle is gently but firmly pressed back with a neat little orangewood stick.

And it even buffs the nails as brightly as a freshly minted penny!

* * *

Of course it's too soon to predict whether this invention will ever come into general use or not . . . I'm not even a good weather prophet . . . but it's a clever idea, anyway.

The great thing about this machine is that an experienced operator can give you a good-looking manicure with it in a jiffy. Just think how dandy it would be not to need worry whether you have time for a manicure before you hurry back to the office on a short lunch hour!

At present, even expert manicurists allow about half an hour for each customer. Of course, when finger tips are treated to a weekly manicure, and cuticle is well cared for between times, a nimble-fingered girl can shorten this to 20 or 25 minutes.

* * *

My pet manicurist, however, told me the other afternoon that it takes her as much as 40 or 45 minutes to manicure the nails of a certain woman who neglects this important point of good grooming, and only has a professional treatment now and then.

Personally, I'm in favor of any invention in this busy old world of ours which makes it easier for us girls to keep well-groomed—for well-groomed we must be, at all costs!

I've seen some attractive home manicuring kits recently. Amazingly low-priced. Want to know where to find them? Send your inquiry to Therese Deschamps Boston Evening American 5 Winthrop sq., Boston. And don't forget to enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.)

Beauty Queries and Answers

Powder "Cakes"

Question: My nose is very oily, and my powder "cakes." What can I do?—D. S., Woonsocket, R. I.

Answer: Since your skin is so oily why not use an astringent before applying your makeup? It would be a good idea to cut down on the amount of fats and sweets you eat, since these make the oil glands work overtime.

Splashing cold water over your face and neck each time after cleansing them also is beneficial to oily skins. If you use creams on your face, do not allow them to remain on overnight.

Bust Exercises

Question: My bust and arms are much too fat and flabby, though I am not overweight. Please give me some exercises which will help to reduce them?—C. M., Milton.

Answer: I haven't room to give three exercises in detail here, but if you'll mail me a stamped, self-addressed envelope (repeating your question, please) I'll send them to you. Swimming, bumb-bell swinging and bowling are also good exercises for the bust and arms.

Blue Popular on Holiday Cards

Blue tones this year flaunt a gay challenge on Christmas cards to the traditional supremacy of red and green. Deep Andalusian blue, midnight, indigo, cobalt, the smart Eleanor blue beloved of Dame Fashion, bleu poudre, and turquoise are but a few of the numerous blue tones which make their debut with assured success.

The new reigning color favorite appears most often in striking combinations with white, silver and black. The soft richness of the deeper blue tones is used extensively in cards of definitely religious inspiration. Other cards, less formal in their brighter hues are a smart color background for silhouettes designs. One striking example covers itself with alternating squares of blue and silver, silhouetting in the center of each square, also in blue on silver, an appropriate holly wreath or Xmas tree, a bell or a star.

Combining blue with new variations of the familiar red and green is another up-to-date trick of the Spirit of Christmas, as in a book of vivid rose color spangled in gold, which displays a Christmas tree in bright blue, rose and jade with "Merry Christmas" inscribed below in blue.

By way of contrast, perhaps to these tropical hues, gray is used on a number of smart cards in monotones or in combinations with black, silver and white. Those who prefer warmer tones have a gay galaxy of orange and yellow, beige and brown.

Let the clouds go rolling by

WHEN you're healthy, you're happy! But when you're feeling badly, nothing seems to go right.

The blame for "blue" days can often be laid to common constipation. It may bring headaches, loss of appetite and energy.

Yet the most common types of constipation can be relieved easily and pleasantly by a delicious ready-to-eat cereal.

Laboratory tests show Kellogg's ALL-BRAN provides "bulk" to exercise the intestines, and vitamin B to aid elimination. ALL-BRAN is also rich in iron for the blood.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that in leafy vegetables. Inside the intestines, it absorbs moisture, gently extending and helping to cleanse them of wastes. Isn't this better than taking patent medicines?

Two tablespoonfuls of ALL-BRAN daily will correct most types of constipation. With each meal in chronic cases. If not relieved this way, see your doctor.

You can be sure of getting ALL BRAN, and not part bran, by looking at the label. Get the red-and-green package at your grocer's. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

IMPORTANT
Kellogg's ALL-BRAN contains nothing but all bran with a small percentage of flavor. It is recommended as much more efficient in relieving common constipation than purchas bran products which cannot contain as much "bulk."

Try These Oyster Dishes

By MARTHA LEE

From Martha Lee's Friday Morning Broadcast Over Station WAAB

OYSTERS R IN season.

We don't have to tell you about their delicate flavor. The only sing-ing song about oysters is the food value they contain. In fact they are more self-sufficient than many foods in our diet. So if you have always fed your family oysters as a delicacy, you can now give them oysters with a hearty gesture knowing that the necessary vitamins are present.

OYSTER STEW

1 qt. oysters
6 cups rich scalded milk
¼ cup butter
½ tbsp. salt
½ tsp. pepper
Paprika

Carefully pick over oysters, reserve liquor, and heat it to boiling point; strain through double cheesecloth, add oysters and cook until oysters are plump and edges begin to curl. Remove oysters with skimmer, and put in tureen with butter, salt and pepper. Add oyster liquor strained, a second time, and milk.

OYSTER PATTIES

½ cup butter
½ cup flour
½ tsp. salt
½ tsp. pepper
3 cups milk
1 cup cold cooked fowl
1 pt. oysters
½ cup minced celery

Melt the butter. Add the flour and seasoning. When mixed smooth, gradually stir in the milk. Add the cut celery. Cook and stir over the flame until thickened. Then cook over water 15 to 20 minutes to cook the flour thoroughly. Add the fowl cut into cubes one-half inch to a side. Heat the oysters in their own liquor until they are plump. Add them to the creamed mixture. Serve hot in patty shells or on hot toast.

FRIED OYSTERS

2 dozen large select oysters
2 eggs
1 cup crumbs, bread or cracker
½ tsp. salt
1 tbsp. boiling water
Deep hot fat

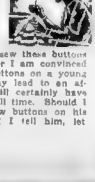
Rinse the oysters quickly and dry on a clean cloth, handling them as little as possible. Catch the oyster in the muscular part with a steel fork, dip it in the water, egg and salt beaten slightly and then in the crumbs. Avoid too much crumbs as these dilute the oyster flavor and if coated too heavily they may fall off in the fat in the cooking. Immerse in a fry pan of fat or, better, oil two inches deep.

PANDORA TELLS YOU

DEAR PANDORA:

I'm going with a bashful young man. I know that he likes to go around with me. We often meet in church, but it is always meeting and talking. He has a good position and I from what he says that he cannot sew the buttons on his coat. I am thinking what I should ventures so far to sew these buttons on his coat, for I am convinced that sewing buttons on a young man's coat may lead to an affection that will certainly have a history for all time. Should I continue to sew buttons on his coat or should I tell him, let mother do it. This is my trouble.

KITTY.



DEAR KITTY:

And you call that trouble? I'd call it an excellent romantic opportunity—or do you want to be an old maid all your life?

I've known beautiful Darby-and-Joan matrimonial attachments to result from a pretty girl sewing a button on a young man's coat, but as for me I would all depend on who's got the button. In your case, everything seems to be ALL RIGHT from that angle—a bashful young man whom you dote on (now, don't deny it). The fact that he's bashful and that he permits you to sew on his coat buttons instead of his mother, who undoubtedly could do more professionally if less breathlessly, is greatly in your favor. Make the most of it. Buy the poorest quality thread possible (I'm certain Mrs. Roosevelt will forgive you for breaking her sweatshop commandment in such a noble cause) so that the off again on again button business will keep you busy. You'll probably be so sick of sewing on buttons by the time you middle-aisle it that your young man will belated-ly beseech his mother to sew 'em on for him, but why bring that up?

PANDORA.

If you use the following words, put them on your taboo list: gent, girlie, hubby, dame, and lady friend. None of them should be included in your vocabulary.

THAT GIRL FROM NEW YORK

By Allene Corliss

Jerry Greatly Worried About Eden's Health and Conditions in His Mother's Home

"You can. See more of her, won't you, Lisbeth? I'm worried about her. She stays alone too much—or with Norah Shane. Norah's all right but I'm not sure she's good company for Eden just now—"

"Of course, Jerry. I'll do anything I can—"

"I know you will, Lisbeth! Wellhere's your corsage—"

He was lifting her coat. He was standing at her side as she put back. He was going on. Now she could turn and look back. She was halfway up the taxi when it was moving rapidly, her head bent against the wind.

She went on. Light. Another step and into the cool, calm office, back of her hat and then on a brass hook, stared at it blankly. What difference did it make that it did that, to her face, and dark, exciting things? Life was neither. Life was drab and quite without compassion or pity. It struck at you from behind and again.

Jerry Gazes at Ancestor's Picture

Somewhere in the house was a clatter, then an opening, a rush of voices, and the outer door. It was the maid. Eden would have just time to touch her nose hastily with powder and hurry up three flights of stairs and take her place on the platform between Mr. Wi[illegible] and Mr. Wi[illegible] mates and [illegible] and [illegible] wife [illegible] Jerry [illegible] hand, dried her nose and her eyes [illegible] fever. She hated the [illegible] hated all the [illegible] time of her life [illegible] long [illegible] her [illegible] mirror [illegible] half over her nose [illegible] light, her face [illegible] and [illegible] Went out into [illegible] a sigh.

Jerry let a [illegible] Eden. In his [illegible] feeling [illegible] and stared [illegible] on painting of [illegible] hung directly [illegible] end of the room.

Jerry had always [illegible] knowing [illegible]

"I think," he had been wont to say at various times in the past, flicking a friendly ash at the old gentleman, "we should have seen eye to eye in a great many matters."

But today he [illegible] it. Today, it seemed to [illegible] those shrewd gray eyes were staring down at him a little derisively, a little compassionately. It was as if this man who had handled his women so casually and so successfully was looking down with a little contempt and a little pity upon his grandson, who [illegible] so unfound and [illegible]

Because he was [illegible] just that.

Jerry's women. Eden and her mother. In possible [illegible] ens without thinking of one and painfully of the other. One such a thing would have seemed inconceivable but that it had, during those first few days when he was disposed of [illegible] rather high-handed manner.

He had left Ellsworth [illegible] was worried [illegible] And he was. For [illegible] had been definitely worried about her.

"Worried and bewildered and all shot to pieces," as he would have put it.

"It isn't," he told himself again today, "as if there were anything actually wrong between us. It isn't as if we had discovered we didn't love each other or something vital like that—it's just that Eden won't make the best of things for a while, try to please Mother, or at least get along with her.

"It doesn't," he concluded gloomily, as he had a dozen other times in thinking about it, "seem too much to ask, when you think what it's going to mean to me, to us—"

So [illegible] Jerry [illegible] eyes [illegible] And yet perhaps he was wrong. Perhaps it was too much to ask. He was beginning to [illegible] it was. Since that morning, two weeks ago now, when [illegible] quiet [illegible] breakfast table had ended and [illegible] she would never [illegible] his mother even [illegible] he had not been able to [illegible] great many things.

Why, he asked himself, was he [illegible] for instance with Eden [illegible] was any different from that [illegible] he had met at the five [illegible] in the [illegible] and [illegible] to Yonkers [illegible] that [illegible] cigarette [illegible]? At a [illegible] he had [illegible] the [illegible] To [illegible] her [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] something [illegible] Something sweet and huskily intimate? So much as she could have said it [illegible] other [illegible] a man.

Eden's Attitude on House Puzzles Him

And yet there were times, brief, passionate interludes when everything was [illegible] At those times he [illegible] to him [illegible] all [illegible] [illegible] over had [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] Eden and Jerry, [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

By Betty Alden

ONE OF THE MOST INTERESTING ENGAGEMENTS of the social world will be broadcast today when Mr. and Mrs. Ronald T. Lyman announce the engagement of their daughter Miss Charlotte Condit Lyman to Mr. Benjamin Schuyler Clark, son of Mr. and Mrs Harold Benjamin Clark of New York . . .

Miss Lyman was presented to society at a dance at her home on Beacon st., in the season of 1930 and at the Court of St. James last May She attended the Miss Winsor's school, St. Timothy's in Maryland, and Miss Sanoff's in Paris. She is a member of the Vincent Club and the Junior League.

CHARLOTTE LYMAN

Mr. Clark was graduated from St. Paul's and from Harvard with the class of 1931 and is a member of the class of 1934 at the Harvard Law School. He is a member of the Knickerbocker and Harvard Clubs of New York and of the Fly Club.

Whether you are a prohibitionist or whether you are not, we are sure you will be glad to hear of the one perfect place to wine, dine and dance in this village . . . The Cellar at the Hotel Brunswick Had we not just returned from a delightful birthday party given by Miss Gertrude Sands for Mrs. Albert Geiger we could more vividly go into detail . . . suffice to say at this hour that we have never enjoyed ourselves more, even in Paris where Russian singers woo one to romance and subtle liquers soothe one into oblivion . . .

Mrs. George Dunckley in Smart Gown

MRS. GEIGER IN BLACK VELVET and pearls graced the head of the table, her charming husband and son in the party, as were Mrs. George Dunckley, sister of Miss Sands, in the smart black and white of the mode, and Mr. Wendell Luce, well-known musical critic . . . Mr. L. M. Prior, inspirator of the Cellar, joined the party in time to drink the health in sparkling champagne (without a guilty conscience.)

We were in our native element which spells romance in any language . . . soft lights, sweet music, sensuous Russian singers, plaintive guitars, tempting viands, romantic atmosphere . . . Paris in our midst . . . no longer need we jump the five o'clock to go to New York for atmosphere, gaiety, tempo, joy . . . it is here, now, and the smart young set have discovered it is different . . .

We glimpsed Susan Wigglesworth at a table singing Russian love songs to the strains of a humming guitar and hear that she is often to be seen learning new Russian airs from the fascinating Russian singers who are artists at the Cellar . . .

Jane Brown in Blue and Mauve Chiffon

JANE BROWN WAS IN THE PARTY which included Miss Wigglesworth and her fiance, Edward Watkins, and Walter Holbrook . . . Miss Brown very chic in blue and mauve chiffon . . .

The cellar is different and fascinating and seems to have been in existence for centuries . . . you will adore the band of native instruments and the singers are really incomparable. If Boston does not appreciate the cellar we are going to admit defeat and resign ourselves to the past generation . . . when men were lovers and women the inspiration of poems.

Upstairs we happened in for a moment to the prohibition repeal dance to benefit the Silver Star World War Veterans in the Egyptian Room . . . Harriet Fuller, chairman, was entertaining a party in a smart black satin touched with ermine . . . Priscilla Saltonstall was in her favorite blue so becoming to her blonde beauty . . . Ellen Pierce was keeping her head in a black gown topped with an ermine wrap and Junia Mason was likewise swathed in ermine . . .

Barbara Hodges to Wed Jan. 4

BARBARA HODGES, DAUGHTER of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Davis Hodges of Marblehead Neck, has chosen Thursday, January 4, for her marriage to Thomas Kempshall Dunstan, son of Mr. and Mrs. James S. Dunstan of Lawrence, L. I. Only the two immediate families and a few intimate friends will be present at the ceremony which will take place in the Star of the Sea Church in Marblehead.

Miss Hodges is a member of the Vincent Club and Junior League and made her debut two years ago. Mr. Dunstan was graduated from Harvard with the class of 1933. The young couple will live in Woodmere, L. I., after they return from their wedding trip.

DEBUTANTES OF FUTURE TO BE MANNEQUINS AT STYLE SHOW

SOCIETY GREETS -:- FAIR DEBUTANTE

MISS SALLY PILLSBURY presented a charming picture at her presentation party at the Country Club when she made her bow with Miss Alice Moseley Clark. Miss Pillsbury's gown was of blue brocade taffeta embossed with flowers of gold and she carried an old-fashioned bouquet of flowers. She is the daughter of the Samuel Pillsburys.

'the social whirl' With Dorothy Whipple Fry

NOW IS A CHALLENGE SOUNDED TO SOCIETY. It is up to young and old to show that they know how to meet this new status quo by drinking intelligently. After all, even the teetotalers cannot actually object to the intelligent drinking.

At the Copley-Plaza merry-go-round we glimpsed many of last year's debs, all caught in the spirit of fun and merriment. Miss Helen Hewitt, who stepped into the entertainment spotlight in appearance in a new ermine opera coat and a bright tiara that gave her a queenly effect chatting with her handsome blonde escort and watching the celebration go on. Miss Rose Gordon Stearn was dainty in a musk-rose semi-formal most becoming to her and entirely attractive.

Rose Stearn

Miss Camilla Alsop of Milton and Cotuit is stepping into the fore as one of the season's most attractive debutantes. Her blue eyes and golden brown hair always neatly curled in her neck with that piquante face of hers and her decided charm of personality. Prominent is she in affairs at the Junior League

More and more social lights with charming voices are broadcasting and enjoying it tremendously. Mrs. Robert Daley, charming and animated young Brookline matron, has been singing now and then, Rosamond Musgrave has now joined the rostrum, and is broadcasting in behalf of the Mt. Pleasant Home for the Aged. Miss Margaret Lang, also interested in The Home, not only runs the broadcast, but gives of her own time twice a week, reading to the aged inmates of the home

Glimpsed Miss Anna Sortwell for a moment the other day after her election as chairman of the new members of The Vincent Club looking exceedingly happy and, as always, smartly frocked. On this occasion she wore an ensemble of brown with a gay wee hat perched on her curly locks, chatting with Eleanor King, also in brown, here being an exceedingly good looking swagger coat

Barbie Coffin of Chestnut Hill blonde, and adorable looking with touches of sapphire blue against the dark background of her ensemble. The cousins, Lee McKeen and Marie Turner, both of the North Shore, merrily chatting over their plans for celebrating the repeal after the Vincent Club meeting.

Bazaar Plans at Radcliffe

Among those on the committee for the Christmas bazaar at Radcliffe College tomorrow are Mrs. Robert Reynolds of Cambridge, Mrs. Charles Porter, Mrs. Edward Stimpson, Miss Mary Manson, Miss Rosamond Lombard, Miss Sarah Morison, Miss Frances Edwards, Miss Catherine Carr, Miss Jean Porter, Miss Dora Kittredge, Mrs. Irving Babbitt, Miss Darthea Hardrath, Miss Mary Almy, Mrs. Charles S. Bolster and Mrs. Horace Frost.

Mrs. George Gilbert of Brookline is chairman of the committee for the marionette show which is to be one of the special features for children.

Raymond Eaton in Musicale

Miss Geraldine Damon, with whom so many well known soloists have studied in this city, New York and London, has returned to Boston after 18 months absence and is greeting her friends at a musicale arranged for her artist pupil, Mr. Raymond Eaton, this evening, at her studio, 725 Boylston st.

Mr. Eaton won the $500 purse offered by the Federation of Musical Clubs in the United States, and who has been similarly honored in contests in Massachusetts and New England, has never studied with any teacher except Miss Damon, so his success is particularly pleasing to her many friends

Chatty Notes of Social Circles

MRS BENJAMIN S. TICKNOR of Brookline, has returned to her home from a short visit in New York, where she was a guest of the St. Regis Hotel)

This Is Life

—By Robert E. Rogers—

THE outgoing president of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers, in a recent address, has brought again to the fore the idea that only when engineers run the nation will the nation be properly run. He calls such a state "engineercracy," an ugly word with a suspicious resemblance to "technocracy" of unhallowed memory. His arguments are of the usual kind:

"Having developed the necessary technique for almost unlimited production of wealth the engineer can no longer afford to stand aside while financiers, promoters and politicians go tragically bungle the problem of its distribution. The engineer is becoming more and more interested in finance and is, to an increasing extent, the directing head of industry and public works.

"Engineering is inevitably headed toward responsibility for maintaining that balance in the social structure which modern conditions have sometimes so violently upset and toward active participation in political affairs where clear thinking and courageous action are so badly needed."

Talents Out of Balance

THAT is the typical wish reverie of the engineer. For 20 years now I have listened to talk like that at meeting of engineering associations, of alumni groups of engineering students, from presidents of engineering institutions. Even the undergraduates have piped the same theme in their artless theses and oral exercises. The educational world and the engineering world is strong for the idea. It is noticeable that one hears little or nothing in its favor from the big industrialists and the financiers, who are able to employ able engineers to do their technical work while they keep the reins of power in their hands.

That is because, I suspect, they shrewdly surmise that the talents which make a good engineer are not always the talents which make a good executive, either in industry or in politics. Even if the talents are adequate, existing engineering education certainly does not fit the average engineer to be anything much but a technical man, a designer, a practical executive, but hardly a statesman. Of that I am sure, after watching engineering education intimately for over a score of years.

Want Full Control

That is, assuming that we are still speaking in terms of democracy. If we are speaking of Fascism, that is another matter. As a matter of fact, I suspect that many of these gentlemen who demand engineering in politics are thinking of Fascism. They want a government removed from the control of the people, free from the necessities of political candidacies, of elections and the like, functioning as a great corporation functions, responsible to none save the board of directors. They would like to see the democracy in exactly the position occupied today by the stockholders of a corporation, theoretically in control, but practically helpless either to direct or to save their investment.

Were such a concept to be forced on us in America, I should agree heartily that the superior engineer, probably one who has had a liberal arts education before he has studied his profession, would be able to do a far better job than most of the amateurs whom we elect as politicians. Mind you, only if they did not have to be checked and balanced by elective legislatures. Even today, what the administration can do in the absence of the Congress is a very different thing from what it is going to be able to do when the Congress meets again.

Two Different Jobs

BUT none of these Utopians will come out flatly and say they want their engineer-kings, to modernize Plato's phrase, to function without democratic control. Presumably they mean that they want engineers to go into politics. That is a different and a more hopeless proposition. An engineer holding elective office, under present conditions, would probably be no more successful than the present politicians, many of whom are very able men.

The alternative is that the depression shall last long enough to drive competent engineers out of private practice into badly paid but reasonably permanent and safe civil service posts. We might then have a civil service approximating that of England. But even so, our engineers would still be at the mercy of the Congress on the one hand and of the plum-gatherers, the executives appointed for four or eight years for political reasons, and would still find their hands tied.

But the basic reason for my skepticism remains: that the job of political management is vitally different from the job of industrial management. Efficient production, efficient distribution even, are comparatively simple. But the leadership of a people to the ends of statesmanship is a task to which the engineering mind and the engineering training bear little relation. The elements of emotion, intuition, and philosophy enter into it quite as much as the elements of efficiency, economy, and honesty. And to date the product of our American engineering schools show few signs of being fitted, either by background, temperament or education, for the tasks of statesmanship.

Three Partners

—By Clarence Day—

AS soon as an author sits down to write he gets into trouble. Inside his head is a group of three partners by whom the work must be done, but most of the time they don't get on with each other at all.

One member of this partnership is the brain. He is orderly and rather dull. He considers himself the head of the firm, he wishes to make all decisions.

Another member is the impulse to create. He is full of color but headstrong. He wants to do things his own way, whether the brain likes it or not. He and the brain sometimes work well together, by accident, but they never mean to—each wants the other to serve him and obey all his orders.

The third partner is the attention. He is a weak, distractable person, and he has no sense of order. Both the brain and the creative impulse try to train him, and teach him to be steady-going. They have little success.

• • •

ON days when the brain gets the upper hand of the others, he commands the attention to be steady, while he lays out with exactness and pleasure a logical path, and he commands the creative impulse to begin at the beginning and go coherently on to the end. This greatly depresses the creative impulse and makes him resentful and dogged.

After they finish the brain broods over the results with disgust and walks out of the office.

The creative impulse then brightens at once. He seizes the pen, scratches the logic all out of the path, begins in the middle, roars and snorts, and runs around in a circle. The brain looks in at the door, surveys him severely, and says, "Drunk again."

Meanwhile, the attention has been amiable but languid. When his partners force him to be steady and do what he's told he feels extremely fatigued. He allows himself to be pulled around every which way, but he won't take hold of anything. Sometimes he pretends to, for a moment, but then he skips off to look at the newspaper or he dreams about girls or money.

THE only way the three partners can ever get anything done is for the other two to let the attention be captain. They grumble at this. They each predict gloomily that he'll surely lead them off on some impracticable, useless wild goose chase and they'll have hard work to obey his flighty orders and there will be nothing to show for it. Still, they occasionally consent to do just what he says.

This enchants him. Something he hops about like a flea, making his partners do a dab of work here and another dab there, never getting any one thing half done, yet piling up fragments of material for them to sort over later. Sometimes, to everyone's surprise, including his own, he sticks to one road for days at a time. Once in a long while he even keeps on to the end.

By that time, the impulse to create is worn out, because he has had to do all the work. The brain—which has been left far behind—hurries importantly up. He takes charge. He says that the material is much better than he had hoped. He adds, however, that of course it's in wretched shape. Usually, this is true. He happily sits down to fix it up all by himself and makes it so neat and exact that he spoils the whole thing.

Twenty-five Years of Revolutions

—By Guglielmo Ferrero—

GENEVA. Every morning when I open my newspaper to learn the history of the preceding day I ask myself this question: "What new revolution broke out yesterday and in what country did it break out?"

The world lives in a regime of permanent revolutions. No part of the world escapes this destiny. In 1933—and the year is not yet finished—we have seen two coups d'état in Europe—the National Socialist coup d'état in Germany and the Dollfus coup d'état in Austria, a rather violent revolution in America—in Cuba, and a very mysterious revolution in Asia—in Siam. Of this one very little is known in Europe.

How many coups d'état, insurrections, revolutions, pronunciamentos, have taken place since 1919 in all parts of the world? The statistics would be voluminous. In all countries the public has come to consider events of this kind—which before 1914 filled them with amazement—as normal events. They are hardly interested, unless the revolution is geographically very near.

• • •

Distant Revolutions

A FEW days ago I asked the editor of a leading European newspaper why he gave so little news of the revolutions in Cuba and Siam. He shrugged his shoulders and replied, "The public takes hardly any interest in such distant revolutions."

The public, through weariness, has become victims of a strange delusion. In Europe they take little interest in the revolutions of America and Asia; in America they take little interest in the revolutions of Asia and Europe; in Asia, probably, they take little interest in the revolutions of Europe and America. This would be all right if it were a question of sporadic and isolated revolutions. But all these revolutions which follow each other, even at a great distance, end by creating a situation of general disorder which ruins the entire world.

An economic crisis of ever-increasing gravity torments humanity today. In all countries the commerce, agriculture, industry and finance of States and individuals are beset by difficulties which increasingly preoccupy all classes of society. The most complicated causes are sought for this state of general uneasiness. Even the bankruptcy of the capitalist system and of the whole western civilization is suggested. But would it not be useful to remember, in order to explain the fearful condition in which the world finds itself, that we have been living for twenty-years under the sign of revolution and war?

Why World Is Broke

THE world disturbances began just twenty-five years ago, in 1908, in Constantinople, with the Young Turk revolution. Since then the world has had hardly any respite. Wars and revolutions, great and small, have followed in succession all over the world. Among the wars there was no less than the European war, which became "the world war," and cost the lives of ten million persons. Among the revolutions there were no less than the Chinese revolution, the Russian revolution and the German revolution.

Is it surprising that after twenty-five years of wars and revolutions the world is impoverished?

Instead of shrugging our shoulders when a war or a revolution breaks out far from our frontiers it would be time to begin telling ourselves seriously that if the world is to retrieve its prosperity it must make peace seriously and restore order.

Song of Poetic Endeavor

(After Gilbert, and after reading the following by Charles Brown Towne: "Prune sonnets have no doubt been written on empty stomachs; but quite as many have been composed when the poet was well nourished . . . Peas do not rattle across paper when a poet's family is waiting for food.")

When a poet is engaged in versification—
Versification.
There should be no petty worries on his head—
On his head:
When responding to his muse's inspiration—
Inspiration,
It's imperative that he be duly fed—
Duly fed.
For his feelings are most difficult to smother—
'Cult to smother.
When poetic duty's waiting to be done—
To be done.
Ah, take one consideration with another—
With another.
A poet's lot is not a happy one.
When poetic duty's waiting to be done—
To be done,
A poet's lot is not a happy one.

A Mark for All to See

A Number of Things

By Charles Hanson Towne—

IT is difficult for some people to learn to play contract bridge by reading the multifarious columns on the subject. I happen to be one of the band that profit only by the mistakes they make with their friends during a practical rubber or two. Yet "Kern's Bridge Service," brought out by Long & Smith, is as stimulating and informative a treatise as I have ever come across. It is simply and charmingly written and it offers some sound advice in readable language, so that one is engrossed from the beginning to the end. Nothing, for instance, could be better said than this:

The intuitive player, particularly if he has been reared in an atmosphere of card play, may become proficient with little book knowledge. Nevertheless, to become an expert he must acquire a sixth sense of card values. This he can often do by playing with people who have studied the texts. Players who frequent such company often boast, "I have never looked at a bridge book." It must be remembered, however, that such a player bears all of the discussions at the bridge table and is keen enough to absorb them. In reality this is book knowledge, but it is received at second hand."

THE game of bridge—the most fascinating in the world—comes upon one gradually and, if not over-indulged in, proves a boon in off hours. It stimulates the mind as nothing else does, save perhaps anagrams and chess. But danger lurks in it. One should resolve never to play in the daytime, save, perhaps, on a rainy week-end in the country, and not far into the night. Taken seriously, yet not too seriously, it becomes a distinct social advantage to be able to play a moderately good game, just as one should know how to dance. It was Charles Lamb who said that most of us welcome "a clean hearth, a clear fire and the rigor of the game." In all of Maugham's stories of the Far East we get pictures of four people becoming well acquainted around a bridge table, and he has said that to learn bridge is to insure oneself against a lonely old age.

So, if you are intelligently interested in spending many a quiet evening with your friends, I wholeheartedly commend Willard Kern as a wise and helpful book of rules with its running comments, its laid-out hands, its delightful conversational style. It is the last word in common sense.

SWISS, Bernhard Diebold, has edited an international little volume which he calls "The Book of Good Deeds" (Farrar & Rinehart). It tells of various gallantries of soldiers of all nations to their enemies in the World War and it should do much to prove to us again that kindness, as one of the noblest of human emotions, is not something belonging to one race alone. It is a universal heritage and the German soldier was as thoughtful of his prisoners as were the French, the English or the Italians. The tales told are authentically signed and they ring true. They give you back your perhaps lost faith in man and a few of them will make your blood tingle. H. Lehman-Haupt has translated them.

The same firm has brought out for the holidays a superb edition of Hervey Allen's best seller, "Anthony Adverse," in two sumptuous volumes, which retails at $5. A handsome gift edition is this and it will doubtless go into several large editions before the season is over.

Letters I Would Love to Mail

—By J. P. McEvoy—

HOLLYWOOD, Cal. December 8 1933

To the U. S. Government
Washington, D. C.

Dear Gov:

I hope you don't mind if I pass some of my troubles on to you. That's what you seem to be for these days. I can remember 'way back when people used to solve their own troubles, or at least they made the attempt. But now we have found it much easier to pass them on to you and then if things don't come out right we have somebody to blame. In the old days we had to blame ourselves and that got to be downright embarrassing.

Well, Gov, I know you are busy with capital and labor and the farmer and the worker and the consumer and the chiseler. In fact, when you say chiseler you cover most of them. And now that you are going to have one hundred and sixty million bolsheviks to play with, you may not have much time for me, but I've got a problem and you're going to get it just the same, because if I don't pass it on to somebody else it would wind up in your lap anyway. And I might just as well save time by shooting a straight pass to you. And this is it.

WHENEVER I give a cocktail party, or I go to one there is a painful pause just before the kick-off, which nobody seems to know what to do about. All the guests stand around on first one foot and then the other, or else they sit very grimly on the edges of chairs and couches and stare at each other. Occasionally a face cracks open with a smile, but the sound is so startling every one is embarrassed.

More guests come in and are frantically introduced all around by the host, while the hostess is trying to hurry the drinks along. It seems there are stuffed celery and other tid-bits but no drinks, or else drinks are ready but they are still mixing the celery. This causes the hostess such embarrassment, which the host tries to pass off with a few pleasantries delivered in a high, hysterical voice. By this time a dozen conversations have died aborning and the room is as full of joy as a closed bank.

• • •

NOW, Gov, I'm not telling you anything new when I just know there's something odd here, and I'm wondering what it is. Are people really afraid of each other, or afraid of themselves? Or are they mad at each other, or mad at themselves? Or are they just shy, like me?

You know, Gov, I can't get anyone to believe I'm really shy. They always point at me up at the chandelier before the evening is over and say, "Shy, huh!" But I'm only trying to hide. If they are shy, why do they go to parties? I often ask myself but I can't get an answer. That's how shy I am.

But I think the real answer is that people don't like each other, and they don't like themselves, either. And it's only after a few drinks that they forget who they are, and then, of course, they don't remember any more what they are talking about.

Well, Gov, I've proposed the problem and I have analyzed it. All I'm waiting for now is the solution, and when I get it I'll pass it on. There are millions in this land of ours sitting sullenly around in thousands of living rooms waiting unhappily for the answer.

Anxiously,
J. P. McEVOY.

The Road Is True

WHEN dawn is bright with morning light,
I come to you across the dew
No lure can stray me from my way,
The road is true. I come to you

The larks will greet me as I come
With songs to lead my footsteps home
I know that fringed gentians wait
To greet me at the garden gate

When night is gone, out of the dawn
I come to you with dreams for two
Though mist be curled across the world,
The road is true. I come to you

Vagabondia

—By Bruno Lessing—

ROME. This morning the sun shone. And when the sun shines in Rome in November you have a bit of Paradise. So I started out joyously in the old car to size up a villino, or little villa, in Prascati. It had eight rooms, the proprietor had telephoned me, and all modern comforts, including a garden and electricity and heat. I no longer had Rene, my old chauffeur-pal, so I hired a new guy by the day. He was a tall, impressive-looking slob, with pink cheeks, clear eyes and a merry air about him. He told me he had drivers cars for twenty years and knew every make. He also told me that he knew Rome by heart. He also told me he loved dogs and children. In fact, he was so darn perfect that something told me—but wait till you get it. I told him to drive out to the little villa.

On the way he stopped several times to ask people for directions. "I thought you knew Rome," I remarked. He took both hands off the wheel and spread them out. "Ah, yes," he replied, "but it is better to be sure." Which left me just a bit flat. My joyousness discovered a leak and began to ooze out.

• • •

Getting Used to It

THE owner of the villa was also a jovial person. He pointed out the beauties of the view. "You can see the mountains from every window," he said. "Let's go inside and see the rooms," said I. "But wait until I show you the garage and the garden," said he. "I'll see those later," said I. "I want to see nothing but the rooms." A look of sadness came over his face. He showed me two small bedrooms. But I advertised for three." I explained. "Sometimes I have visitors." He shrugged his shoulders. "There is a room in the attic that I could fix up for you, or one in the cellar." "All right," I said. "Now where are the two bathrooms that I asked for?" He smiled. "You will not find two bathrooms in any villa in this neighborhood."

Then it turned out that there was no way of heating the place except by oil or electric stoves. There would be gas within a few months—he hoped—but there was none yet. And if you wanted a bit of hot water you had to make a wood fire. Wood, he said, was cheap. "But where are the modern comforts, that you said you had?" He almost had tears in his eyes. "The air is very healthy here," he said, "and the view is beautiful."

Well, of course, a little more of my joyousness oozed out, but I wasn't really shocked. I'm used getting used to such disillusions in Italy.

A Crash

ON THE way back a sudden shower sprang up. My new chauffeur stopped the car, closed every window and made sure of my comfort. Then he sped along a steaming, asphalt road. It was a very wide road. Ahead of us a donkey cart trudged slowly on, laden with household furniture. I was two hundred feet ahead, but I never interfere with a chauffeur. That cart was only about four feet wide and right on the edge of the road and I wondered why they didn't keep it slightly to one side and use some of the other twenty-six feet of the road's width. But no. He just drove right on. Now where are the two bathrooms that I asked for

NEW BUILDING TAKES A TURN FOR BETTER

November Total Is Best Seen in Over Two Years

New building in New England took a turn for the better several weeks ago and has since sustained its improved volume reasonably well. The [illegible] construction throughout most of the country, has certainly been helped by public building projects. F. W. Residential building, which had been lagging, has joined the upswing in the past month the total was 22 per cent above a year ago. Certainly there is some background for the new bullishness which has been making its appearance in the shares markets, quite aside from that furnished by the inspirational actions of directors on dividends.

England's Bond Market

By JOSEPH STAGG LAWRENCE
Editor, The Economist

This chart shows the experience of John Bull with his own bond market. It is of interest for a number of reasons. In the first place, it shows the response, if any, of bond prices to the purchasing power of sterling. Second, it marks rather clearly the depressing influence of England's return to gold in April, 1925. In the third place, there is the response to the turn in the business tide during 1929, and finally, the sharp relapse in 1931, and the rise since that time.

The course of wholesale prices in England since the end of 1924 has been steadily downward. This declining trend has been arrested, it is true, during the past two years. However, insofar as the average of 87 bond prices in London is concerned, fairly wide changes in the purchasing power of sterling apparently have had no effect whatsoever upon the price of senior securities.

Insofar as the aforementioned change are concerned, business prospects and confidence in the English government apparently are far more vital factors in their effect upon prices than any changes in the purchasing power of sterling. The recovery which England as well as the world experienced in 1922 and 1923 definitely lifted bond prices to an early postwar peak.

We can see reflected also the fear that stabilization of the pound in terms of gold would have an unhappy effect upon British industry—a fact, incidentally, which was correctly anticipated. The very modest recovery which England experienced during 1927 and 1928 was followed by a sharp decline during the greater part of 1929.

Live News of Active Leaders in Wall St.

THOSE studying intently the action of earlier securities today declared the fact that rail stocks "went through" was less important than the showing of second-grade interest bonds. They contend that the good showings made by these liens both yesterday and today was most important. They contend that augmented demand for these bonds is one of the most encouraging features of the railroad security situation in a long time.

Advance in Steel Issues Looked For

Those who are bullish on steel shares say they are all set for a substantial advance based on expectation of increased operations and business. Incidentally, the improvement in operations at the moment is contrary to the usual trend in the last four years as the uptrend in the industry from a seasonal standpoint does not begin [illegible] until February.

Views on Chrysler Are Found Split

Those bullish on Chrysler predict a new model which will be "sensational!" There is still a lot of propaganda anent a bearish attitude on the stock in the Street, the source of which is difficult to trace.

Fertilizers Are in the Limelight

Fertilizer company shares are again in a modest limelight. Some fertilizer companies are increasing their manufacture of plant feed in expectation of heavy demand when selling season opens early next year.

Gold Is Unchanged for the 7th Day

Washington, Dec. 8—The price of gold was unchanged for the seventh consecutive session by the R. F. C. today. The Treasury said today that subscriptions on its $500,000,000 one-year security issue exceed that figure by nearly three times.

SOFT PEDAL ON INFLATION IS LOOKED FOR

Code Matters Likely to Be Brought to the Fore, Says Haney

By LEWIS HANEY
Professor of Economics, New York University

New York, Dec. 8—It seems probable that for a time now, we will see more emphasis laid upon "social control" and compulsory "cooperation" in business, and less emphasis of monetary manipulation

For a while, at least, matters pertaining to the codes, NRA and AAA, are likely to come to the front, while inflation is soft pedaled.

* * *

In the first place we note the activity in further organization or reorganization of the various agencies of governmental control.

Considerable administrative upheaval seems to have occurred. As a result, the control of several code organizations is transferred from AAA to NRA, and Mr. Peek's power is somewhat reduced, while Tugwell is likely to gain.

At the same time another attempt has been made to bring some order into the working of the numerous "administrations" by creating a new co-ordinate body to be known as the NEC (National Emergency Council), under the leadership of F. C. Walker, treasurer of the Democratic National Committee.

These two things appear to mean (1) further victory for the more liberal elements in the administration, and (2) an attempt to get the social control agencies into shape for functioning more effectively.

Then there is the President's last speech. In it there is no mention of inflation, but a great deal about a "new philosophy" of "social justice" and "spiritual values."

The President tells the churches that while the government will not interfere with their "worship of God in their own way," it can ask them "to stress in their teaching the ideals of social justice."

He goes so far as to say that the churches may "teach their millions of followers that they have the right to demand of the government . . . a more abundant life."

That is a tremendous statement. Think it over

* * *

So it seems that "collective effort on broad lines of social planning" is to be stressed at this time

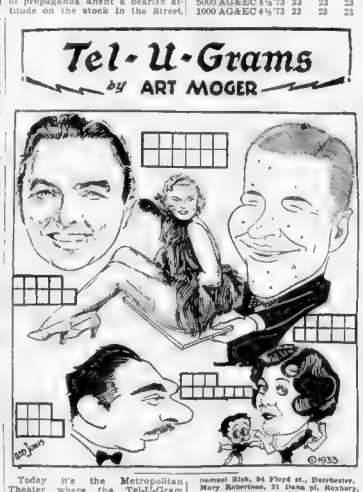
On the other hand, the conflict on the monetary front has subsided down. This may be due in part to the current phase of government financing.

But the big point is that just at this time there is a chance that the various government plans of relief, business stimulation and dollar depreciation, fall into such a combination that they will "click" and produce an expansion of business.

Just now there is the best chance of that that has yet existed

Tel-U-Grams

by ART MOGER



Today it's the Metropolitan Theater where the Tel-U-Gram fans will find the stars who are to be identified and where they'll be able to win free tickets.

Study the stars in the accompanying cartoon and fill in the names of the entertainers in the cartoon provided in the drawings. All the entertainers, included in the cartoon above, are appearing at the Metropolitan today.

That's all there is to the Tel-U-Gram contest—all except the mailing of your solution to the Tel-U-Gram Editor, Boston Evening American, 18 Winthrop sq., P. O. Box 2067, Boston, Mass. The first 25 to send in the correct solutions will each get a ticket to the Metropolitan Theater.

The following were mailed tickets for correct solutions of yesterday's Tel-U-Gram:

Norman Rich, 94 Floyd st., Dorchester.
Mary Rostoucer, 21 Hazel pl., Roxbury.
Francis Clements, 60 Dickens st., Dor.
Marcia Gewirtz, 42 Spencer circle, Lynn.

State St. Circles Inclined to Rest After Bull Spurt

By HUGH E. BRADSHAW

State st. trading circles, while still feeling pretty cocky, are inclined to rest from their bullish endeavors for the time being. They say the list has come a long way—nearly 20 points on the industrial average—from the mid-October reaction lows and is entitled to a rest. The rails, however, have only climbed about seven points in the same period and may not do much other than hesitate.

With such a possibility in mind there is nothing for us to do but sit tight in our position, which is concentrated on the rail section. The balance of holdings are presumably in the steel bracket and this section is out of line with the industrial average. Consequently there is little reason to unload. Rather we will wait out reactions believing a dip will only be temporary.

INFLATION IS DEAD ISSUE

Inquiries made in the financial district reveal that those entertaining bullish thoughts are doing so because they believe fundamentals are right. This in contrast to previous opinions that inflation, or the threat of it, alone made the ownership of common stocks desirable for those controlling wealth.

The rails, for instance, are well liked as responsible quarters because expanding industrial operations seem certain to bring a nice increase in carloadings and, of course, gross income. Almost without exception the popular rail equities enjoy a leverage which means a tremendous part of gross goes to net.

* * *

Notes: Do not confuse the bit of caution now for bearishness . . . Or for lack of confidence in the move . . . It is sometimes a good habit to stop and look at the progress made . . . Tends to promote a balanced outlook . . . Keep with the trend, by all means, but be ready to pick up choice steel and rails again . . . And aircraft issues

United States Realty is reported under accumulation by a strong Boston and New York crowd. The story is that the hotel properties are expected to make a good comeback now that repeal is with us. Inflation could not make it go but sound fundamental changes are very likely to turn the trick, we hear.

BIG BUSINESS CHEERY OVER NEW DEAL

Financial World Is Cheered by Way Securities Act

By B. C. FORBES

You can open a conversation with many a business man today without immediately drawing on your [illegible] for a [illegible] of pessimism. Were I to attempt to sum up the predominating attitude of business leaders today, I would express it thus

The majority are more or less perturbed over the course of the things being done at Washington, but nevertheless, they are hopeful that [illegible] will be [illegible] satisfactorily [illegible] to recovery will develop. Industrialists are sore what less doubtful than Sinkers. Many Industrial companies have enjoyed quite substantial improvement in earnings. In certain industries ruinous price-cutting has been stopped, in others abated

B. C. Forbes

The financial world is fairly well satisfied with the recent action of stocks and bonds. But it is alarmed over the magnitude of governmental expenditures, the impossibility of foretelling what may happen to the nation's currency, and the deadlock between capital-raising Interposed by the Securities Act

On balance, encouragement has an edge over discouragement.

* * *

Running across B. G. Dahlberg, the extremely industrious manufacturing of the Celotex Company, I got from him these cheerful facts and figures:

"Our business this quarter is running fully 50 per cent ahead of last year's. I am sure I can convince us that we are going to have a good 1934. There is to be extensive rebuilding on homes of the $2500-$5000 class. We are busy perfecting a type of small home which will cost less than anything now available.

"We have shown an operating profit since May."

This relatively executive isn't depending upon NRA or any other body at Washington to shower prosperity upon his business. "We are making headway mainly because we are diligently on the job and always will stay—and refuse to admit defeat," he observed.

New York Dec ' 5—Pivotal shares were generally lower on the New York Stock Exchange this afternoon, with recessions generally held around a point or so. Profit-taking and week-end evening up of accounts made their appearance.

The close was slightly above the days lows in most cases. American Telephone was strong.

There was little in the news to influence the course of the market. Trade continued good, business somewhat better and laid the gain in part to the advent of repeal.

Strength in the dollar proved a negligible market factor, as did also the action of the R. F. C. in holding the gold price unchanged.

Commodity markets moved largely in a sympathetic manner. Grains were mostly easier and cotton held steady along with silver, milk and other commodities.

Railroad shares disappointed by failing to "carry through" further today, but demand for second-grade rails and liens was held by traders to be important.

In the first hour changes were mixed in dull trading. Shares of Illinois preferred rose more than 3 points. Point or better gains were made by American Telephone, Atchison and Loew's, while Auburn rose nearly 2 points higher.

American Commercial Alcohol was off a point. Small declines came in Kennecott, U. S. Steel, duPont, U. S. Smelting and New York Central. Macey's gained a major fraction.

Sales up 1 1-2 m. approximated 800,000 shares.

In the second hour utilities were quiet, Tobacco shares were sold in small volume with American Tobacco B losing more than a point. Liquor sales were quiet and easy.

Motors were quiet and easy. The specialty shares such as Texas Gulf Sulphur, Allied Chemical, and du Pont lost early strength and eased along with the rest of the market.

Sales to noon approximated 680,-000 shares.

In the third hour industrial rails running to a point or two were scattered through the list. American Commercial Alcohol and Ingersoll-Rand were down two or more. Lowe's and Auburn held up a point.

Setbacks of a point or more were shown in Case, Texas Gulf Sulphur, Crown Cork, Allied Chemical, National Biscuit, Cerro de Pasco, Delaware & Hudson, General Railway Signal, Johns-Manville and others. U. S. Steel was down fractionally.

U. S. HALTS GOLD PRICE TO STUDY WORLD MART

Washington, Dec 8 (INS)—The administration has slowed down its gold-buying operation again.

Maintenance of the price at $34 01 per ounce today, marked the seventh successive day in which no change has been noted, and indicated anew that there is to be no precipitate rush toward the $41 34 mark so ardently desired by the inflationists. Gold at $41.34, or double the statutory price, would be tantamount to a 50-cent dollar.

How much gold has been purchased in the world market was not revealed, but it was authoritatively stated that world purchases would hardly more than fill the cavity in a small tooth.

If, as Paris reports, there have been heavy withdrawals of gold from the Bank of France, American purchasers have not been responsible.

The administration's purchase policy has been slowed down several times since it was inaugurated late in October. Always it has been resumed again at slightly higher prices.

The expectation now is that the present price will again be advanced, although when and how much are questions that go unanswered in administration quarters. The frequent breathing spells afford opportunity for the economists and students of the commodity dollar of the Warren school to study the effect on commodity prices.

The Warren theory is that there is a close relationship between gold prices and commodity prices, that they rise and fall together. That theory is now being tested.

Administration officials expressed themselves today entirely satisfied with the position of the dollar and the government's credit, despite attacks on the Roosevelt monetary policy in many quarters.

The Treasury is particularly pleased over the quick oversubscription of an offering of $100,000,000 in one-year 2½ certificates.

TUGWELL FOOD BILL SCORED

Washington, Dec 8 (INS)—A severe attack on the drastic "false advertising" section of the Tugwell Pure Food, Drug and Cosmetic bill was made at Senate hearings today by Charles W Dunn spokesman for the Associated Grocery Manufacturers of America and the American Pharmaceutical Association.

Dunn assailed the bill generally asserting it would set up a dictatorship and substitute shifting requirements promulgated by the secretary of agriculture, in lieu of existing fixed requirements.

Dr G H Rea, spokesman for the National Drug Trade Conference declared:

"If this measure is enacted as it stands now, the drug trade can be assured of demoralization for the next five years."

The "false advertising," section, Dunn pointed out, declares that "an advertisement of a food, drug or cosmetic shall be deemed to be false if in any particular it is untrue, or by ambiguity creates a misleading impression regarding such food, drug or cosmetic."

FREIGHT PAPER RATES CUT

Washington, Dec. 8 (AP)—The Interstate Commerce Commission today directed railroads serving newsprint mills in New York, New England and Wisconsin as well as those around Canadian mills to revise freight rates on the paper to the eastern, central and southern sections of the country.

In most instances the new rates would be reductions.

From New York and New England mills and western trunk line territory to representative destinations in southern territory, a long series of rates based on official 6th class and approximately 25 per cent of southern 1st class rates were prescribed.

In a series of special findings the commission reduced the rate from the the international boundary and from Ottawa, Ont., to Brockton, Mass., from 39.5 per 100 pounds to 34 cents.

Suicide Sought in Easton Swamp

Easton, Dec. 8 — State troopers today continued their search of the Hockamock swamp, started here yesterday after the discovery of a man's suit of clothing at the edge of a creek passing through the swamp. Police said they believed the owner of the clothing was a suicide or had met with foul play.

Frauds Seek Funds for Bogus Society

Warning is sent out that one or more persons are soliciting funds from the wealthy for a bogus newspaper organization, either personally or through the mails. No legitimate newspaper organization in Boston is conducting any such drive for funds or soliciting aid.

Cold Wave on Way

A cold wave is due to hit Boston Saturday night and Sunday, with temperatures falling considerably below freezing, it was announced today at the Weather Bureau in Federal Building.

Coordinator of U. S. Credit Is Optimistic

Washington, Dec. 8 (AP)—With words of enthusiasm over the recovery outlook, Henry Bruere, federal bureau co-ordinator, left Washington today to return as president of the Bowery Savings Bank in New York.

"I am very enthusiastic over what I have seen here," he said as he left the White House, "and I return to New York very enthusiastic over the whole situation and the way it is moving ahead.

Chief Versus Chief, But Prisoner Loses

It was a case of the police chief of Lynnfield, against the police chief of Saugus, in Lynn district court today. Judge Philip A. Kiely agreed with the latter and Harry F. Griffin, Lynnfield fireman and special officer, was convicted of drunkenness and drunken driving and fined $100.

His own chief, Alfred G Tedford, said he saw him 15 minutes after his arrest, Dec. 5 and found him sober. As prosecuting officer, Chief John T Stewart of Saugus, dissented. Griffin appealed.

BIER OF 'WAXEY'S' SON MOBBED

New York, Dec. 8 (INS)—A mob of morbid souvenir hunters would not leave Waxey Gordon, ex-beer king, alone with his grief today.

Even as they had done at the funeral of Texas Guinan, Broadway's first hostess, a pack of women and men tore the flowers from the coffin of Waxey's son, Theodore, 19, killed in an automobile accident at Chester, Pa. Young Wexler (his father's real name) was speeding to New York to plead for mercy for his father, convicted of evasion of income tax payments.

The funeral chapel where Gordon, his wife and children came to weep, was jammed with the curious. As Gordon and his family wept, the mob craned and laughed and jostled.

When the services were finished, the mob leaped forward and fought for the flowers on the casket. Clothing was torn and women were trampled upon. A handful of the old Waxey Gordon gang tried to prevent the desecration but the tidal wave of the morbid rolled over them.

An emergency police call finally dispersed the mob.

U. S. marshals were very considerate of the gangster, leaving him unguarded during the services and at the grave.

Friend of Hoovers Admits P. O. Theft

Alexandria, Va., Dec. 8—Aludema Sayre, 60-year-old classmate of Mrs. Herbert Hoover, who served as postmistress at Fairfax, Va., during President Hoover's regime, pleaded guilty to a charge of embezzlement in the federal court here.

Miss Sayre, who was a frequent visitor at the White House during President Hoover's occupancy, was charged with the embezzlement of $3372 of government funds and property while functioning as postmistress of the Fairfax post office.

De Valera Bans Blue Shirts for Rioting

Dublin, Dec. 8 (INS)—President Esmonn de Valera today issued a proclamation banning the Blue Shirt organization as illegal under the Public Safety Act.

The proclamation was issued after the Blue Shirts had staged demonstrations in defiance of government orders.

U. S. to Auction Steamer

U. S. Marshal Keville today announced that the gas screw steamer Envesavor will be sold at public auction at noon Saturday.

NEW FORD V·8 for 1934

THE UNIVERSAL CAR

The New Ford V-8 for 1934 will be on display tomorrow at the showrooms of Ford dealers. Surpassing even the great Ford of 1933 in economy, beauty and comfort, it is truly the car of this modern age—the culmination of thirty years Ford progress. It combines the proved performance of the V-8 cylinder engine with two important new features—Dual Carburetion and perfected Clear-vision Ventilation. See it and drive it at the first opportunity.

OUTSTANDING IMPROVEMENTS IN THE NEW FORD V·8

BETTER PERFORMANCE. Greater power, new speed, quicker acceleration, smoother performance, more miles per gallon especially at higher speeds, and quicker starting in cold weather—all these result from the new dual carburetor and dual intake manifold. New waterline thermostats enable the engine to warm up more quickly and to maintain an efficient operating temperature. Added engine refinements reduce oil consumption, further improve operating economy and reduce maintenance costs.

NEW VENTILATION SYSTEM permits clear vision, prevents drafts and provides desired amount of fresh air in any weather. Individual control for front and rear side windows. When ventilation is desired the window glass is raised to the top. Then the handle is given an additional half-turn. This slides the glass back horizontally to form a narrow slot, as illustrated. Through this slot air is drawn out by the forward motion of the car. This simple ventilation system maintains draft-free circulation, insures passenger comfort, prevents fogging windshield in cold or stormy weather. Both windshield and cowl ventilator can be opened to supply additional air needed for comfortable warm-weather driving.

DISTINCTIVE NEW APPEARANCE enhanced by the newly designed chromium-plated radiator shell and grille, new hood louvres, new hub caps. Interiors are attractive, with new tufted upholstery, new mouldings, new cove-type headlining, new instrument panel, new arm rests, new hardware. Swivel-type sun visors in De Luxe bodies prevent glare from front or side.

FENDERS IN COLOR. On De Luxe cars fenders are in color to harmonize with body colors—wheel colors optional. New enamel finish on all bodies and fenders has greater wearing quality and more enduring luster.

GREATER RIDING COMFORT results from increased spring flexibility. The spring leaves are newly designed for quieter and easier action. Shock absorbers are improved. Seat cushions are deeper, with new, softer springs. New type, individual bucket seats provide increased comfort for front-seat passengers in the Tudor Sedan. Adding to comfort is the new driving ease of the 15-to-1 steering gear ratio.

PRICES REMAIN LOW — Tudor Sedan, $535. Coupe, $515. Fordor Sedan, $585. De Luxe Tudor, $575. De Luxe Fordor, $625. De Luxe Coupe (5 windows), $555. De Luxe Coupe (3 windows), $555. De Luxe Roadster, $525. De Luxe Phaeton, $550. Cabriolet, $590. Victoria, $610. *(All prices f. o. b. Pity Football Coaches ↑ Players Sacrificed
Losers Now on Spot | in Race for Gold
Greed in Sports ↓ Victory Is Demanded

By JACK CONWAY

THIS is the open season for the firing of football coaches. Others are resigning while under fire.

Football has long been pointed to as the greatest of our college sports. It has helped clear old Alma Mater meet the heavy overhead in connection with other branches of athletics which do not draw enough money at the gate to pay for the ushers.

Of course no college president or head of an athletic department at a great university will admit that one of the most important things connected with football is the ability of the sport to make money. Neither will any of these young men who sport cum laude degrees admit that a college insists upon victory on the gridiron. Such a statement would be considered placing too much emphasis on football. It would also be rated as sordid and commercial.

Yet when a college football team fails to win, the boys go seeking a friendly axeman. Those carefree French souls who regulated the working of a guillotine had as much charity in their hearts as those persons who cry for the jobs of the football coach who hasn't produced a winning combination.

Of course there are numerous poor football coaches, and I am not going to argue that they should be retained. There is no place for the inefficient in even a college football department. In many cases, however, the coach who has been put on the spot by the old grads and the student body has been handicapped by the lack of material. I understand that even in football, a coach requires the assistance of 11 able-bodied young men who know something about the gentle gridiron pastime.

When a team goes bad, nobody stops to consider what kind of material a coach had at hand. He is bombarded by his critics, and run out of his job.

The tremendous expense in connection with major football games may be an excuse for this system. It requires thousands of dollars to properly finance a football team. The matter of gate receipts then becomes an important item.

* * *

HARVARD plays the Army at football each year merely to get a large gate. There is no sane reason, other than the financial one, why a Harvard football team should play the Cadets, many of whom had three years of college football before entering West Point. Many of the Army players have had as much football experience as the professionals who are on the payroll of the Redskins.

The Army-Harvard game is a colorful affair. I always get a thrill as I watch the Cadets marching to their section of the Stadium. It is also quite thrilling to see the husky West Point players rushing onto the field, provided you do not happen to be one of the lighter and less experienced players who must oppose them.

I presume that in view of the fact college football players are only supposed to be concerned with glory and fame, and in these more modern days cash (for dear old Alma Mater). I should not get too much concerned over this matter. But when one thinks of the football players and other athletes who are crippled each year by opposing athletes who outmatch them physically, I insist upon airing my views.

President Roosevelt stated in a radio address from Washington the other night that America has been living in a period of greed during the past 25 years. He blamed greed for much of the trouble that has come upon the country during the depression. I say it is greed that causes a college athletic department to send an ordinary football team against one that is its superior in a physical way.

Until recently the Boston University football team, with barely enough men to cover the regular positions, used to go to West Point each fall for a game. It was a warm up affair for the Army, and after the contest Boston University's players would be so banged up that they were fortunate if they were able to stagger through the rest of their games.

* * *

I once knew a youngster who had as splendid a future as a boxer as anybody who ever crawled into a ring. He bowled over all opposition in the ranks of the amateurs and continued his success as a professional. He was then rushed along a bit too fast. He was put into the ring against an opponent who had much more experience.

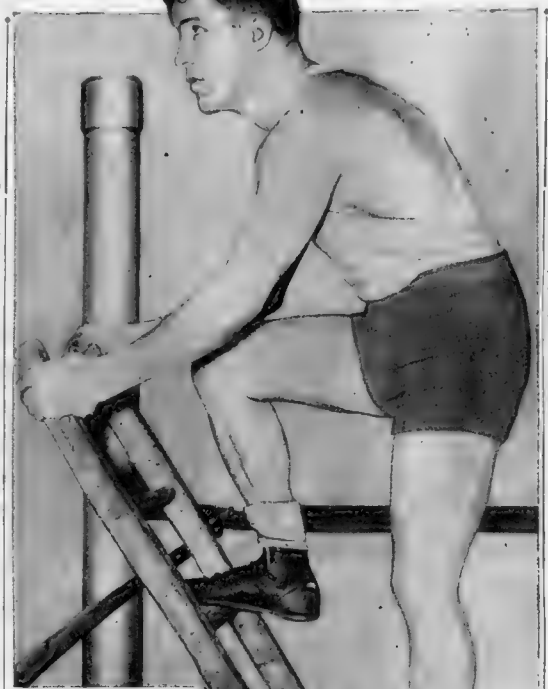
In the early rounds of the contest the youngster displayed brilliant form. He rushed past a left hand and crashed heavy blows to his opponent's head and body. But he tired as the bout went on, and his cagey rival picked up points. The boy finally experienced difficulty holding up his arms, but his determination caused him to carry on until he was knocked out. They carried the youngster to his dressing room. It was felt he would recover from the effects of the punch quickly. But he didn't. He was taken to his home, and, although the best doctors in the city worked over him, he passed out of life.

I do not like to see boys outmatched in the ring, on the mat or on the gridiron. They are so young and full of life. They give so much to life, and get so much joy out of living, their physical safety never should be jeopardized by those persons in whose care they have been placed.

* * *

IF it is a college athletic department which has the duty to guard the physical condition of these boys, they should do it. And so should our professional promoters as there isn't a single sport which is worth the life of a contestant. Neither does a sport pay such high dividends to a college or a professional promoter that an athlete should run the risk of serious injury when he is outmatched.

There is always danger of injury in sport even when teams and players are of equal ability. We must accept such risks as they are a part of life. But we can avoid the needless and unnecessary risks that are often the result of the greed President Roosevelt spoke about.



The last step up the ladder! Andy Callahan of Lawrence, who tackles Vince Dundee at the Boston Garden tonight in a middleweight crown fray, hopes to climb to the throne in the go. There are fame and riches waiting for Andy if he wins. Dundee ruled a 10-4 choice today. But odds will be much shorter when the bell rings. Callahan licked Brouillard more handily than did Dundee. And may upset the critics tonight.

Slugging Challenger Has Heavy Backing to Win

By JACK CONWAY

Vince Dundee will have to fight a tiger at bay if he is to be successful in defending his title as world's middleweight champion against Andy Callahan in their 15-round bout at the Boston Garden tonight.

The part of the proceeds of the match will be given to the Boston American Christmas Basket Fund.

Dundee was in perfect physical condition upon his arrival here following three weeks of intensive training at Sunapee, N. H. The sturdy Baltimore ring warrior who dethroned Lou Brouillard two months ago is of the opinion he will be successful in turning back the Callahan surge.

Callahan, on the short end of the betting, believes he will come through with a victory. The speculative element is wagering 10 to 6 that Dundee wins. These same bettors recently took it on the chin when they wagered 10 to 7 that Brouillard would beat Dundee.

Callahan is the last of the old line of Irish fighters in New England. He will make a mighty effort tonight to prove that he Irish can still fight. He says he will too much leather that Dundee will be unable to weather the terrific slugging Callahan looks for a knockout victory. So does Johnny Buckley, his manager.

Jack Sharkey, who has helped Callahan prepare for his meeting with Dundee, is 100 per cent behind the Irish Hard Grenade.

"I tell you," said Sharkey with emphasis, "Callahan will flatten Dundee. He will keep the champion backing up, and he will punch him silly when he gets him on the ropes. Dundee likes to box and step around. He isn't a caveman mauler and puncher like Callahan. Andy is so fast he is sure to catch up with Dundee before the bout ends.

"If Callahan licks Dundee, there isn't a boxer in sight capable of beating him. Andy is young, aggressive, smart and a socker. He will wreck all opposition."

It is expected that Callahan will be the aggressor tonight. It is the only way he knows how to fight. You may expect to see Handy Andy ripping and tearing

Coin Likes Andy on Short End

Jack Conway's famous Magic Coin is still riding with the short enders. It today picked Andy Callahan to win from Vince Dundee in their world's middleweight championship bout at the Boston Garden.

Short enders have been winning this year. Witness Carnera's knockout of Sharkey, Harry Kayo of Schmeling, Shmeling's win over Brouillard, Dundee's conquest of Brouillard. And if you must step into football Boston College's triumph over Holy Cross and Notre Dame's victory over the Army.

'SUICIDE' CARD FOR OLD ELI

New Haven, Ct., Dec. 8 (AP)—A schedule of eight major games for the 1934 Yale football team was announced today by the Yale Athletic Association, with not a single breather in a row that starts with Columbia and ends with Harvard.

"Eight games are scheduled, there will be no open date, and each game is considered a major contest," said the announcement in the Yale Alumni Weekly. There was no game this year the Saturday before the Harvard and Princeton games.

The "suicide" schedule calls for the Elis, defeated this year by Army, Georgia, Princeton and Harvard, to open their next season, Oct. 6 against Columbia, chosen this season to meet Stanford in the Rose Bowl game on the coast.

The schedule: Oct. 6, Columbia; 13, University of Pennsylvania; 20, Brown; 27, Army; Nov. 3, Dartmouth; 10, Georgia; 17, Princeton, at Princeton; 24, Harvard.

Vince Says

"Just as before my championship encounter with Lou Brouillard, I am going to forego making any prophecy other than I hope the best man wins and conducts himself like a true champion. I will say this, however, I think I will be given a much stiffer battle from Andy Callahan than I was from Brouillard. Callahan is a rip-tearing fighter with a style much harder to solve than is Brouillard's.

"I know he is going to make it hot for me from the opening gong. I have confidence I can successfully meet his vicious body attack. I hope to leave the ring as I enter it, the world's middleweight champion."

Boston Racquet Team Seeks Montreal Cup

Montreal, Dec. 8 (AP)—Five pairs of doubles players from the Boston Tennis and Racquet Club arrived today to meet the team of the Montreal Racquet Club for permanent possession of the Harry Clark Cup.

The cup has been won by each club three times and as the series was limited to seven matches under terms of the gift the winner of tomorrow's contests takes the cup outright. It is understood, however, that another trophy will be ordered to perpetuate the annual competition.

The first match for the cup was held here in 1927 and since has been alternated between the two cities.

Vines Making Plans for Tennis Tour

New York, Dec. 8 (INS)—Ellsworth Vines, former amateur tennis champion, arrives here today to complete details of his professional tour of the country with Bill Tilden. Three long trips extending through the summer are planned.

Others who will take part in the pro tournaments are Cochet and Plas of France, Vincent Richards, Bruce Barnes of Texas, Nusslein of Germany and Kozeluh of Czechoslovakia.

SCHOOL GRID ROW FLARES

While the bitter controversy in Everett over the loss of the Malden football game this year has been rampant, the demand is growing in Everett that Everett high school sever athletic relations with the Malden school.

Added fuel was placed on the fire of discontent in Everett today when Frank Braun, son of School Committeeman Gustav A. Braun, displayed an enlarged photograph of a play at the Malden game which is declared to show distinctly Malden players holding Everett players in violation of the rules, one player holding Pini of Everett by the chin and the other holding Sam Gentile by the arm, although neither these two Everett players have the ball.

Still another photo which Braun is said to have given Coach Dennis Gildea of Everett, is reported to show Malden players holding Everett players who are eligible to receive forward passes.

Coach Gildea claims that complaint was made on numerous occasions to the officials of these violations, but the officials ignored them.

Andy Says

"The chance of a lifetime is in front of me and I am not going to flunk it. Dundee will find me a different fighter than he found Brouillard. I will hew him to my size with a body attack and then I hope to knock him colder than a mackerel.

"He'll find his height and reach a bigger handicap than an aid. It's the tall fellows I beat can get in on and paste about the body. I'll make Vince Dundee think he has run into a nest of rapid-fire guns before the evening is over. I am going to bring the world's middleweight championship back where it belongs, right here in the old Bay State."

N. L. MISCELLANEOUS RECORDS PAY TRIBUTE TO BERGER'S BAT

TRIBE FIELDER SECOND ONLY TO KLEIN

By JOE CASHMAN

Wally Berger of the Braves will probably find the Miscellaneous Records, issued today from the National League headquarters, a deal more interesting than the murder mysteries which have been making haste of the recuperating hours at his Brighton apartment since his appendicitis operation early in November.

For the name of Berger is second on the list in slugging percentages; second only to that of "Chuck" Klein of the Phillies. And Klein's records are being looked on with plenty of disdain since the Philly flailer does most of his damage on that Lilliputian layout the writers term a "band-box."

Playing in the wide open spaces of Braves Field for the most part, Berger started slugging for extra bases early in the season and didn't stop until the final curtain was on his way down. Every fan remembers the home run by Wally in the last game of the season, the "$20,000 thump," which got the Braves the fourth place booty.

TOTAL BASES 298

Berger had a total base mark of 298 for 528 times at bat. His slugging percentage was .564, while Klein was but 36 points above that. Babe Herman was third, 64 points behind Berger, and the interesting records also reveal that Berger struck out the most of any man in the National League, 77 times in all. But the ones he hit made up for the whiffs.

It was the third successive year in which Klein led the National League in slugging and the boys are wondering just how much longer he'll keep it up now that he has been sold to the Cubs where he'll have longer targets to shoot at in Wrigley Field.

Mel Ott of the Giants, while his batting average wasn't too far wound up third in runs knocked in Klein circled 120 men across the plate, Berger 106 and Ott 103. Which explains the great value of Ott in Giants' world series assistant and the World Series. A team can fill the bases from now until prohibition returns but it will be a useless gesture without guys like Klein, Berger and Ott around to blast them in with the runs.

OTT MOST WALKED

Another interesting item in the Miscellaneous Records shows that Ott drew the most bases on balls for the second straight year, a total of 75. This is due partly to his size and to his slugging ability which gives opposing pitchers the palsy. Frederick of Brooklyn struck out the fewest times, 16. Watkins of the Cards was hit the most by pitchers, 12; Lombardi of the Reds hit into the most double plays, 26.

TRIPLE TIE IN BILLIARD TILT

Chicago, Dec. 8 (AP)—A pair of veterans and one of the younger stars were tied for first place in the world pocket billiards championship tournament and were certain of remaining there until tomorrow.

The shareholders were Andrew Ponzi of Philadelphia, and Erwin Rudolph of Cleveland, the veterans, and 23-year-old Jimmy Caras of Wilmington, Del. Each won his second straight match yesterday and had nothing to do on today's schedule.

Ponzi defeated Pasquale Natalle of Chicago, 125 to 109, in eight innings, while Rudolph, winner of the 1930 tournament, polished off Charles Peterex of Kansas City, Kas., 125 to 65, in six innings and set a high run mark for the tournament to date of 76. The game also was the shortest of the competition.

George Kelly, Philadelphia, who handed Greenleaf his first defeat in 23 starts in Wednesday night's match, was matched with Seaback today, and William Mosconi the rest of the Philadelphia delegation, had Natalle as his opponent in the night match Greenleaf will tackle Allen.

Sullivan Gets Letter on 'All' Gift Team!

By BILL CORUM

New York, Dec. 8 So I pick up my favorite fashion magazine, which is Harper's Bazaar, hoping to find I cannot, for the moment, recall what, and what should I come across but a piece called "The Gift Problem" by a chap named Sullivan. One of the Saratoga Springs Sullivans, where they are still trying to sell the American people on the wisdom of drinking water, and water that tastes as peculiar as the most fashionable cocktails, at that.

Under which circumstances, I haven't the slightest hesitancy in asking, what do you suppose Sullivan means by this:

"Most of the stores this year have developed what seem to me very promising squads of Christmas shoppers. Some of the old faces are missing, of course—graduation, charity homes, et cetera, but on the other hand some o' the new faces look as though they were waiting for."

Mr. Sullivan talks as though he had been looking at the face on the barroom floor. But to get on with his selection for the All-America.

"Everywhere there is a spirit of dash that I like. It seems like old times to see all this vervel and elan. In the first place, practically everybody is 'out' for Christmas shopping this year, and that is a healthy state of affairs. I have always maintained that Christmas shopping should not be limited to a few trained athletes, but should be participated in by the entire shopping body. Because even though we can't all become crack All-American shoppers, we can at least try and there is certainly nothing like holiday shopping for developing initiative, stamina and pluck."

YES, YES—GO ON!

Somehow all that has a familiar old Yuletide ring, but let us go and see what a condition he gets himself in after that.

"Now for the problem of the Christmas gift, for, despite the pleasure we all must surely feel in giving gifts to our friends, the choosing of the gifts is indeed a problem, and the problem lies mainly in avoiding the banal.

"For instance, there is the banal old custom of sending turkeys to the President. Why is it that promptly on the first of December each year, every solid American male with an extra turkey to his name feels an unconfinable urge to fatten it up and send it to the President for Christmas? The President must get pretty tired of having so many turkeys around, and anyhow a diet of turkey would provide him with far too much protein for his own and the country's good.

"On the other hand one of the defects of our American system of government is that our Vice-President does not get enough protein. The Vice-President should certainly be allowed to be a little carnivorous. A man cannot preside over a body like our Senate on a diet entirely made up of beet greens.

"What to give, what to give? Sometimes one's brain fairly reels." (There he goes, throwing gardenias at himself again.)

"I gave Benito Mussolini a complete set of knitted brows, one for use on every conceivable public occasion of state. I also gave him an always-ready salute. This is a mechanical arm timed to give the Fascist salute every three seconds. It can be fastened on the regular arm, which can then be applied to more constructive uses.

"I'm afraid Vincent Astor a yacht, a little bargain I picked up for $2,000,000, and I'm giving John D. Rockefeller, Jr., the Empire State building."

Sullivan goes on from there, but this is my selection. As a matter of fact, I hope sometime to read what he had to say. But as it is this evening I am practically tearing myself away in order not to be late for Heywood Broun's birthday party.

And thank you, Mr. Sullivan.

BEAVER ICEMEN FACE TIGERS

At midnight the Technology hockey team, headed by Capt Frank Milliken and Coach George Owen, former Harvard star, leaves for Princton, where they cross sticks with the Tigers, in the opening game for the Orange and Black, at Hobey Baker Rink, tomorrow afternoon.

The men who are making the trip are Thompson, Neiman, Lyman, Daley, Bronca, last year's captain; Sylvester, Mathias, Johnson, Williams who tallied the lone score which gave the Engineers a win over B. U. early this week, and Capt. Milliken, goalie.

The "mitkmen" have a tough assignment ahead of them for, following the game Saturday, they meet Harvard on Tuesday night at the Arena and journey to Brown on the following Saturday, where they open the Bruins' puck chasing season.

N. U. COURT FIVE FACE BROWN

Northeastern's Winter sports program opens officially tomorrow night when the Huskies travel to Providence to meet Brown in basketball. Coach Al McCoy, starting his fifth season as hoop mentor for the Huskies, will have to depend on four letter men and a sophomore to open the campaign.

Reserve material is more or less green as few of the substitutes saw much varsity action last season.

Co-captains Stan Kramer and Jake Jachym at the guards, Gay Milbrandt center, and John Morse right forward, lettermen all opposed Brown at the opening whistle a year ago. Heath Morse, the fifth starter tomorrow night, captained the Husky pups last Winter. Pete Cleveland, reserve center, against Brown in '32, has finished his N. U. court career as has Capt. Charles Brown, who started at right guard. Bill Facey, Ted Eckhoff and Ken Church other Huskies, who got into the Brown tilt are no longer in school.

Brad Johnson, reserve center, reported for basketball a year ago but a weak ankle caused him to drop the sport before mid-season. Allan Melvills and Tom Onoprienko, guards, played for the frosh under Heath Morse. Earle Lewis, center and guard, and Ed Quinlan, guard, represented the Jayvees in '32 along with Walter Abbott, forward. Bob Cookson, the other forward, going to Providence, earned frosh numerals two years ago but failed to come out for basketball last winter.

Mass. Boys Get Middlebury Awards

Middlebury, Vt., Dec. 8—Five Massachusetts men were among the 22 members of the Middlebury College football teams announced as recipients of letters at a banquet in the Middlebury Inn tonight, given by the inn manager, Richard Wildlund.

The letter men from Massachusetts are as follows

Edward Hoxie, Wollaston; Henry MacLean, East Milton; Andrew Reid, Springfield; Lawrence Lesty, Williamstown; Manager Norman Melbye, Wellesley Hill; Frank Janas, Ware, Mass., became manager for 1934.

N. Y. Americans Buy Two New Players

New York, Dec. 8 (INS)—The N. Y. Americans of the National Hockey League, had two new players today. John (Red) Doran was obtained from the Quebec Beavers of the Can-Am League and Allen Murray from the Syracuse Stars of the International League.

Both are defense men. At the same time Chris Speyer and Duke Dutkowski were released to the Syracuse stars.

Reunion on Operating Table Won't Hurt (Very Much)

Pittsburgh, Dec. 8 (AP)—Dexter Very, the old Penn State end, received a thumb fracture while officiating in the Pennsylvania-Cornell game Thanksgiving Day, but he didn't realize it at the time.

The pain became so intense yesterday, however, that he went to Dr. J. Huber Wagner, a Pitt end in Very's days, and was informed an operation would be necessary.

While the surgeon was getting ready for the job a nurse neared the nervous Very that Dr. Wagner was a very gentle man and that "everything would be all right."

"It better be," said Very, "or 'Hube' will never hear the last of it."

"Oh, you know Dr. Wagner, do you?" asked the nurse.

Passing the Puck

By BILL GRIMES

The Bruin Cubs swung back into a winning stride last night at the Garden when they defeated the Philadelphia Arrows, 4 to 3, in an exciting if not a particularly well played game.

Owner Frank Ahern issued a flat denial that Ottawa was to merge with the Americans. With President Frank Calder and Frank Patrick, managing director of the N. H. L., on hand for the Ottawa-Toronto game last night, Ahearn told his players that the reports of a merger were groundless and that Calder and Patrick were in Ottawa "routing business."

The Rangers staged one of their famous Kitty-Bar-the-Door games last night against Les Canadiens in New York and wound up in a scoreless tie. There is no club in the N. H. L. that plays so much defensive hockey as the Rangers but, fortunately for them, the New York fans do not know the difference between fancy skating and stalling for a break.

The Chicago Blackhawks moved into a first place tie with the Detroit Red Wings by pinning a 3 to 1 defeat on the Boston Cubs Tuesday night in the Windy City.

Max Kaminsky, another amateur from the Niagara Falls Cataracts, broke into the Ottawa line up last night and moreover was credited with an assist on Frank Finnigan's goal, which put the Senators out in front about half-way through the final period.

Manager Art Ross has suggested a change in the rules, which he believes will speed up the game by eliminating useless whistles. Ross will try out his idea Sunday morning during the Bruin practice, that two players allowing a player or players to enter the attacking zone before the puck, which must be carried in and if intercepted, the players must come out or they are off side.

Manager Herb Gardiner is about at his wits end because of the numerous injuries which keep cropping up around his Philadelphia Arrows. Joe McGoldrick came up with three broken ribs, just prior to the Quebec trip; Dodger Collings, who has been out all season, fractured a thumb last night, and Eddie Jeremiah had two stitches taken in his upper lip.

The Arrows are short handed but they are carrying on gallantly and will give Providence a battle tonight. Collings will be out of the game for four or five weeks, according to Dr. Martin Crotty, who set the fracture, and Manager Gardiner will not use McGoldrick until he receives an O. K. from the club physician.

During the Cub-Arrow game, there was a reunion of old time amateur hockey players. While Frank Synnott, Jerry Geran and Fred Roecue were in a huddle, Raymie Skilton, old Poo Bah himself came along, and for the next half hour, there were plenty of "do you mind the times!"

Raymie Skilton, who was the greatest amateur attraction ever developed in New England, appears to be in remarkably physical condition but admitted that the new type of hockey—forward passing—did not strike his fancy but that it did speed up the game.

The Roche brothers, Earl and Desse, enjoyed another banner evening with the Ottawa Senators, figuring in three of the four goals against Maple Leafs. Earl came up with two goals on passes from his brother, while Desse tallied once on a solo rush late in the third period.

Eddie Shore says that he would enjoy nothing better than to lend a hand towards the developing of the Berry Hockey Club, but that Ben Beresen's charges practice at as almost prohibitive hour, 7:45 a. m.

SAVOLDI GETS BROWNING GO

Jack Curley, famous New York wrestling promoter, has signed "Jumping" Joe Savoldi to meet Jim Browning in the New York Garden on Nov. 16. This is three days following Savoldi's finish bout with Ed Don George at the local Garden.

"I look for Savoldi to knock off George at the Boston Garden on next Friday night," said Curley today. "Savoldi has too much fire and dash for George. He will carry the battle to Don and will lick him.

"The Savoldi-Browning bout will then clear up the heavyweight muddle. Savoldi has already been en Jim Londos, and if he also conquers George, he will be the top man in his wrestling class."

Yankees Release Wiley Moore

New York, Dec. 8 (INS)—Wiley (Cy) Moore, famous sinker ball pitcher of the New York Yankees, today had been released to the Yankee farm at Newark, N. J. The Yankee also sent Leroy Schalk, a young infielder, there on option.

Inactive 27 Years

After playing each other in 1893, Stanford and Washington did not meet at football for 27 years, but since 1923 Stanford has won five games to Washington's' our, with two ties.

TECH MATMEN IN FINALS

Ed Boyan, a sophomore, was the sensation in the trials yesterday, and meets finalists in three classes today for honors. In the 135-pound class, in which Boyan holds the intercollegiate freshman title, he engages with Shepard, who eliminated Summerfield, regarded as a sure place winner.

The 145-pound class brings together this same Boyan and Tom McMahon, and in the 175-pound class Boyan gives away 20 pounds when he meets McCaughan, who is also a finalist in the 165-pound class. McCaughan scored a record win in the prelimins, tossing his opponent in 50 seconds.

The 155-pound match should be the closest of those to be run off with Christensen, a newcomer in wrestling circles at Tech, battling with Baggeman. Christensen won the longest bout of the tourney when he pinned Neal in 10.35 of the second overtime period.

Harold George, varsity 118 pounder, will not defend his crown as weight at the weighing in time and entered the 125-pound class, progressing to the finals. This is the only class in which the finals

JUMBO COURT FIVE AXED

Jack Rogean and Jim Kavanaugh, who were expected to assume first team berths, have been unable to meet the competition, but as they play with the second string against the first, it is obvious to the fans that they are not far outclassed, and changes in the first five may be made at any moment by Coach Lew Manly.

Jake Yaglian showed real class on the court last season, being sent into a game to break up the opposing defense at which the diminutive Jake is an expert. Yaglian will come to the first team from last year's freshmen.

Frances Stebbins W. G. A. President

Frances Stebbins of Bras Burn was elected president of the Women's Golf Club Association of Massachusetts at a meeting attended the annual meeting yesterday at the Algonquin Club.

The spring schedule was discussed with the special committee recommending a return to six districts as in 1931, as compared to the four district plan of the last two years. The week of May 23 was set tentatively for the Boston district championships at the Winchester Country Club.

NOTRE DAME COACHING STAFF RESIGNS UNDER PRESSURE

LAYDEN TAKES ANDERSON'S POSITION

Notre Dame Ind., Dec. 8 (INS)—Removal of Heartley (Hunk) Anderson and Jessie Harper as football coach and athletic director of Notre Dame University has been definitely decided on and the sweeping changes await only the official announcement of university authorities, it was learned today.

Elmer Layden, member of the famous Four Horsemen backfield of 1924 and present football coach at Duquesne University, has been chosen to take up the gridiron coaching duties of Anderson next spring.

Definite announcement of the resignations and appointment of Layden is expected to be made late tomorrow from the office of the Rev. Charles L. O'Donnell, C. S. C., president of the university.

Anderson, who drilled the famous Irish lines in Notre Dame's better days, has been gamely carrying on in the place of Knute Rockne since the latter's untimely death in an airplane accident in 1931.

CONLEY LOSS" SERIOUS

Three of Anderson's coaching assistants are scheduled to leave with their chief. They are Marchmont Schwarz, Nordy Hoffman and John Voedisch, all former stars of Notre Dame's football heyday. One assistant alone is scheduled to remain with the new athletic administration. He is Tom Conley, end coach, and an alumnus.

Layden, who romped to national fame with the Four Horsemen backfield a decade ago, made an enviable coaching record at Duquesne this fall, winning eight gridiron victories and losing but one game, to Pittsburgh.

Under Rockne's tutelage Layden developed into one of the fastest and most effective fullbacks in recent football history. Although weighing but 160 pounds he smashed some of the country's greatest lines with the drive of a 200-pounder

KEOGAN MENTIONED

It was reported that Layden had been designated to take over the duties of both Anderson and Harper and become head coach and athletic director in the same capacity that Rockne had served George Keogan, varsity basketball coach at Notre Dame, has been mentioned as a possible successor to Harper, however.

Harper came back out of retirement following Rockne's death to take up a share of the gridiron master's duties. Harper coached Rockne in the days when the latter was an undergraduate playing end on Notre Dame's team.

It was the intention of the university to proceed quietly in the removal of one regime, and the start of another. Definite official announcement was to be made Saturday, but it was impossible to keep any collegiate athletic upheaval of such proportions as this a secret for long.

ELECT VAIRO CAPTAIN

Last night, however, Notre Dame's players, only recently given a tremendous ovation upon their return from the glorious victory over Army, met in their annual monogram dinner, and proceeded to elect Dominic Vairo, of Calumet, Mich., an end, captain

Anderson, who coached them through defeat and through their last great victory, when they scored one of the year's most amazing upsets, presided at the dinner, and by no word or action suggested the blow that had fallen upon him a few hours earlier. As a player under Rockne, as a coach trying to do the impossible—fill Rockne's shoes —Anderson, to the last, demonstrated that he could "take it."

His history at Notre Dame, as a coach, has been one of trials and tribulations.

RECALL ARMY WIN

After Rockne's death, Anderson, who, with Jack Chevigny, had assisted in the coaching, was given the 1931 team to handle, and were supposed to be known as "senior" and "junior" coaches. They did not hit it off very well, but the team remained undefeated until the next to the last game of the season.

A scoreless tie with Northwestern and six successive victories brought the team into the memorable game with Southern California, which the Trojans came on to win, in the last few minutes, in a rally that had no counterpart in football, until Anderson's Notre Dame team, last Saturday, came through in the last period to score an amazing victory over Army.

Harper and Anderson Silent on Dismissal

South Bend, Ind., Dec. 8 (AP)—Jesse Harper, director of athletics at Notre Dame, and Coach Heartly (Hunk) Anderson today refused to either confirm or deny reports published in a Chicago newspaper that they had tendered their resignations along with three other members of the coaching staff.

Harper, who came from a Kansas ranch to take over the destinies of Notre Dame's athletic teams in 1931 after the tragic death of Knute K. Rockne, in an airplane crash, referred all questioners to the Rev. John F. O'Hara, C. S. C., vice-president of the university.

Anderson, whose team this year wound up its season in a blaze of glory by defeating the Army after dropping five games, winning two and fighting to a scoreless tie in another, was just as non-committal

Dundee is the finished boxer He knows every trick of the game and has displayed his fistic wares in every part of the world. He was able to deliver a crushing punch with his right duke. Vince relied my attention to the fact that he has scored seven knockouts this year, and all against first class opposition.

I talked with Dundee upon his arrival in Boston. He was particularly grateful for the fine treatment he received here among his bout with Brouillard and declared he knew he would also be treated right by Referee and New England fans tonight. Thousands of Dundee's Italian rooters will be at the ringside to see him do his stuff

The fact the show has been offered at a price scale of 50 cents to $3 has made a wide appeal to the public. It is one of the few championship matches that has ever been offered at popular prices The 17,600 seats at the Garden assure all who wish to do so an opportunity to see the bout

Special trains will be operated by the Boston & Maine from the Merrimac Valley.

Joe McKenney Is Hero to B. C. Grid Manager

By WALTER KILEY

When Dave Couhig of Beverly was selected captain of the 1934 Boston College football team, his joy knew no bounds. But so William A. Kean of Brighton, who was chosen as senior varsity manager, the position meant the realization of his boyhood and college dreams.

It meant the chance to work shoulder to shoulder with the big, great inspiration of his youthful career, the opportunity to come into direct contact with the personification of the ideals after which he has patterned his early life.

Joe McKenney, B. C. head coach, has always been Kean's hero. As Bill puts it himself, "Joe McKenney has always been sort of a God to me."

When just a kid living in McKenney's neighborhood in Brighton Kean and all his gang made it a point to take in every speech that the B. C. coach gave, especially the numerous addresses that he made before the Brighton Catholic Institute.

They listened with open mouths admiration and drank in his every word. Some 500 or 600 Brighton kids in boyhood fashion insisted McKenney their "hero" and to this day still believe him to be the outstanding figure ever produced in their native suburb.

Kean, who attended Boston Latin School, was not physically equipped to play college football But every afternoon throughout the fall season, he was at Brighton high watching Tom Scanlon putting his gridiron charges through their training sessions, just because Brighton high developed Joe McKenney

PASSED UP HARVARD

He influenced his dad to send him to Boston College instead of Harvard so that he could be close to McKenney

Bill went out for freshman football manager, and when a few weeks later the Eagles' coach mentioned Kean's name in a speech at Brighton Institute there was not holding him down

Kean's big sister attended the same school as McKenney, so that Brother Bill thus felt entitled to say hello to the coach when he met him on the street His gang thus envied him and considered him highly favored

For three full years the new senior manager has been a constant worker at Boston College practice sessions and games In all that time he has never missed as much as one practice

IN DRAMATIC CLUB

He is a member of the dramatic club and has taken part in several plays. He is assistant chairman of the junior prom committee, is a member of the writers' club, of the Fulton Debating Society and sings second bass in the glee club quartet which has given several public performances.

His biggest college ambition was to be named football manager and when the results were announced yesterday he received what he terms "the biggest thrill of my life."

As for Captain Dave Couhig, much has been written about him since his election yesterday.

Without any shadow of doubt he was the quietest man on the squad, so quiet in fact that it is said that many members of the team are not acquainted with his speaking voice

He is modest to a fault and if we may be allowed to divulge some blushing comment, is positively "girl shy," a rare specimen of the modern football player.

Prospects Gloomy for Tech Five

The Technology court team, which opens its season on the 16th, meeting an alumni team already comparable to the team which gave McCarthy the best season ever last year

With seven veterans lost through graduation and failure to return to school, the Tech mentor is rebuilding with Capt. Eugene O'Brien as the lone veteran. The present lineup of the varsity has O'Brien and Thornton at the forward positions, Murphy and McIver about even for center starting honors, with Kennedy and Lawrence as guards. Kennedy was ineligible last year and is expected to provide the defensive strength that the Beavers require

The return of Thornton to the basketball squad has brightened the hopes of the Tech hoopsters. Thornton, who was not out for the first sessions, has been on hand for the last couple of workouts. He is last year's freshman captain and had indicated earlier this fall that he would confine his athletic endeavors to competing for managerial honors on Oscar Hedlund's track team.

Hedlund Drills Beaver Trackmen

With indoor handicap meets planned weekly, Coach Oscar Hedlund of the Tech track forces is working his candidates every day on the boards.

With nearly a veteran team intact, including Capt. Bell, L. C. & A. titleholder; Walter Wrigley, Reis Schwartz, Dick Jarrell and Mel Sousa the prospects loom as more than favorable. From Hedlund's cross country team are Jenkins, Bob Mann, John Talbert and Tom Blair.

SCHEDULE HIT AS SENATORS' TROUBLE

By BILL GRIMES

During a recent visit with his Ottawa Senators, Manager George "Buck" Boucher declared that he had a far stronger team than the hockey public believed and that just as soon as he had an opportunity to stage a few practice sessions he would prove his contention

As though they were not having trouble enough trying to weather financial difficulties and fading interest, the Senators were handed a suicide schedule. During the off season there was almost a complete change in the personnel of the Ottawa club. Manager Boucher was appointed to succeed Cy Denneny, "Hec" Kilrea was sold to Ottawa for $12,000 and Bob Gracie, who in turn was dropped to the Bruins in a trade for Bud Cook and Ted Saunders. Albert Leduc was acquired from Les Canadiens, Jerry Shannon and Scotty Bowman turned pro, forsaking the Cataracts of Niagara Falls for Ottawa.

From Armistice Day through Thanksgiving Day, the Ottawa Senators played 13 games, almost one quarter of their entire schedule. Passing practically every other night it was impossible for the Senators to practise and as a result the club dropped seven games in a row. But during their run of defeats, the Ottawans displayed great promise, at least to their manager, who never lost faith in them, for six of the seven setbacks were by one goal margins.

"I've a pretty good club," stated Manager Boucher, "and we'll win more than our share of games before the close of the season."

RUN OF BAD LUCK

"After taking Les Canadiens and Maroons as a starter, 'Lady Luck' deserted us and it has been a nightmare ever since. The same club that gave us a beating was Toronto and the fact that there was no crease or any of those red slove covers on the Maple Leaf Garden ice put us in poor mental condition before the start of that game.

"Please don't ask me anything about that 3-to-2 affair with Americans. We were the favorite up going into the third period and the first thing I knew we were trailing. I'll never get over that one."

Manager Boucher has been sold on Scotty Bowman and Jerry Shannon since the opening practice session of the year. He declared that they were the most valuable players on the Ottawa roster and that within a couple of seasons they will be N. H. L. standouts.

The Welland for Voss trade was at the suggestion of Manager Boucher. Cooper is a defense star to play in Ottawa. He was given a $250 raise but informed Boucher that he wanted to play with a club that had a chance to get in the play offs. That was enough for "Buck." Cooney went to Detroit for Carl Voss

Since seeing Shannon and Bowman, Manager Boucher has been angling for more Niagara Falls amateurs. He has been dickering with Walter "Dutch" Smithfield, who played on the Cataract defense with Bowman last year, and in the meantime, he signed Max Kaminsky, from the Cataracts.

NIAGARA IN ARMS

After losing such an array of stars, the management of the Niagara Falls team is up in arms but Boucher has troubles of his own without taking any from amateur promoters, so he is still gunning to get Kaibfleish to join the Senators.

Prior to their game with Toronto last night, the Senators had a week of practice, due to a break in the N. H. L. schedule. They worked out daily in the Ottawa Arena and lived up to Manager Boucher's predictions by beating the Maple Leafs, 4 to 1.

Although we still contend that Ottawa is not a major league city, we must admit that Manager Boucher has gathered a club which possesses more color and is a better box office attraction than any Ottawa team in years.

For the first time since "King" Cluney was the idol of his home town, Ottawa now has something saleable in the way of players and if Owner Frank Ahearn is going to dispose of his club to American interests, now is the time and the quicker the better, for by playing before the meager home crowds that turn out the Senators will get their stabbers down and then it will be another case of a promising outfit going to seed through lack of incentive

Major Leagues Differ on Broadcasting

New York, Dec 8 (AP)—Baseball club owners of the National and American Leagues had a meeting today to discuss the subject of broadcasting baseball games.

Jackson will be with us next year," insisted Tierney. "There wasn't anything wrong with his knees in the World Series, was there?"

WORLD SERIES TO STAY

The World Series will stay with the broadcasts.

As for Moore, Tierney scouted reports that the little outfielder was greatly ill. "He had a minor operation last month," Jim said, and is almost ready to play right now."

M. Lyndon, who is to preside at the meeting, is asked to cast a vote on either question he wishes on a hot spot.

A. L. THUMBS DOWN

Announcement was made that the American League has adopted a resolution disapproving the broadcasting of baseball games.

The resolution, which was passed unanimously, reads as follows:

"Baseball broadcasting has been carried on for the past few years under conditions which have been detrimental to baseball and baseball interests. The broadcasting of baseball games has been a source of annoyance to baseball patrons and baseball players, and has been a source of loss to baseball clubs. Baseball broadcasting has been a source of loss to baseball clubs. Baseball broadcasting has been a source of loss to baseball clubs. Baseball broadcasting

RKO BOSTON TO HOUSE Some of Stage's Biggest Hits -:- -:-

"The Student Prince" and Ben Bernie With His Band Are on New Policy's Program

By GEORGE HOLLAND

That ol' Bilitken—the legitimate theater—can't be kept down entirely. Failing of being placed in two-act glory on the various adequate stages of the city, he pops up now in tabloidal force all over the RKO circuit. Charles W. Koerner, an extremely young astute fixer, who is divisional manager of a variegated set of territories including Boston and not excluding, for instance, Syracuse and Rochester, arrived in town last night with a kit-bag full of plans.

* * *

He plans to give the citizens a peek at "The Student Prince," which J. J. Shubert set upon the stage of the old Ass Yorkisan Theater, New York, eight years ago at boom prices, and the citizens will be able to brush past a doorman for 30 cents, 40 cents, or 50 cents, at the RKO Boston theater, Washington st.

E. W. Koerner

This is but one number in Mr. Koerner's merchandising catalogue. The ol' maestro Ben Bernie, who probably for politic reasons will not agree with Walter Winchell's excoriation of Boston's critics, will be sold to the customers at the same moderate admission scale. And with him will come his bandsmen. Ben and all his Lads, and "The Student Prince," with a cast of 68 including a male chorus of 48 voices is only two-fifths of the immediate program.

* * *

Other Hits Coming

Now we come to "Artists and Models of 1933" and, blow me down if the whole business does not resemble a complete capitulation on the part of my friends, the Messrs. Lee and J. J. Shubert. For these two powerful stage producers have never had a picture hook-up in my recollection, and they will be favorably remembered as entrepenours of both "The Student Prince" and all the "Artists and Models."

The other two-fifths of the Koerner program comprises Earl Carroll's "Sketch Book," with Will Mahoney playing part of the part he played on Broadway, and "Strike Me, Pink" with, none other than James Barton in the role Jimmie Durante played for less than a dozen weeks in the Spring in New York.

And when it's all said and done, I don't like it. I gloat with the populace over being able to see these really fine creations of our best writers, and our best composers, for small fees. But Earl Carroll cost a hacker millions of dollars to build up his name as representative of high-priced entertainment. So did George White, who has already sold his "Scandals" down the river to the picture houses.

* * *

Still a Big Attraction

"Strike Me Pink" cost the temporarily-confined Waxie Gordon an awful lot of money, for he was the show's backer. "The Student Prince" could be sent out now as a full-length musical and draw a public in one of several darkened houses in Boston. "Strike Me Pink" never was toured, due to the defection of Jimmie Durante, who went back to Hollywood. Had he continued with the show, and had Lupe Velez chosen to give fans of the hinterland a view of her picturesque self in person, I think the temporarily-confined Mr. Gordon would have gotten back some of the money he used up in the show's production.

Aside from my personal slant, I think Mr. Koerner should be given a slap on the back for his good showmanship in n., finding a series of motion-picture theater attractions like the ones here enumerated. The stockholders should thank him, too.

Sergei Rachmaninoff, one of the greatest of all pianists, will give a recital next Sunday afternoon, at 3:30 o'clock in Symphony Hall. His program includes both his own compositions and transcriptions. He will play: Sonata in D minor, opus 31, No. 2, by Beethoven; Sonata in E major (For violin alone,) by Bach, transcribed by Rachmaninoff; Rondo in D major, by Schubert; Suite, by Debussy; Scherzo, by Borodin; Scherzo from Mendelssohn's "A Midsummer Night's Dream;" and his own Variations on a Theme of Corelli, and Two Preludes.

Two Scores on List Are New

Two new scores will be heard at the next regular pair of concerts by the Boston Symphony Orchestra, to be given in Symphony Hall Friday afternoon and Saturday evening of next week. Dr. Koussevitzky will then give the first performance in America of Markevitch's Introduction and "Hymn." This latest score of the 21-year-old composer was heard in Paris last summer. Markevitch was introduced to America when his "Rebus" was performed at these concerts in the season past.

Emerson Whithorne, the American composer, will be first heard at these concerts when his new "Moon Trails" has its first performance. "Moon Trails" is a symphonic suite, inspired by the composer's sojourn in Mexico and our Southwest.

Jean Bedetti will appear as soloist, playing with the orchestra Ernest Bloch's Rhapsody, "Schelomo" (Solomon").

Manhattan Is the Locale

For its new "glorified burlesque" show, the Old Howard on Monday will present the Wilner Wheel offering, "Manhattan Nights," under the direction of Allan Gilbert. Among the favorites will be Harry Arnie, "Billie" Diamond, Patsy Johnson, Lou Devine, Lou Leroy, Jean Bodine, Gene Allen, and Bubbles Yvonne.

In the continuous part of the bill, Tony Shucco, light heavyweight champion of New England, will make a personal appearance in which he will challenge all comers on the stage. Li Hang, Chinese magician, is featured in the vaudeville. Another act is John Quigg, accordionist.

Paul Muni in "I am a Fugitive," and "Hidden Gold" with Tom Mix, are the photoplays. The midnight show comes Friday at 11:30.

Otto Kruger Brilliant Aide to Clever Heroine in Film of Mixed Love and Hate

By HARLEIGH SCHULTZ

Barbara Stanwyck glows on and on, and in the films, which, unfortunately, glow only intermittently. This lady continues to be a steady luminary; possessed of an unusual following, in size of numbers, she lives up to their expectations in "Ever in My Heart," given the feature place on the new program at the Paramount and Fenway. And for those who wish to add a new star to their ken, there is Otto Kruger, a gentleman who has the strange fate of being imported from the stage to be a character actor, and who turns out to be one of the finest of leading men.

* * *

Through a rather weepy narrative these two principals carry conviction . . . as conducting themselves that the theme's sympathy is ever in the audience heart, however much it stray from the path of the believable. They together create the illusion of reality, which after all, is the blood and bone of screen appeal. Abou the middle the story breaks its back; but you would never know it from the way it steps on tugging at one's sympathy.

Barbara Stanwyck

* * *

Tale of Joy and Sorrow

Here in New England the tale begins. Home from abroad comes Ralph Bellamy, bringing his German-born pal of college days, Kruger. These scenes are beautifully done—Miss Stanwyck pimping to greet her childhood sweetheart . . . then the reunion . . . her falling in love with the visitor . . . wedding bells and the baby . . . the little dachshund for a pet . . . the loving cup to the chemistry professor when he becomes an American citizen . . . all this is done in spirited manner.

* * *

The milkman's call, telling you how long the festivities lasted . . . the morning paper, windblown, revealing the war motivation . . . these are glorious touches of Director Archie Mayo at his best . . .

An exquisite introduction is this, to set the pace and establish the undercurrent. But the tempo slows up. Yet for a while this can be forgiven; inasmuch as the film goes courageously tackling the problem of wartime hatreds, still rankling inside of many. Again, the process is skillfully handled, the people and their motives clear chiseled. Kruger, because of his birth, becomes the object of ostracism. He is dismissed as teacher, urged to change his name, he refuses.

* * *

His child dies. He is looking for a job, any job. Then, in despair, he sends his wife to her family, and writes her a note that, scorned in his adopted country, he is going home to fight for his fatherland.

Same Fate for Both

Up to here, you have the making of expert photodrama. From now on, it drags, losing its dramatic virtues in scenes behind the battle lines.

The upshot of it all is that Miss Stanwyck and Kruger meet in France, he's recognized by her as a spy, she being a canteen worker. Rather than let him carry off the secret of an impending Allied attack, she p sons him and herself.

* * *

On the whole I found the picture strong enough to hold me to the finish. But I must say that its brightest assets are Miss Stanwyck and Kruger, with Mayo's ordinarily deft hand crippled by the latter half of his story.

* * *

Jackie Cooper is seen on the same program, this time as a cowpuncher, no less. The vehicle is "Lone Cowboy," with a basic idea not unlike that of "The Champ." It is rather slow for a Western, but now and then its drama crops up refreshingly, especially toward the end. Thanks be, there is Lela Lee as the central woman figure, although a bad 'un in this yarn. But she acts the role very well, thank you.

Merry Men Go Mad for Fun

Harpo and Chico Marx, in one of the nonsensical scenes from "Duck Soup," in which all four brothers play zany for mirth's sake. Film comes to Modern tomorrow, and to Scollay, Sunday.

Big Concert on Sunday Bill

Fabien Sevitzky and the People's Symphony Orchestra, assisted by the leader's vocal ensemble of 60 voices, will present as the featured musical offering of their fourth concert, to be given in Jordan Hall next Sunday at 3:15, E. Bloch's "America," an epic rhapsody in three parts. The ensemble also will also be heard during the say m phony's rendition of Mozart's "Requiem."

Fabien Sevitzky

The overture to Mozart's "The Magic Flute" is the third number on this program, one of the most important musically to be offered by the People's . . .

Majestic Set for Screen

"The Road to Ruin," a film, based on juvenile delinquency and sin, and approved by leading social welfare workers, will have its New England premiere at the Majestic Theater Monday, opening an indefinite engagement at that playhouse. The film is announced for "adults only"—none under 18 years of age will be admitted.

Petting parties, gambling orgies, innocent girls lured away by lurid scenes in this movie.

The story of "Road to Ruin" centers about the reckless abandon of Helen Ann Dixon, young high school girl, feels. Helen Foster plays this role. Parental neglect comes in for its share of criticism in this film, for it is the inattention of Ann's parents that leads here to temptation.

"Road to Ruin" will be shown continuously beginning at 10 o'clock each forenoon. There will be no reserved seats.

BE

By TED COOK

Egg Clubs are being organized in Louisiana for the purpose of greeting Senator Huey Long, at every opportunity, with a shower of barnyard confetti.

Perhaps such innocent fun offers the ultimate solution to the farmers' over-production plight.

It's fair play—let the spectators throw eggs and let the Senators throw fits.

The people who complain about
Being put into a wrong light
Have frequently, there is no doubt,
Merely been put in a strong light.

Awk.

But anyway, there seem to be fewer and fewer people who insist upon calling a spade one of nature's mistakes.

But maybe that means that the old philosophy of industry operated at a profit is not feeling so well.

Q. and A. DEPARTMENT

Dear, Sympathetic Aunt Bella:

When sending flowers to a young lady who has come home from abroad, what would be appropriate to write on the card with the name? Upset.

Ans.—Auntie B. thinks "Hire a hall" would be appropriate.

A. ("Experienced") Bella.

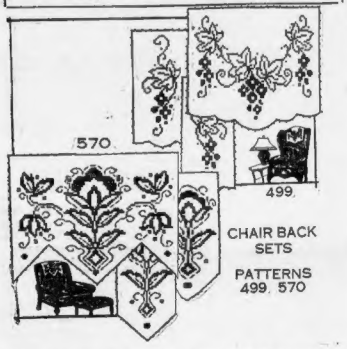
Easy Chair-Back Sets



Here are practical and welcome Xmas gifts that have the added advantage of taking little time to do. What housewife could not find a place for another chair-back set, that useful and decorative accessory? First used in the loveliest homes, where they are a fitting decoration. These are done in large crosses which makes it possible to make many sets for gifts in a short time.

Patterns 499 and 570 each come to you with a transfer pattern of one chair-back design 12¼x15 inches and 2 arm rests 6½x12 inches; detailed instructions and yardages for making the set.

Send 10c for each pattern (20c for both), to Boston American, Needlecraft Dept., 82 Eighth ave., New York city.

Roosevelt's Wise Words

Real Meaning of Repeal

President Roosevelt's proclamation of the repeal of the 18th Amendment should be read and pondered by all good citizens.

It hits the nail absolutely on the head!

No one who reads it can mistake the true and underlying purpose of repeal nor the grave and sober reasoning which brought the nation to its decision to have done with national prohibition.

Let us see what the President says in this memorable proclamation.

He makes a "personal request" to every individual and family to co-operate with the government in restoring greater respect for law and order, by confining all purchases of alcoholic beverages to licensed dealers. Thus, he points out, will the illicit liquor traffic be destroyed, and the government assured of needed revenue from taxation which a legal and authorized traffic will not seek to evade.

Here Mr. Roosevelt puts his finger upon one of the gravest abuses chargeable to prohibition—the destruction of respect for law and order and the effects, both social and economic, of a vast, unregulated and untaxed traffic in liquors, which is outside the law.

The President then touches upon another aspect of repeal which must never be lost sight of. The resumption of the legal sale of alcoholic liquors will be sadly misunderstood if it is deemed to mark a return to the conditions that prevailed before prohibition, namely—the saloon and the stimulated consumption of liquor for commercial profit. Nothing could be more remote from the thought or purpose of the people.

"I ask the wholehearted co-operation of all our citizens to the end that this return of individual freedom shall not be accompanied by the repugnant conditions that obtained prior to the adoption of the 18th Amendment and those that have existed since its adoption.

"I ask especially that no state shall by law or otherwise authorize the return of the saloon either in its old form or in some modern guise.

"The policy of the government will be to see to it that the social and political evils that have existed in the pre-prohibition era shall not be revived nor permitted again to exist."

Here is a veritable charter of sound living and good conduct—a call to duty, both individual and political.

The President's request for co-operation will have a country-wide response. The heart and conscience of the people will give answer to him in terms of full assent.

And as to the various Legislatures, now called upon to formulate regulations for the intra-state control of the sale and distribution of liquors, no state can disregard the clear and unmistakable fact that President Roosevelt in his proclamation has voiced the deliberate judgment and the moral convictions of the nation.

The duty rests upon all good citizens, wherever they reside, TO GIVE EXPRESSION AND EFFECT—in their individual conduct, in their political action as voters, in their representative action as elected officials—TO THE SOLEMN, TIMELY AND ENLIGHTENED WORDS OF THE PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES.

For White-Collar Aid

A Good Suggestion

Chairman Bartlett and State Treasurer Hurley of the Civil Works Board insist that compensatory employment must be provided for clerks, engineers, architects and such, and they are to be commended for this insistence.

The national program of emergency public works is one of the most salutary means yet devised for the economic recovery of the Nation and for the relief of hardship, but it has been confined for the most part to the artisans and hand-workers.

The white-collar men were very severely hurt by the hard times. In fact, we have seen the engineers put on public charity entertainments in behalf of their professional colleagues who were utterly destitute. Thus far, the white-collar workers in the offices have derived only the indirect benefits of the national public works program.

The case of the teachers out of work is much in point. The local governments discharged them, "in the interest of economy," and emptied them into the army of the unemployed at a time when the national government was seeking means of relief for the vast army already unemployed. Moreover, the discharge of the teachers actually crippled the system of public education in this country and was the falsest and most unmeritorious species of "economy."

Messrs. Bartlett, Hurley and Coy of the Civil Works Board have received many suggestions calculated to provide gainful employment for the white-collar folks. Perhaps none is more fruitful than the plan to make a scientific survey of automobile accidents in the State under the auspices of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

In the past twelve years more than 8000 lives have been sacrificed in auto accidents in this Commonwealth alone. In the past six years there have been over 250,000 non-fatal accidents while 1000 children have been killed and over 60,000 children injured in auto mishaps.

Thus a survey could be made that might reduce the frightful slaughter while providing really constructive employment for 1000 white-collar workers in this task alone. Go to it.

Our Vanishing Army

It Needs a Few Men

After the World War, Congress awoke to the fact that when an army is needed, it is needed badly.

Before the war, Congress had felt with the late William Jennings Bryan that an army was a luxury—a million farmers would spring to arms and it would be "good night" for the enemy.

The war showing differently, the National Defense Act was passed in 1920, giving us an army which could safeguard the country until the million farmers were mustered in and trained.

Judging by world conditions, we need an army today even more than we did in 1920.

Other Americans think the same.

All Out of Style

A Job for One Million Young Americans

By James T. Williams, Jr.

A great adventure awaits the more than 1,000,000 young Americans from Maine to California who will come of age during the new year just ahead.

This is the opportunity to explore, conquer and civilize what has been aptly described as "the dark continent of American politics"—county and local government in the several states.

To engage effectively in this adventure, however, the young pioneers who enter upon it must possess three qualifications:

2—A firm resolve to penetrate the jungle that covers this dark continent of American politics and the courage to face the conditions which this jungle hides.

3—The common sense to follow the trail and the ability to unite in support of a leadership worthy of the cause—a leadership that will not falter until an obsolete system of government "which was built up in the days of the ox cart," as President Roosevelt says, and has become an insult to civic intelligence and an injury to the public welfare in these days of the automobile.

The conquest of the dark continent of American politics is not a job for partisans. It is a job for young pioneers quickened with a spirit of patriotism strong enough "to put the cause above renown."

RIGHTS OF THE PEOPLE

This is no fight for Democrats or Republicans, as such, because, as the late Senator Beveridge, of Indiana, who knew the game of politics from A to Z, once indignantly declared:

"The battle is not so much between political parties, as such, as between the rights of the people and the powers of pillage."

As this American statesman truly said:

"A political party is not a group of politicians, each with his following, combining to win the spoils of place and power. Such an organization is not a party—it is a band of brigands and its appeals in the name of the party are mere attempts to beguile and defraud the voter for its selfish purposes. Such organizations and men are the tools and agents of lawless interests which know no party, attempt to use all parties and practice only the politics of profit."

This is true of county governments in states all over the union today; it is true of local governments today in communities north, east, south and west.

President Roosevelt knows what he is talking about when he denounces this outworn system of government because he had to contend with it while he was governor of the State of New York.

Although the Empire State of the union is far from being in the heart of "the dark continent," conditions there are bad enough to challenge the organized hostility of all young pioneers who are approaching the voting age or have recently attained it.

TOO MANY UNITS

For example, the State of New York today, outside of New York City, is divided into 57 counties, cut up in 932 towns, 59 cities and 35 villages. In these have been organized fire, water lighting, sewer, sidewalk and improvement districts to the number of 2467. In addition are 8904 school districts, making a total of 13,497 municipal units outside of New York City.

Many citizens of New York State are living under 11 different layers of government. The towns and counties alone have supported over 15,000 officials, and the people are paying tribute to over 15,000 tax collectors.

What is true of New York State is bad enough, but there are conditions in other states of the union which are even worse. In fact not one of the 48 states of the union can yet boast of a system of state and local government sufficiently simplified to meet the challenge of a new day.

Even so well governed a state as the Commonwealth of Massachusetts is still plagued from one end to the other by the extravagances of the county ring and by its sinister grip on county and local government.

And until the dark continent of politics is explored, conquered and civilized by an invading army such as only the younger voters of America can raise, government in the several states will continue to totter, public education to suffer, the administration of justice to falter, and the political racketeers of county and local government to feed at the public trough.

New York Day by Day

New York, Dec. 8—Thoughts while strolling: Some day I'm going to ring the Cornelius Vanderbilt bell and inquire if they take roomers. Two dukes in a block — "Duke" Harrick and "Duke" Cross. So many dogs named Skippy. Lois Long's rosy cheeks. What became of Este Janis? I wish Mary McCormic could keep out of print a while.

Every dinner party has a Mae West imitator.

All it requires is a hand on the hip and a whiney: "Why don't you come up to see me sometime?" One word description of Elsa Maxwell—burbly. Frank Case looks the least of all like a hotel keeper. And Frank Sullivan, like a humorist.

I. P. Morgan, an Arlington, N. J. boy, who made good in the city. Those lizard-among-the-hot-stones darts of Jules Glaenzer. Heywood Broun wrote the peciest of the Texas Guinan eulogies. Bob Scripps' beard is now flecked with gray. If I never saw the scene again, what would I want most to remember?

That mounted cop's a ringer for Chicago's Dick Greiner. Carl Van Vechten, after a year on the wagon, still goes to cocktail parties. I can recall but one toast, Kipling's: "My lords, ladies and gentlemen: For what there is of it—for such as it is, and for what it may be worth—will you drink to England and the English?"

One of my favorite people—Arthur Samuels. The beautiful Mrs. Ray Rohn. Limousines outside the five and tens. Dr. Christian Reisner and Bide Dudley, once buddies in Kansas. Lennie Bergman, Erlinger's nephew. If you care for a nice hooting, pass those garages in the 50's, wearing spats.

One of the newer audacities at private affairs is the deaf journalist from Vienna who interviews guests "for a descriptive article for his paper." His broken-up efforts at English, plus his inability to hear, overcome the natural resentment at his impertinent questions. Everybody is about ready to kill him before it is learned he is—of all things—a white haired Irishman named Peter Joseph McNamara.

McNamara, after a perspiring 15 minutes, insisted upon me spelling out my name at top voice. Finally he beamed understandingly: "Ach, I see—Whoo-whoo Mackelgarey!"

A former newspaperman who became a Wall Street customer's man went from a $65 a week post to a $35,000 a year job. He floriated in a duplex apartment in West 57th street, entertaining lavishly until the crack-up. He is now in a Texas town running a garage and today a friend received a letter: "I am living comfortably enough but I'm not going to say happily. Jim Brady spoke the truth when he said: 'It's fun being a sucker if you can afford it.'"

Murray Hill at twilight is a vortex in the surrounding hurricane. Like London's Wimpole street, the mellow aristocracy is felt. With blinds down, one feels certain great logs are blazing in tremendous drawing rooms and that white mustached gentlemen in unstylish tuxedoes are sipping Sandeman port. Below stairs servants are cracking their evening buzz of gossip.

Listen, World!

By Elsie Robinson

A Tall Building

I am working in an office.

I hate offices. I want to kick down the walls; then go out and blow up the streets—and let the grass come back again, and the wide sunlight, and the rough, free wind.

Why, I wonder, do men, who might build paradises for themselves, bind themselves instead in rat runways?

I think these things to myself as I sit working. But it is hard to hold myself to my work. It is hard to forget the deep woods where I have been living and the sweet silence.

Elsie Robinson

So I prowl around, hating walls, hating sounds, thinking how dreadful city life is. These miles of dark, filthy alleys—these acres of ugly, huddled roofs—how hopeless they make our human life seem! If this is all we can do for ourselves after millions of years of opportunity—

Abruptly I stop—look up.

Vaulting from out the darkness of the alleys, towering above the meanness of the roofs, there rises a tall building. It is so base. Up and up its great shaft soars, out of the noise and filth, the conflict and confusion—into the endless blue.

And against that blue, it no longer seems a building. Its substance vanishes. It is a gleaming fountain—a shimmering mirage—a white dream.

Just as this building rose, triumphant out of the filth of alleys; the darkness of roofs, so did the dream which created it rise above the ignorance and ugliness of our stupid spirits.

Willfully we wall ourselves into dark rat-ways of spirit and flesh. But out of those rat-ways we send a shining signal soaring up to God!

And I thought of all of us—the confusion in me, the confusion in you—the loneliness and malice, the hunger and hate—the whole ugly clutter which we have made out of lives which might have been so beautiful and free. Day after day, year after year—from birth to death —we crawl through that clutter, grieving, rebelling.

All this we do to ourselves. And yet—

Always, in every life, there is a Tall Building!

Always, above the darkness, rises some clean hope, some shining faith—some shaft of beauty signaling to God.

Just Folks

Modern Hardships

We who were poor in the earlier days some pleasures were forced to forsake.
With patches our clothing was mended at times; we did without ice cream and cake.
We walked to save carfare and all winter long the ashes we sifted to save
The few bits of coal that perhaps would still burn,
For the need to be careful was grave.

We measured our care by a richer man's ease, but the luxuries then were but few.
Our shoes were worn thin at the soles and the heels, for we couldn't afford to buy new.
Still we lived and grew strong though but little we had.
We survived all our hardships somehow,
But I think it was easier then to be poor than it is to face poverty now.

We've builded up needs through the years that have flown that never were dreamed of before.
The demands on us all are so numerous now that we've come to require more and more.
What were luxuries once are but commonplace wants and poverty pinches and stings
Much worse than it did in the rugged old days when we didn't depend upon things.

We've been softened by comforts and pleasures so long that most of us now have forgot
How we lived in the days before motor cars came, though it may be our parents have not.
It was hard to be poor in the old oil lamp days, but I'm sure it is worse beyond doubt

Ignition for the Human Machine Comes From the Busy Vitamins

By Edwin C. Hill

Vitamins—that's what we call them—and they are described as minute quantities of substance which are to the human machine what the ignition spark is to the automobile." We know where they are, where they come from, what they do. And now, since the American Medical Association has determined on an exhaustive study of their mysterious properties, perhaps we will find out definitely what some of them are.

It is some 50 years since German and English scientists discovered that certain other elements besides these 4 pure carbohydrates (which are the sugar and the starches) the proteins or albuminous substances, fats and salts, were essential if life was to be sustained. Experiments on animals showed that these substances of themselves were insufficient for new growth and for supplanting worn out and dead tissue.

Then began the painstaking research work into foods and their effects. An English scientist, Hopkins, fed a known unbalanced diet of carbohydrates to animals. They gradually wasted away to a dying stage, whereupon he added milk. Immediately they began to recover. It remained for the Americans, McCollum and Davis, in 1913, to find that substances extracted from eggs and butter greatly facilitated the growth of rats when such substances were added to a chemically-known diet.

"F" IS CAST AWAY

Six vitamins designated by the letter of the alphabet A—B—C—D—E—and G have been discovered and labeled. You will notice that the letter F is missing, and the reason for this is that at one time there was supposed to have been a Vitamin F, but it has since been discarded by the bio-chemists.

We hear so much of vitamins these days that they are as common as sunlight, for all of their mysteriousness. Vitamin A is called anti-opthalmic because of its connection with curing an eye disease. It is found in 27 varieties of our common foods, covering practically all the edible vegetables and fruits and being especially prominent in cod liver oil, egg yolk, milk and spinach. Vitamins appear to be totally absent from fresh meat and fish, with the exceptions of the liver, kidney, brains and fish roe.

A lack of vitamin A brings on inflammation of the eyelids, a disease which, if neglected, leads to blindness. It causes a low resistance to infection of the eyes, ears and sinus. Other results of its absence are stunted growth and a lessening of the possibilities of longevity. Fortunately a surplus of A vitamin may be stored in the body and when this is the condition, there is increased zest or stamina, an enhancement of health and an ability to resist disease.

HELP FOR BAD NERVES

Vitamin B is called anti-neurotic because its discovery was the result of the curing of a nervous disease. It is known to contain two or more essential substances.

Because of this fact the English chemists have a Vitamin B-1, which corresponds to what the Americans designate as Vitamin G. B, B-2 and B-3, individually or combined, is essential to normal health in all ages and when it is lacking we have such results as loss of appetite, indigestion, stunted growth, nervousness, beriberi in man, polyneuritis in animals and constipation.

The best sources of this vitamin are whole grain cereals, tomatoes, kidney and navy beans, raw cabbage and fresh spinach. It is present in larger than the average amounts in yeast products, cream, fruits, potatoes, nuts, liver and egg yolk, and it is to be found in practically all vegetables and in milk, where the amount varies with the diet of the cow.

It is interesting to note that the source of the Javanese disease beriberi was discovered by a Dutch scientist to be the diet of polished rice of the natives. The polishing process removed the shell and with it the elements of Vitamin B.

FOR THE CHILDREN

Now to the third known Vitamin, C, which is called anti-scorbutic, since it first was known as a cure for scurvy. Only a limited diet, totally lacking in fruits and vegetables, would cause one to have a deficiency of this vitamin. But where it is absent, there is a reduced state of health, defective teeth, scurvy, fleeting pains and instability.

D is the children's vitamin, and the reason why they should take their cod liver oil like soldiers, drink their milk and get out in the sunshine. It is called anti-rachitic, because it prevents or cures the disease known as rickets, in which the bones are unable to calcify or harden. An absence of the vitamin tends also to impair the lungs. The element can be produced in foods by irradiation with ultra violet rays, and it also gets into the system by exposure to the sun.

The E Vitamin is essential in animal reproduction. This sterility substance is found in greatest abundance in the oil of the wheat germ, in seeds and green leaves, and in beef liver and egg yolk. The amount varies widely in milk and is almost absent in animal tissue. Such is the story of vitamins as chemistry knows them today.
